Our Disgraces
Birkenhead Is Here
Unconvincable Lindbergh
A Fight for John D.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

WE have an assortment of "national disgraces." One, our high percentage of illiteracy, another the high efficiency of bootleggers, hijackers, organized criminals.

Another is the official usury established by the Federal Reserve as a basis for dealing in American securities.

OUR worst disgrace is the fact established by the American Association of Obstetricians, Gynecologists and Abdominal Surgeons, that this nation has the highest maternity death rate in the civilized world.

Of the thousands of mothers dying every year in childbirth, 65 per cent are killed by septicemia and toxemia, both preventable.

MANY such deaths could be avoided, if some department of the government was as interested in the safe birth of a child as is the agricultural department in the birth of a new calf or a litter of small pigs.

THE Earl of Birkenhead, secretary of state for India, who gave up his job in the British government to go into business, is now in the United States.

Lord Birkenhead says the British Labor government is "for state ownership in the abstract and hopelessly unable to take any steps in that direction."

OUR government is against state ownership in the abstract, the concrete and the indefinite, and it wouldn't take any steps in that direction if it could.

If you meet Lord Birkenhead you will see an able Britisher.

COL. LINDBERGH with his wife started yesterday on a flight over the Caribbean.

A dangerous flight, it has stretches of miles with no possible landing. Fortunately, the world's best flier is in charge.

ONE of the nation's highest officials begged Col. Lindbergh to run no more risks, saying that an accident to him would mean "a great blow to the affections of the nation."

Said he afterward, "I produced no effect, for Colonel Lindbergh declined at the outset to admit any danger in flying."

MRS. LINDBERGH seems to have adopted Roosevelt's motto "deeds, not words." No young woman interests the American public more than she does, and since her marriage she has not uttered one word for publication.

COL. R. W. STEWART, formerly head of Standard Oil of Indiana, beaten in a fight with Mr. Rockefeller, is on his way to England.

Perhaps he goes to join the Shell Company in a great British Oil merger and anti-Standard Oil fight.

Colonel Stewart will visit Sir Henry Deterding, head of British "Shell," the biggest Rockefeller rival in the world's oil trade.

IF THE British want action and an American representative who knows the oil business, they show intelligence in selecting Col. Stewart.

It looks like a real oil fight.

Betting is wrong, and apart from that, it might be unwise to bet against the Rockefellers. They have never acquired the habit of losing.

ALBERT OTTINGER, able New Yorker, returns from Russia amazed at his discovery that all Russian convicts, except political prisoners, have every year two weeks' vacation to visit relatives.

Mr. Ottinger was "startled by Russia's achievements in industrial undertakings."

PERHAPS our government underestimates those Russians.

We did well after we got rid of King George. Russia may be doing as well having got rid of a czar that made King George look like a brilliant statesman.

MR. L. F. LOREE, who believes in mergers, and big ones, would like to combine 17 railroads with the Delaware and Hudson.

Common sense says the bigger the mergers the better, since the public must pay for all unnecessary overhead, duplicate salaries of freight solicitors, duplicate purchasing departments, waste on uneconomical routing, etc.

If the people haven't brains enough to watch the big mergers they wouldn't have brains enough to watch little roads combining secretly.

OUR glorious Constitution was born on September 16, 142 years ago, following long discussions and many compromises. But it's undoubtedly the world's best constitution.

Some respectable citizens believe that the Constitution doesn't count when it interferes with their drinking. That may pass.

ELLEN FRANKS

Mrs. Franks, suing Harry Richman, musical comedy and film actor, today settled her $250,000 suit out of court for an undisclosed amount.

GIRL DROPS RICHMAN SUIT

Settlement With Night Club Entertainer and Actor Reached Out of Court

Ellen Franks, the red-headed South Side dancer, and Harry Richman, the fiance of Clara Bow, have settled their troubles.

Today, in Federal court, Ellen withdrew her suit for $250,000 against the handsome star of the stage, movies and cabarets.

Richman, it was indicated, settled out of court, Ellen's suit in which she charged that he had beaten and drugged her in his compartment on a Pennsylvania Railroad train.

CALLED SATISFACTORY

"The settlement was satisfactory to everybody," Ellen's attorney, Kivie Wolfe said, but beyond that he was non-committal.

Richman himself, in a Hollywood (Cal.) hospital, recovering from a minor operation, is said to have sent his attorneys to Pittsburgh several times for conferences with Wolfe.

CHARGED BEATING

Richman drugged and beat her and locked her in a Pullman compartment en route from Pittsburgh to Cleveland during the second week of March, after he had concluded an engagement here, Miss Franks' statement of claims filed in Federal Court averred. "Some beverage" which Richman gave her, she alleged, was "drugged."

Richman could have ignored the claim by keeping out of Pennsylvania, attorneys said in regard to the statement, but obviously preferred to settle.

Prince of Wales Fearful, Doll 14th 'Guest'

PARIS, Sept. 19.—(INS.)—The Prince of Wales is superstitious about sitting down to a table where there are 13 guests.

This was revealed today by a person who told of a recent dinner party at Le Touquet, Belgium. The prince sent out invitations to 14 friends to dine with him at the Casino de la Foret.

At the last moment the maitre d'hotel selected a handsome doll called "Guard of the Grenadiers" as the fourteenth guest.

'TORCH' SLAYER NEAR COLLAPSE

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Sept. 19.—Earle Peacox, latest of America's array of infamous murder trial defendants to crash the front pages in a big way, was steeling himself today for the hour when he will take the stand in his own defense to tell his version of why he killed his "Madcap" bride of 20, Dorothy Heinzelman Peacox.

Already, with the trial just getting under way, the 22-year-old defendant, who looks like a high school boy, is showing signs of breaking down under the strain of his ordeal. He seems nervous and depressed, sitting tense in his chair for long periods as if his nerves are taut and nearing a breaking point. Once he wept.

NO SESSION TODAY

He had an opportunity today to get a fresh grip upon himself, for there was no session of court, the trial having been adjourned by Justice Arthur S. Tompkins until tomorrow. The judge decided he needed a holiday and took it. Peacox spent the day in jail, reading a Bible that has been given to him by a Salvation Army official.

This trial is a serious matter to Earle Peacox. The tall, dignified, albeit genial judge, who has a proclivity for making humorous remarks, has failed utterly to draw a laugh from the defendant. Frequently the spectators and jurors have broken into laughter over some of the sallies of the judge, but not once has Peacox "seen the joke." He just can't. For some-

Schad and Schooley to Tell Their Versions of 25,000 Disputed Tax List Names

Sheriff Robert H. Braun today had possession of two ballot boxes, both believed empty, stolen by three armed men from the polling place of the Twenty-first District, Fourth Ward, as the primaries closed Tuesday night.

The boxes, without locks, were found in Schenley Park, by a patrolman of Oakland police station, according to the police report to Sheriff Braun.

One of the boxes had contained 256 ballots when stolen. Sergeant Louis Rosser sealed the boxes with plain white paper at the Oakland station and turned them over to deputy sheriffs last night.

BELIEVED EMPTY

"These boxes contain no secrets," said Sheriff Braun as he shook them in vain for evidence of rustle of ballots within. "I doubt if they contain anything at all."

Even if the boxes are filled with ballots they probably will never be counted officially. Observers pointed out that the courts could hardly recognize ballots which had been in the hands of armed holdup men for hours.

Police professed to have no clue to the identity of the perpetrators of the ballot box thefts.

The boxes were stolen from a district considered favorable to M. J. Muldowney, whose nomination now hinges on less than 500 votes.

SCHAD, SCHOOLEY CALLED

Late today the grand jury investigating registration frauds was still busy with other matters, but it was expected, before adjourning, to hear the testimony of George J. Schad, chairman of the Board for Assessment and Revision of Taxes, and his colleague, Roy D. Schooley.

Schad has been subpenaed to explain how the names of 25,000 persons alleged to have been illegally assessed came to be on the tax lists.

Schooley was also to be questioned on the same subject. He informed Chief County Detective George W. Murren that he would appear when wanted.

Both Schooley and Schad were active supporters of Mayor Charles

SHERIFF BRAUN WITH RECOVERED BALLOT BOXES

The ballot boxes (one used for the police-firemen's referendum) recovered today by Oakland police and turned over to the sheriff. The boxes were stolen by armed men Tuesday night from the polling house of the Twenty-first district, Fourth Ward. The lock on the main ballot box had been broken.

MULDOWNEY NOMINATION INDICATED

Nomination Will Mean Clean Sweep for Kline, Ticket; Only 4 Districts Still Out

Developments today in the post-primary election situation were:

1—M. J. Muldowney appeared winner over Councilman P. J. McArdle for the fifth place on the Republican councilmanic ticket.

2—The Oakland ballot box, from the Twenty-first district of the Fourth Ward, stolen by gunmen, was recovered by police. Its ballots probably will not be counted officially.

3—Forces of Judge Martin, defeated candidate, indicated he might run again as an independent or challenge Mayor Kline's nomination on the grounds that illegal votes aided him.

4—Chairman George J. Schad, of the Board for Assessment and Revision of Taxes, and Roy D. Schooley, of the same board, were prepared to testify before the Grand Jury which is investigating registration frauds.

M. J. Muldowney, of Soho, apparently has replaced Councilman P. J. McArdle as the fifth nominee on the Republican councilmanic ticket, belated returns indicated today.

With only four districts missing, Muldowney enjoyed a lead of 456 votes.

Muldowney's likely victory brings a sweeping triumph for the ticket headed by Mayor Charles H. Kline. Not one of the Kline candidates will have been beaten if Muldowney succeeds in holding his lead.

Only four councilmanic candidates were indorsed by the Kline and Malone groups, each leaving the fifth place without a recommendation.

LEAD INCREASING

The total vote, with the four districts missing, stands:

Muldowney	55,887
McArdle	55,431

The districts whose returns today increased Muldowney's lead were:

Twenty-third District, Eleventh Ward—Muldowney, 165; McArdle, 57.

Eighth District, Tenth Ward—Muldowney, 61; McArdle, 51.

A fifth missing district is the Twenty-first of the Fourth Ward, where the ballot box was stolen and later recovered. Because the ballot box was in the hands of thieves for hours, these votes probably will never gain official recognition, even should ballots be found in the box by the returning board.

COUNCIL CONTROL AT STAKE

On the outcome of the Muldowney-McArdle fight hinges control of Council. With McArdle out, Mayor Kline's forces will hold four votes, even after Councilman Winters resigns to become city controller. This would give the Mayor the deciding

MERGER MAKES BIGGEST BANK

By W. S. COUSINS,
International News Service.

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—The National City Bank of New York and the Corn Exchange Bank will consolidate to form the biggest American banking institution. Directors of both institutions formally approved the merger today. Stocks of both banks went sky-rocketing in the unlisted market when the directors made known the basis of consolidation, which will be five shares of Corn Exchange Bank for each four shares of National City.

The battle of the financial giants for supremacy in the banking fields in the last two years has brought together nearly a dozen of the well known banks in a series of consolidations, placing first one instittuion at the top and then one of its rivals.

The National City has now clinched its right to the title by absorbing the powerful Corn Exchange Bank, one of the largest and most influential state-chartered banks in the city.

According to the last financial statements published by these banks, National City had resources of $2,062,400,000 and Corn Exchange of $264,208,000, making the resources of the combined institution $2,326,608,000. Though this is the largest amount of financial resources under one banking control in America, it is slightly below the giant banks of England.

Armed Men Sought In Store Robbery

Police today were searching for two young men who late last night entered the grocery store of Samuel Smith, 5409 Walnut street, and robbed the cash register of $7. One of them held Oliver Leavenson, 16, a clerk, at bay with a revolver while the other opened the money drawer and scooped up the contents.

Polo Player Falls Dead During Game

WESTBURY, N. Y., Sept. 19.—(AP.)—Thomas Leboutillier, member of a prominent Long Island family, fell dead late yesterday while playing polo in a tournament at the Meadowbrook Club. He was in action with the Islip team in the autumn 12-goal event.

U. S. Delays, Judge Names Prosecutor

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 19.—(AP.)—Calvin F. Boyer, former district attorney of Bucks County, Pa., was today appointed temporary United States attorney for the eastern district of Pennsylvania by Federal District Judge J. Whitaker hompson.

Failure of the department of justice to fill the place since March caused Judge hompson to invoke an old Federal statute. Boyer's name was one of many submitted to the Justice Department.

Gould's French Home Robbed of Treasures

VERSAILLES, France, Sept. 19.—(AP.)—The home of Frank J. Gould at Vaucresson, residential suburb near here, has been robbed of valuable paintings, jewels and art objects. Many thousands of dollars' worth are believed to have been taken, though their value has not yet been determined. The police suspect the work of an organized gang and have arrested two men, but the property has not been recovered.

MacMillan Returns From Arctic Journey

NEWAGEN, Me., Sept. 19.—(INS.)—Donald B. MacMillan and his nine arctic explorers arrived today from the far north aboard the famous schooner Bowdoin.

MacMillan said he had definitely ascertained that Sir Mortimer Frobisher, English explorer, had established a colony on the Labrador shores in 1576. MacMillan said the stone foundation of the main building still was standing.

LINDY WARNED OF HURRICANE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—(INS.)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and his bride probably will run into a violent hurricane somewhere on the north coast of South America if they continue their southern tour, Herbert Janvrin Browne, independent "long-distance" weather forecaster, announced today.

"Col. Lindbergh is going to the worst possible place at the worst possible time," said Browne. "It is a foolish thing to fly in that area now. The cold wave which is moving out into the Atlantic will meet the area of warm air always present as far north as the Tropic of Cancer, and produce a hurricane highly probable. It will move westward to the coast of South America."

CHARLESTON, S. C., Sept. 19.—(INS.)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and his wife hopped off here for Miami at 9:42 o'clock this morning on the third leg of their air journey to inaugurate an air passenger service to Central American cities.

A stiff northeast wind held up the take-off for a few minutes, but improvement in air conditions enabled the colonel to make a nice get-away. Slight weather disturb-

Son Kills Father To Save Mother

WOBURN, Mass., Sept. 19.—(INS.)—"I have just shot my father."

Walking up to Patrolman Arthur A. Fay today George S. McGourty, 20, calmly made that statement. He surrendered a pistol with which he said he had shot his father as the elder McGourty, 56, stationary engineer, was alleged to have been choking his wife during a drunken and jealous rage. The elder McGourty died at Choate Memorial hospital.

Phone Links U. S. to Columbus Birthplace

MINERS MISSING IN FIRE, 2 DEAD

POWHATAN, O., Sept. 19.—Two men are known to be dead and several others are still unaccounted for, following a fire raging in the Powhatan mine of the Powhatan Mining Company, a subsidiary of the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Company here early today.

The mine is the largest in Ohio, employing 720 miners, but only 41 were in the mine at work when the fire started.

The dead are: Lawrence Lerch, night foreman of the mine, aged 40, married and father of three children, and Lawrence Kurinn, 28, and single. Lerch formerly worked at Avella, Pa., and came to Powhatan a year ago.

General Superintendent Robert Atkinson, with a rescue crew, was overcome by gas and is in a serious condition. D. H. McGee, district inspector for the Ohio Bureau of Mines, also was carried from the mine after being overcome.

The fire is reported to be burning fiercely and it is believed that several miners are imprisoned behind it.

Frank Flipsey, night fire boss, caught behind the fire, crawled a mile and a half through an old entry to the outside, later returning through this entry and finding Lerch's body. Lerch was on the outside when the fire was reported and went in with the first rescue crew.

Ford Not to Bid On Muscle Shoals

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—(AP.)—Henry Ford is not interested in again bidding for the gigantic Muscle Shoals (Ala.) power project and has so advised Senator Thomas Heflin (Dem.), of Alabama, who recently wrote the Detroit manufacturer requesting that he bid.

E. G. Leibold, general secretary to Ford, wrote: "We have no plans at this time whereby the power at Muscle Shoals could be utilized."

Clinton County Bank Bandits Get $9,000

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., Sept. 19.—(AP.)—The Beech Creek National Bank at Beech Creek, Clinton county, was held up and robbed of an amount estimated at $9,000 at noon today by four bandits, who had previously held up a Beech Creek merchant and stolen his car.

PIRATES FIGHT TO HOLD PLACE

The 1929 flag clinched by the Cubs, the Pirates and Braves will resume their series this afternoon in a comparatively peaceful manner, yet the home boys will have on considerable war paint.

The Buccos are still fearful of their second-place money, despite a lead of four and one-half games on the Giants. Until they make sure of the runner-up position there will be little letup in the play of the locals.

The Braves clinched the flag for the Cubs yesterday by winning the first game of a double-header with the Freebooters. The Pirates turned the tables in the second encounter.

Jess Petty will twirl for the Pirates this afternoon. Opposed to the Silver Fox will be Ben Cantwell or Harry Seibold.

Gem Salesman Shot In $2,000 Robbery

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—(AP.)—Joseph Bittette, a Brooklyn jewelry salesman, was shot and wounded seriously by a holdup man with whom he grappled when ordered to throw up his hands as he was on his way to see a customer in an upper Madison avenue building. The holdup man escaped with the $2,000 worth of jewelry which Bittette was carrying.

'White Cargo' Star Seeking Divorce

CHICAGO, Sept. 19.—(AP.)—Gladys Frazin, who played in "White Cargo" several years ago, has filed suit for divorce from Richard Lehne, an actor. The couple was married April 10, and separated May 9. Cruelty was charged.

Insull Gives Car Porter Two Trips to England

CHICAGO, Sept. 19.—(INS.)—William Kenny's generosity in giving his barber a trip to England has been surpassed by Samuel Insull, utility magnate, it became known here today.

W. T. Sissons, the conductor, was found in a hotel here today and reluctantly told of his trips.

"I was born in England and so was Mr. Insull," he said. "I have worked for the Pullman company for more than 20 years. Mr. Insull made many trips between New York and Chicago and we often chatted pleasantly.

"I once said that I had not been back to England for 15 years."

"'Would you like to go back?' he asked me.

"'Sure I would,' I told him.

"'Well, then go ahead. I'll pay for it.'

"And so I did and last April Mr. Insull told me it was about time I made a second trip. It was very kind of Mr. Insull."

'Augustus' Speaks Now—After Anne

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., Sept. 19.—(INS.)—It's only a short time ago that Anne Morrow, when plied with questions by reporters, replied: "Augustus will speak for me." Augustus was her betrothed, Charles Augustus Lindbergh.

Just to show what a few months of married life will do, the couple were again the center of a group of newspapermen yesterday prior to their take-off for Washington. A question was called to them, as they walked across the field. Mrs. Lindbergh promptly nodded an affirmative; and it was Charles who turned around and added his own "yes"—about three seconds later.

Damage Heavy as First Frost Sweeps District

The first frost of the season early today blighted fall flowers and vegetation in low-lying communities and covered the countryside with a film of white. The temperature dropped to 39.8 on the Weather Bureau thermometer.

Crafton reported a 32 degree temperature.

Due to the clearness and dryness of the atmosphere, the damage in many localities to vegetation was more than is usually caused by the first frosts.

Growers of fine dahlias, heeding the warining in yesterday's cool breezes, in many cases saved their crops of bloom by covering them. Fair and warmer was today's weather prediction.

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, O., Sept. 19.—The heaviest frost at the earliest date since weather records have been compiled in Eastern Ohio, 41 years ago, killed vegetation of many kinds here early today, when temperatures as low as 28 were recorded. The average date of the first killing frost, according to Weather Bureau records, is October 17 and the earliest ever recorded previously was September 22, in 1924.

AIR MESSAGE LAYS DOWN ARMS AIM

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19. The people of the United States today have the personal guarantee of President Herbert Hoover that disarament agreements concluded with the nations of Europe will not rob this country of adequate national defenses.

In a speech broadcast over a nation-wide hookup from the historic presidential study in the east wing of the White House, Mr. Hoover last night delivered a few chosen words on the subject of disarmament in a manner that stamped them indelibly as the "personal opinions" of the Chief Executive on the matter which stands foremost in international affairs today.

SPEECH SURPRISES

It was a speech couched in simple phrases, more like an extemporaneous chat than an official pronouncement shot out over the ether by the nation's President. And its burthen was:

"America shall not be left undefended."

The President's speech was truly a "bolt from the skies." For, although the address was delivered according to scheduled plan, Mr. Hoover had not been expected to broach such a controversial issue as disarmament. As probably the last official address the President will make before the arrival of the British Prime Minister, J. Ramsay MacDonald, in Washington for disarmament conversations, it commanded extraordinary interest.

DISCUSS PREPAREDNESS

He recalled that in other years the thought of American presidents had been for preparedness for defense as one of the assurances of peace.

"But that preparedness," he warned, "must not exceed the barest necessity for defense or it becomes a threat of aggression against others, and thus a cause of fear and animosity of the world."

The reduction of arms, Mr. Hoover stated in another portion of the address, was a step which followed the Kellogg pact for renunciation of war with "impelling logic."

M'DONALD SEES KING

LONDON, Sept. 19.—(INS.)—For the first time in history, a British king will speak to the nations of the world at an important international conference through the medium of a premier elected from the ranks of British labor when the five naval powers meet in London in January for a conversation on disarmament.

That King George is more than mildly interested in the disarmament negotiations now being carried on between Britain and the United States was made obvious today with the revelation that Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald had been summoned by the Sovereign to Sandringham Castle to discuss matters of immediate international interest.

The King, it is understood, wanted from Premier MacDonald a first-hand report of the recent reparations proceedings at The Hague, and, in addition, a complete round-up of the Anglo-American disarmament negotiations.

Premier MacDonald, accompanied by his daughter, Ishbel, motored to Sandringham Castle in Norfolkshire late yesterday. They remained overnight with the King and Queen Mary, and were to return to London sometime today.

POWERS ACCEPT ARBITRATION

GENEVA, Sept. 19.—(INS.)—England, France, Union of South Africa, Peru, New Zealand, and Czechoslovakia signed the Hague court compulsory arbitration clause today. The signatory powers are obligated to submit all international disputes to arbitration.

It should be known within 24 hours whether the Kellogg-Briand pact for renunciation of war is to be incorporated into the covenant of the League of Nations.

Suggestion that the pact be embodied in the covenant was made by Sir Cecil Hurst, of England, and a sub-committee was appointed to deal with the proposal and report upon it forthwith.

Sir Cecil's suggestion is part of the general campaign under way to "outlaw war." Certain members of the league felt that the league's prestige might be impaired if the world relied upon an outside treaty to preserve the peace without any league connection; and especially in view of the fact that the treaty came from a nation not a member of the league.

It is understood that representatives of China to the league assembly meeting are preparing a brief setting forth China's views upon the Sino-Soviet clash and putting responsibility for the Manchurian crisis upon Soviet Russia.

vote on tie questions. If McArdle is re-elected, Malone, as president of Council, will have predominating control and his election to fill Winters' unexpired term would be an extremely likely probability.

The Kline forces late today claimed Muldowney's nomination by a fair majority, regardless of the contents of the stolen ballot box, which was in what was regarded as a Muldowney district.

The Kline figures gave Muldowney a lead of 800 votes, with seven districts missing.

FIRST SOHO COUNCILMAN

Muldowney, if nominated and elected, will be the first Soho member of Council since the ward plan of representation in Council was abandoned 18 years ago.

The official primary return board appointed by the County Commissioners, is scheduled to meet at noon tomorrow and begin its tabulation. The special return board for the count of the police and fireman's referendum on wage increases started its work today with a policeman and fireman as members of the board.

FEW CHANGES EXPECTED

Late returns were not expected materially to change the results. Councilman W. Y. English, John S. Herron, Harry A. Little and Clifford B. Connelley won the other four nominations, having substantial leads. The latest figures, with the six districts missing, are:

English	73,292
Herron	70,349
Connelley	63,486
Little	61,188
Muldowney	55,887
McArdle	55,431
Malone	46,314

DISTRICTS MISSING

The districts missing in the councilmanic return are the Fourth, Seventh and Twenty-second of the Third Ward, and Sixteenth of the Twenty-sixth Ward.

Kline	72,489
Martin	48,324
Malone	47,161

The missing districts are:

Second of the Second Ward; Twentieth of the Third Ward; Twenty-first of the Fourth Ward; Third of the Eleventh Ward, and Fifteenth of the Twenty-seventh Ward.

JUDGE JONES WINS

Judge Thomas C. Jones has won the nomination for the county court judgeship according to returns from 1,249 districts out of 1,457 in the county. The results in these districts:

Jones	79,373
Schoonmaker	64,984
Phillips	62,635

Robert S. Cain, organization candidate for sheriff, had a plurality of 40,188 in returns from 1,222 county districts.

All candidates in the past primary election are required by law to file their expense accounts within 15 days, C. J. Topley, clerk of courts, announced today. The expenditures should be filed in his office.

None have been made, Topley said. He explained that while 30 days is the time-limit in the general elections, only 15 are allowed in the primaries.

M. D. TESTIMONY IN PANTAGES CASE FOUGHT

International News Service.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 19.—Prosecution attorneys today were preparing to continue their onslaught against the testimony of Mrs. Alexander Pantages' second degree murder defense by calling further rebuttal witnesses.

Deputy District Attorney J. B. Costello is aiming principally to tear down the testimony of five physicans and surgeons who said the auto injuries received by Juro Rokumoto had nothing to do with his death—that his death was due to asphyxiation, caused by the improper use of anaesthetics on a man with weakened lungs.

MOVE UNEXPECTED

The New York attorney closed the cleverly woven defense at a psychological time, following the testimony of the five physicians.

Immediately following this Prosecuting Attorney Costello summoned his first rebutttal witness.

By this witness, Mrs. Minnie Maxwell, and several others who are to follow, the state hopes to tear down the structure of Mrs. Pantages' defense and to discredit the testimony presented thus far.

Mrs. Maxwell contradicted the testimony of Catherine Mulcahy, a hairdresser who had informed the jury that Mrs. Pantages was not intoxicated at the time of the collision.

"Mrs. Mulcahy told me that she had seen plenty of intoxicated persons and that Mrs. Pantages was plainly drunk," said Mrs. Maxwell.

Two other witnesses, Police Officers J. R. Stephens and Leon D. Egan, next were called to rebut the testimony concerning conversations attributed to Mrs. Bertha Jacobs, personal friend of the millionaire theater owner's wife.

SURGEON LAST WITNESS

Before this rebuttal testimony it was Dr. Alfred Gallant, senior orthopedic surgeon at the General Hospital, who provided the finish to the defense.

He did it, assisted by the testimony of four other doctors, by answering a 15,000-word hypothetical question.

Similar answers came from Dr. Francis L. Anton, Dr. F. W. Rinkenberger, Dr. F. W. Siegmeund and Dr. Bertha Baumbaugh.

To another question, "In your opinion did the injuries received by Rokumoto in the automobile collision contribute in any way to his death?" each of the five doctors answered: "Absolutely not."

Attorney Costello stated that he would conclude his rebuttal testimony, to be presented by nine experts, by Friday night.

Meanwhile, the trial of Alexander Pantages for an alleged attack on Eunice Pringle, 17-year-old dancer, has been postponed from September 23 to October 1.

SEEK SCHOOLEY'S VERSION

Schooley's testimony has been desired for more than a week by the elections committee of the Allegheny County Bar Association in connection with its petition to have the belated assessment lists declared null and void.

John D. Graham, W. Noble Mathews, C. J. McBride and Emil Stark, members of the assessment board, and Samuel Ramsey, a clerk for the board, were questioned by the grand jury late yesterday.

What District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner is most desirous of ascertaining, he said, in outlining the scope of the inquisition, is to learn the identity of the prime movers in the undertaking through which the 25,000 belated names were placed on the tax books.

ASSESSORS CALLED

To that end he intends to call about 50 subordinate assessors before the grand jury.

He also intends, he said, to trace to their source the bogus tax receipts that are alleged to have been used by several persons in registering.

It was announced that a subpena had been issued directing Assessor Edward Kenna, Jr., to bring with him to the grand jury room the assessment books of the First and Second wards.

COMMERCIAL TREATY UP IN SENATE

Treasury Report Awaited On Industrial Profits; Vote on Opium Ban Due

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—While waiting for the treasury to report the "profits or losses" of 300 giant industrial corporations for the years 1922 to 1928 under the tariff, the Senate today turned aside from the new bill to ratify a Geneva treaty, outlawing commercial embargoes.

The treaty, resulting from an effort to eliminate all wartime trade restrictions, would have little effect in America except to open a few more markets abroad for American products. It would not interfere with tariff legislation since a specific American reservation exempted the tariff from its application. The American prohibition law also was exempted. The treaty already has been ratified by Germany, France, Italy, Belgium and Austria among other nations.

TARIFF DATA SOUGHT

The pending question in the tariff war was a proposal by Senator McMaster (Rep.), of South Dakota, to provide the Senate with all tariff information now held by the United States Tariff Commission. McMaster agreed to accept an amendment allowing the commission to withhold any information received in confidence.

The McMaster resolution was drafted to give the Senate more facts on the costs of production in American industries. This information would be useful to foes of the bill along with the report from the Treasury Department on the "profits or losses" of corporations benefiting under the tariff.

G. O. P. WANTS SPEED

The Treasury also was asked to furnish statements on the amounts spent by the corporations for raw materials, wages to labor and salaries to officers. All this information would be taken from the income tax reports of the corporations named on a long list sent to the Treasury Monday.

The Senate Republicans meanwhile will hold a caucus tomorrow morning to discuss the tariff situation. It was rumored the loyal Republicans would adopt some program of action designed to hasten enactment of the bill. It was said the question of holding night sessions would be submitted to the party for a decision. This may be necessary, in view of the procrastinating debate, if the bill is to be enacted into law before the end of the special session.

OPIUM VOTE TODAY

Two amendments to the Senate tariff bill, intended to strengthen it against opium smuggling, will be put to a vote today.

A drive to include the amendments in the tariff bill was launched yesterday by Senators Robinson, of Arkansas, Democratic leader, and Couzens, (R), of Michigan. Their efforts precipitated a fight, but once the movement got well under way senators from all sides of the chamber arose to add their voice to the swelling tide of approval.

The fight came over the move of Couzens and Robinson to include in the Senate tariff bill a provision of the House to make the owner as well as the master of a ship liable to fines for opium running, and to repeal the immunity of common carriers for smuggling smoking opium. Under present law, ship owners and vessels used as common carriers are exempted from the fine of $25 an ounce for opium found not manifested.

Without these amendments, customs officials have declared that the anti-opium smuggling laws will be nullified and the way opened to increase the enormous flow of dope into the country.

Divorces Refused, Trade Of Wives Blocked

CHIPPEWA FALLS, Wis., Sept. 19.—(AP.)—Social conventions have won a victory in county court, Judge D. E. Cook refusing to sanction a wife trade which startled the country last November. Judge Cook refused to grant divorces to Edward W. Heidelberger and Mrs. Bessie Brown, two of the principals.

The divorces would have cleared the way for legalizing through new marriages the wife trade by which Mrs. Brown and her five children went to the Heidelberger home in exchange for Mrs. Heidelberger and six children who removed to the Brown home.

Since November, the judge learned, Mrs. Brown had been Heidelberger's housekeper and Mrs. Heidelberger has served in like capacity for Brown.

Mrs. Brown told the judge her husband suddenly told her that Mrs. Heidelberger and her six children were coming to their home to keep house for him and that she, Mrs. Brown, could do what she wanted about it, but that he preferred that she leave the premises. Mrs. Brown acquiesced, she said, and when Mrs. Heidelberger and her six children arrived, she went to the Heidelberger farm.

CHURCHILL SEES WORLD PEACE AT HAND

Noted Briton Guest at Gala Luncheon Given by W. R. Hearst, Louis Mayer

By OTHEMAN STEVENS.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 19.—The luncheon given by Louis Mayer, W. R. Hearst and the Los Angeles Examiner to the Rt. Hon. Winston Churchill, at the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio at Culver City, yesterday, was possibly the most remarkable affair ever given here.

The guests included men foremost in all ines of effort and in accomplishment hereabouts—in art, in international eminence, in motion pictures, in all great enterprise.

It was a merry affair. The great English statesman, soldier, author, one-time newspaper correspondent; the man whose life has been one continuous drama of moving events, chatted with everyone and was most genial to all who met him.

WORLD SIGNIFICANCE

Back of it all was a constant ringing note of world meaning.

Fred Niblo was toastmaster and Governor Young made the first speech.

Louis Mayer spoke of "the two nations bound together by blood, ideals, and traditions," saying that "it is possible that the peace of the world can be assured by them."

Mr. Hearst alluded to the possible understanding to promote peace between ourselves, and as far as possible to establish peace throughout the world.

Mr. Churchhill spoke of the feeling of joy it gave him when entering the studio to see the two flags side by side, which he considered not only a symbol of the association of the two "great peoples," but as the secret of the future world; there is the peace and safety of the world.

LAUDS EFFORTS

He rejoiced "to hear my friend Mr. Hearst who wields such enormous influence express in such decided and measured terms his conviction that the peace of the world can best be secured by the cooperation of the two great English-speaking democracies."

Great artists, picture stars, theatrical stars, vaudeville stars, graced the occasion.

DRIVE OPENS TO CAPTURE ANTI-REDS

Three Counties and Labor Defense Join in Quiz as Civil Suits Are Prepared

By HENRY LESESNE, International News Service.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Sept. 19.—At the direction of Gov. Max Gardner, District Solicitor L. S. Spruling, of Lenior, today began a four-way investigation into the latest anti-Communistic flogging that came yesterday when a band of Gastonia vigilants severely whipped Cleo Tessner, 26-year-old union organizer.

Spluring will be aided in his investigation by authorities of Cleveland County where the Baltimore youth was seized from his home; by officers of Cherokee County in South Carolina where the lash was applied, and by the attorneys of the International Labor Defense who plan to import secret service operatives in order to bring the terrorists to justice.

This latest outbreak in the textile war came while the speech of Gov. Gardner in which he said that "law and order will reign supreme in North Carolina" was still ringing in the ears of the state.

CIVIL SUITS NEAR

The legal complications growing out of the Gastonia "class war" were accentuated today by preparation of numerous civil suits for damages.

All previous court procedure growing out of the mass hysteria which followed the Communistic invasion of the North Carolina textile belt has been threshed out in the criminal courts.

Thirty-nine men and women, including 13 capitally-indicted murderers, are now being held for trial as a result of a multiplicity of mob murders, kidnapings, terrorism and floggings. Two other cases, involving 14 defendants, have collapsed within the past week.

Today the International Labor Defense drew up suits against Mecklenburg County officers who arrested eight Communists on charges of assembling firearms and ammunition to take to a Gastonia "Red" meeting.

STATE DROPS CHARGES

Three days after their arrest, when the scheduled date of the Gastonia gathering had elapsed, the state nolle prossed the charges. Tom P. Jimison, chief counsel of the I. L. D., announced he would seek $10,000 for each of the defendants for false arrest.

Meantime the American Civil Liberties Union, which thus far has maintained a sort of hands-off policy in the Gastonia sedition, emerged on the battlefront with the announcement that it will bring forth another batch of civil actions.

These suits will be directed toward "all individuals and organizations responsible for the recent outrages perpetrated against the National Textile Workers' Union," according to Roger Baldwin, director, who arrived here today.

Baldwin made it plain that his organization is not assuming the responsibility for the defense of the 16 strikers who face re-trial for murder here September 30, but that it is defending only the aspects of civil liberty involved in the trial. He enumerated these as "adequate defense funds, competent counsel, freedom of witnesses and jurymen from intimidation and organized violence by mill owners' hirelings."

QUIZ IN 'CHUTE DEATH PUSHED

WICHITA, Kan., Sept. 19.—(INS.)—The inquest into the death of Miss Helen Belle Williams, killed Saturday in a parachute leap from an airplane piloted by Miss Elinor Smith of New York, noted girl flier, was to be continued here today.

Evidence at the inquest yesterday revealed that an all-night party preceded the fatal leap.

It was brought out at the inquest that Miss Williams and several others, including representatives of the parachute company, visited a roadhouse near Wichita last Friday night and that liquor was served.

Testimony yesterday established the fact that Miss Elinor Smith did not visit the roadhouse.

Gene Herrick, who was to have leaped in a parachute after Miss Williams, will be questioned today as to the "party."

County Attorney Wertz said that fourth degree manslaughter warrants would be issued for persons responsible for the girl's leap, if the inquest disclosed that liquor played any part in the tragedy.

ROYAL WEDDING AGAIN RUMORED

BRUSSELS, Belgium, Sept. 19.—(AP.)—The sudden departure of King Albert for Italy today has revived rumors that the visit is connected with the possibility of the betrothal of Crown Prince Umberto of Italy and Princess Marie of Belgium.

It was announced that during the 10 days' stay in Italy King Albert will have an interview with the royal family and despite the reticence of court officials it is considered certain now that the visit is connected with the matrimonial project talked of for some years past.

It is even expected that the engagement of the Italian prince and Belgium princess will be announced officially this autumn and that the marriage will be given a gorgeous staging in Rome, reports being that Pope Pius personally will perform the religious ceremony.

The King's visit to Italy also is said to be connected with a contemplated visit of the Belgian royal family to the Vatican, which has been planned since the reconciliation between the Italian government and the Holy See.

2D TOKIO FLIGHT PLANE CRASHES

BURBANK, Cal., Sept. 19.—(AP.)—Lieut. Herbert J. Fahy, test pilot, was in a hospital with serious injuries today and the second specially constructed monoplane built for Lieut. Harold Bromley's Tacoma-to-Tokio trans-Pacific flight was in ruins as a result of a crash during a trial flight.

Fahy's wife, Mrs. Claire Fahy, entrant in the recent Santa Monica-to-Cleveland women's air derby, was at his bedside.

"My flight," Bromley said, "is off for this year. I hope to attempt it next year."

FATE OF CO-ED KNOTS JURY

NEW BRAUNFELS, Tex., Sept. 19.—(INS.)—The jury which holds the fate of 24-year-old Rebecca Bradley Rogers, admitted bank robber, reported to Judge John Watson today that it was hopelessly deadlocked.

Judge Watson ordered the jury, composed of 12 German-American farmers and ranchmen, back to its chambers to deliberate further. The jury has had the case since yesterday afternoon.

Miss Rogers' life is in the hands of a jury for the third time since she was charged with robbing the Farmers National Bank, Buda, Tex., in December, 1926.

Otis Rogers, Becky's young husband and chief of her defense counsel, pleaded with the jury yesterday to either free his wife or send her to the electric chair.

EVANS CHARGES 'STALL' IN SUIT

City Controller Henry Oliver Evans, defeated in his campaign to succeed himself, today charged the American Reduction Company, which is being sued by the city for alleged over-charges in collection of garbage, with "stalling" until he leaves office in January.

"The company has been stalling until after the primaries and will continue to stall," Evans remarked, "but I will do all in my power to settle the city's claims before I leave office."

Evans today requested Attorney Edwin W. Smith, special counsel for the city, to bring before Dr. C. B. Maits, arbitrator between the city and the reduction company, the audit of the 1928 business between the two principals. Evans claims over-charges of $280,000.

BOMBARDMENT OF SHIP SIFTED

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—(INS.)—A thorough investigation of the shelling of the Canadian schooner Shawnee, off Ambrose Light, was started today by coast guard headquarters.

According to reports here the vessel put in to St. Pierre with a rail shot off. The skipper complained that his craft had been fired upon by a coast guard vessel.

Rear Admiral F. C. Billard, commandant of the coast guard, issued the following statement:

"On the night of September 11 a coast guard patrol boat picked up a vessel running without lights, which appeared to be an American craft, in the vicinity of Ambrose Light vessel.

"The coast guard patrol boat gave chase, repeatedly blowing whistles to stop. The vessel did not stop. The coast guard boat then fired.

"The craft slowed down. The man in charge refused to give the name of the vessel.

"The vessel was allowed to proceed and the name Shawnee was made out on her bow."

LOSES HUSBAND AND FORTUNE

Marriage for Olga Eichleay, of 2010 Wendover street, meant a change from a position of comfortable fortune almost to poverty, according to her testimony in Common Pleas Court today where she was given a hearing in her suit for divorce from Herbert F. Eichleay, a stock salesman. She appeared before Judge Joseph M. Swearingen, charging desertion.

While she was proprietor of a drug store in Cleveland she married Herbert F. Eichleay at Youngstown, O., August 30, 1924.

Shortly after he became involved in trouble, she charged, and it continued until she had spent $25,000 and was forced to sell her drug business. They came to Pittsburgh and lived in the Forest Hotel, and when he deserted her November 11, 1925, she said, he left a bill of $300. To settle it she was compelled to pawn her jewels. Since then she has worked in a downtown store.

2 WIVES APPEAR AGAINST MAN

Wife No. 1 and wife No. 3 appeared in Common Pleas Court to tell Judge Richard W. Martin the story of one Louis Herman Dumont's capricious taking of wives.

And wife No. 3, Alice May Dumont, a nurse, of 80 South Negley avenue, who is asking the courts to annul what she testifies is a bigamous marriage, doesn't want him arrested, she told the court.

Judge Martin, after hearing Mrs. Dumont and wife No. 1, Mrs. Ida M. Kreitzer, of 31 Euclid avenue, Bellevue, ordered Attorney A. L. McLaughlin, Jr., to swear out information for Dumont and have him arrested. It was said he was "somewhere in Ohio."

According to the story of Mrs. Dumont, she married the man in 1925. He told her he had been divorced, but Mrs. Kreitzer, who said she married the man under the name of Hughey Kreitzer, in 1912, declared they were not divorced until 1927. Wife No. 2, who is said to be Mrs. Hughey Flynn Crytzer, did not appear. She was said to have been married to the man under the name of Crytzer in 1921. Whether he was divorced from wife No. 2 was not divulged at the hearing.

War Novel Writer Wins $150 for Officer's Insult

BERLIN, Sept. 19.—(AP.)—Germany has been made safe for writers of realistic World War novels by a court case in which Lieut.-Col. Walter von Bogen, retired army officer and editor of the "Journal of German Nobility," yesterday was fined $150 for libelously insulting Arnold Zweig, author of "The Case of Sergeant Grischa."

The suit instituted by Zweig revealed the bitter hostility among ex-officers of the old German army toward war books containing what they call dangerous and pacifist tendencies. Von Bogen's publication, reviewing Zweig's book, called the author a "dirty Asiatic fellow." Testifying in his own behalf, the editor declared it was the duty of every good German to oppose pacifism, which would be the downfall of Germany. He said he believed one of the generals mentioned in the book was meant to be Gen. Ludendorff and that "many noble ladies were insulted."

The judge denied the danger of pacifism in Germany and said "no writer may be subjected to such personal attacks."

Maine Raiders Seize Rum Headed for Pittsburgh

BRUNSWICK, Me., Sept. 19.—(AP.)—More than 3,000 quarts of choice liquors, valued at $35,000, which officials said were imported for distribution in New York, Niagara Falls and Pittsburgh, today reposed behind steel doors in the Brunswick jail, while authorities sought to uncover further ramifications of a rum ring believed to have operated from this section all summer.

One man was in jail in connection with the seizure. George B. Alberts, alias Brittan and Barnes, of Calais, was arrested after officers said he admitted he was caretaker of a cottage at Gun Point, near the Harpswell shore, 10 miles from here, where the liquor was found last night. Deputy Sheriff William B. Edwards, of Brunswick, led the raiding officers.

Seth May, of Auburn, federal prohibition administrator, said he believed another large cache, seized in Boothbay harbor two weeks ago, had been part of a shipment distributed from the Gun Point cottage.

CHURCHILL SEES U. S., BRITAIN BRING WORLD PEACE

TWO COUNTRIES TERMED HOPE FOR FUTURE

tone, sang "On the Road to Mandelay," and Cecil Cunningham sang two songs.

Lawrence Gray, who played in the delightful picture in which Miss Marion Davies has scored so high a triumph, "Marianne," led a bunch of Sammy Lee's chorus girls, who made everybody present sit up and look.

The entertainment features were in charge of Gus Edwards, former star of the vaudeville stage, as he is now of the pictures.

CHURCHILL SPEAKS

Mr. Churchill's address follows:

"Mr. Mayer, your excellency, Mr. Hearst, ladies and gentlemen: In expressing my thanks to you for your kind welcome, and to our hosts for the all too flattering terms in which they have referred to me, I feel I ought also to express in all our behalves gratification for the too brief but brilliant entertainment with which this feast and festival of rejoicing has been accompanied and crowned. I feel I shall in that respect discharge a task in which I unite the overwhelming majority of those who are present.

"I am here as a traveler on a holiday. It happened in this way: For nearly 20 years out of the last 24 I have been in public office in Great Britain, and at the last election there seemed to be a sort of general feeling, a feeling at any rate which was noticeable in some quarters, that I ought to have a holiday.

"And I remembered the old saying, which I daresay you may have heard, and perhaps lived up to, or some of you, 'Hitch your wagon to a star.' So I said, 'I will go out to California and look at the stars.'

SHIES AT MARS

"So I went to the Lick observatory where Prof. Campbell showed me through the long telescope, and I admit at a very considerable distance, the radiant celestial bodies which fill the heavens; and the only one I should not have tried to look at was the planet Mars, because I knew I was going to stay with our friend Mr. Hearst, whose aversion to war has sometimes led him to suspect me as not being as high and great and 100 per cent a pacifist as he would think I ought to be.

"I am now prolonging my tour through California and I have been carrying on my study at the educational institutions, and so I find myself here today.

"You are an educational institution which spreads its influence all over the world, from one end of the globe to the other, a wonderful new influence and process of education and civilization, which has come into being almost during the last decade.

"Mr. Disraeli, the great English prime minister, writing in his novels of the beginning of the nineteenth century, said, 'In those days England was for the few and for the very few.' But our task now in this modern century, the new age, is to make a broader, brighter, surer, healthier, happier life, not for the few, but for the many, and not only for the many, but ultimately for all, or almost all.'

MUCH NEW PLEASURE

"The great agencies and instruments of science are arriving on the wings of time and in the right opportunity to enable us to give to the great mass of human beings who care to dwell together in peace and quiet many new forms of pleasure, or enlightenment, of diversion and of occupation.

"Particularly are they of value to those who dwell widely spread about in the great spaces of the world, in Canada, in the agricultural districts of the United States, where the cultivator of the soil discharges that fundamental, primary duty on which we all depend to live, will be able to enjoy increasingly the pleasures, the novelties of keener life, which hitherto has been reserved for the urban dweller.

"And the work that is being done here, and also in the broadcasting sphere, plays a necessary and essential part in this great broadening of the joys and pleasures of life and in the consciousness of its varieties of charm, spreading it ever more widely throughout the world.

"I know there are superior people who turn up their—perhaps I should say their brows—but who turn up their noses, if you like, at the forms of art which are purveyed to the public through the moving picture, but, ladies and gentlemen, now that speech is added to action, and it is being increasingly woven into the texture of these presentations, there can be no doubt that a field is opened in which the highest form of the dramatic art which could ever have been received will receive the greatest extension and publicity, and I trust, the highest reward.

URGES CARE

"Sometimes one feels that we ought to be careful, not you, but the governments, when the scenes with which we amuse ourselves in America and in Europe are perhaps crudely presented to Asiatic or African populations.

"That is a matter which I think should be considered, because no one part of the world can fully understand the elements of humor and of diversion which enter into the amusements of the others.

"But apart from that, I am quite sure that all the process of interesting the public, of amusing the public, in which your industry plays so important a part, is an essential feature in the present rapid, onward march of civilization, and will ever increasingly present to the human mind ideas and conceptions which will take the place of those fears and brutality of warlike peoples, which even in our own time we have seen almost wreck our own fortunes.

"Ladies and gentlemen, Mr. Mayer in his speech, and Mr. Hearst, have followed his excellency, the governor, in making references to my country and also to his majesty, King George, which I most deeply appreciate, and which I gratefully acknowledge.

HOLDS FUTURE'S SECRET

"I saw these two flags when I entered this room with a feeling of joy, because that is not only an emblem of the association of two great peoples, equipped with power and wealth and armed with science and knowledge, who speak a common tongue and enjoy a common law, and who have developed the same institutions, and look back all through the mists of time to a dim majestic past; it is not only a symbol of their association, but it is the secret of the future of the world; there is the peace and safety in the world. (Applause.)

"I rejoiced to hear my friend, Mr. Hearst, who wields such enormous influence, express in such decided and measured terms his conviction that the peace of the world can best be assured by the co-operation of the two great English-speaking democracies.

"All I can say is that such language will never be used, such sentiments will never be expressed on this side of the Atlantic ocean without a sincere and even an eager response from our small island in the North Atlantic. (Applause.)

"I have one more word to say, and that is about California. I have now motored 1,500 miles through California, so I have seen this beautiful maritime state as much as anyone can see it in so short a time and have appreciated its beauty, the charm of its settings, scenery, its agreeable, tranquil, equable, congenial climate.

"I have enjoyed the delightful, spacious hospitalities which it is the pride of California to offer. I have seen your big trees, your big men and I have seen with the eye of the mind your big future, and I have only one regret, only one pang which racks my bosom, and that is that I have never been here before." (Applause.)

MR. HEARST SPEAKS

In introducing Mr. Hearst, Mr. Niblo said:

"The next speaker, fortunately, is an American, and I guess the greatest defender of anything Californian; in fact, I might say that the country 'America' is named after one of his papers, the New York American. I take great pleasure in introducing the Hon. William Randolph Hearst."

Mr. Hearst spoke as follows:

"Mr. toastmaster, honored guests and ladies and gentlemen:

"I don't know exactly what to say. I came down from the ranch last night with Mr. Churchill and we were six hours in the automobile and I told him everything that I know anything about and a lot of things that I don't know anything about.

"I am sure he enjoyed the conversation because he fell into the most peaceful and profound slumber and remaind there. (Laughter.)

"And when he woke up he said: 'I hope to goodness there isn't going to be any talking at the luncheon tomorrow, because I am looking forward to that as a pleasurable occasion'—like the man who did not take his wife because he wanted his trip abroad to be purely a pleasure trip.

"I tried to reassure him and said, 'I don't think there will be much formal speaking and that, anyhow, I won't make a formal speech.' And that did seem to relieve him a lot. In fact, he was comparatively cheerful after that.

"And moreover, I don't see why there should be any speches, because we decided everything that was of any value to humanity on that trip; and I don't even see why they should have those conversations at Washington now. It is like arriving at church in the middle of the doxology, or arriving at the theater just as the ushers are saying, 'All over; out this way!'

WORLD PEACE IDEAL

"But I did not overlook, in our talk, the significance of the conjunction of those two flags on the wall. I told him that our peoples' one ideal, our greatest ideal, was world peace; that it was almost a fanaticism with us. He said, 'I did want peace bad enough to fight for it, and we did fight for it, because that was our main reason for entering the World War; and when we got it, or helped to get it, that was the only thing we got out of the war, and the only thing we wanted to get out of the war, but we do want to keep the thing that we got, and we believe that the best way to keep it is through a co-operative union of the English-speaking nations of the world, a co-operative union of the two great peace-loving nations of the world.' (Applause).

"This is an age of organization, of co-operation, or combination in business, and the principle might well apply to international politics. But when we make a merger in business we merge harmonious entities.

"We do not make a merger of a moving picture company and a milk farm—possibly because the moving picture people do not drink milk, except on formal occasions of this kind (laughter)—but mainly because we want to merge harmonious units.

"If we made an alliance, we would not want to make one with a warlike country, that contemplated war. We would want to make an alliance to promote peace between ourselves, and as far as possible to establish peace throughout the world.

"I was unanimous (laughter) in my indorsement of this Anglo-American union, and I think Mr. Churchill would have been unanimouse, too, except for the fact, as I previously mentioned, he was asleep during most of the ride here. But I notice he is particularly awake today, especially as he looks around the room and sees the many beautiful women that are here; and I do not want to put him to sleep again, so I am going to stop and thank you." (Applause).

UNSCRAMBLE THESE ANAGRAMBLES
DAILY ANAGRAM PUZZLES

TRY your hand at this fascinating game of Anagrambles—the game that is taking the town like the crossword puzzle craze took the whole nation for a ride through the dictionary.

The game is quite simple. Merely change the following words by the addition of the single letter indicated. Do not omit any letter of the original word. The letter may be inserted at the beginning of the word, anywhere within the word, or at the end. Thus, the word "pate," by the addition of the letter "l" becomes either "pleat" or "plate." The word "drag" may be changed to either "grade" or "raged" by the addition of the letter "e."

The original word must be changed in meaning by the commentary letter. To change "mine" by adding "d," to form "mined," would be incorrect. Rearrange the letters of your word to change its meaning, not its tense or number. Take a pencil now and write in your newly formed word in the spaces provided.

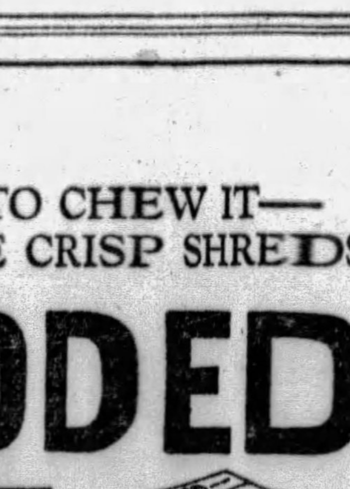
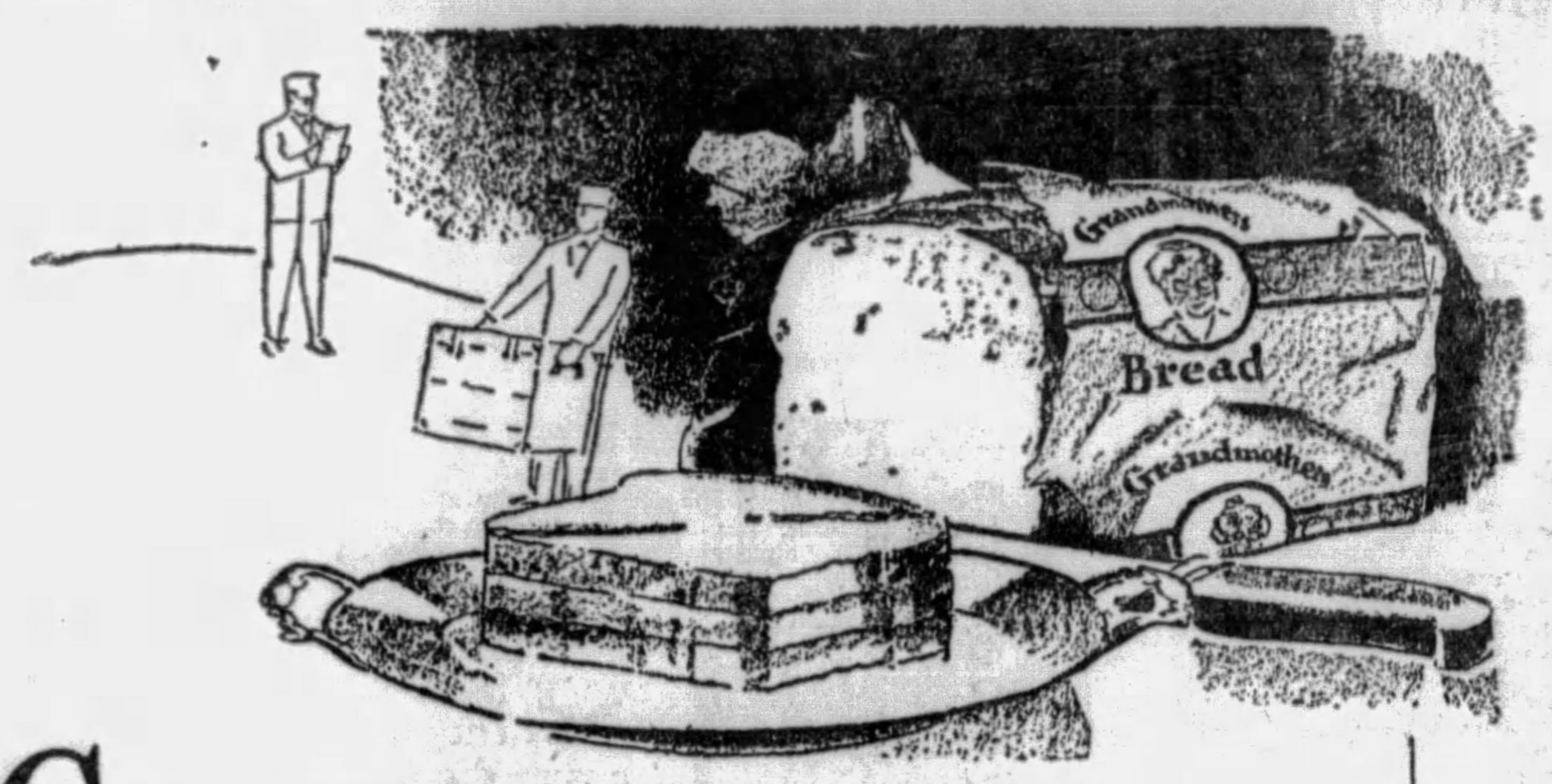
CHILDREN HAVE TO CHEW IT—AND THEY LIKE THE CRISP SHREDS

SHREDDED WHEAT



With 'all the bran of the whole wheat

You don't have to coax children to chew Shredded Wheat—the more they chew it, the better they like it—and that means sound teeth and healthy gums. Just the food for growing youngsters. So delicious and so easy to serve.



GRANDMOTHER'S BREAD
is time controlled —that accounts for its constant *FRESHNESS

Grandmother's Bread is light, moist and fresh. That's the only way it is allowed to cross the counter of your A&P Store. Time Controlled handling assures freshness. All A&P bread is baked in our own Bakery conveniently located to your Local Store. It is delivered to your store frequently and in small quantities, fresh from the bakery ovens. No delays, no extra handlings permit it to surrender its ovenwarm freshness before it reaches you.

Spring and winter wheat flours are blended to produce a cream white flour of rare quality. This is mixed with rich milk, pure shortening, yeast, salt, and sugar in the same proportions at every baking, producing the same even texture, the same delicious medium brown crust. Consistently good, consistently fresh, ... it measures up to the bread ideals in thousands of families.

Grandmother's Bread is baked in two sizes. Select the size that will serve as the day's supply for your household. Come back for a new loaf fresh from the bakery tomorrow.

You'll find other delicious breads in the A&P bread family. Each is baked and delivered to your A&P Store with the same standards of purity and freshness that control Grandmother's Bread. Dairy Maid Bread is a rich tasty "twin loaf" with a thin golden brown crust. Wholewheat Raisin Loaf is just what its name implies—and fresh! White raisin bread, Vienna and Rye bread, are in the list of these fresh A&P breads from which you may choose each day.

A residence under construction at Devonshire street and Ellsworth avenue, Shadyside, has been sold for Mary Lewis to P. J. A brick residence at 1208 Denniston avenue, Fourteenth Ward, has been sold by Leonard S. Cahen to David Whitman.

A residence in Colonial place, Shadyside, lot 90x100 feet, has been sold by Thomas H. Gough to J. Floyd Steele.

William J. Graham has conveyed to John A. Buchanan 102x120 feet in Beaver avenue, North Side.

Charles J. Curry, builder, has purchased 101x232 feet in Selnore avenue, Swissvale, and will improve it with modern homes.

A six-room brick house in Pocussett street near Murray avenue, Fourteenth Ward, has been sold by Harry Weisz to George V. Egerman. The lot is 56x87 feet.

The Brinker Supply Company will build a modern store and showroom in Hamilton avenue, Twelfth Ward. The lot, 102x105 feet, was recently purchased from Mrs. Alberta O. Murdock.

On the South Side, the Goedecke Realty Company sold for Margaret Auers to Stanley Labecki a brick dwelling at 2304 Carey way for $4,500.

The National Casket Company has requested a building permit for an addition to their plant at Chateau and Reedsdale streets, North Side, to cost $50,000.

FEDERAL COSTS INCREASE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—(AP.)—Despite President Hoover's plea for strict government economy, expenses of the various government branches in the first two months of the 1930 fiscal year exceeded those for the same period last year by $21,005,000.

Figures made public by the treasury showed that in July and August of the new year, the departments spent $369,412,454 as compared with $348,317,150 in the same time last year.

The total government expenditures which must be paid out of ordinary receipts, however, showed a decrease of $26,663,433 to $560,650,360. This was attributed to a reduction of $36,000,000 in sinking fund requirements. An additional $100,000,000 of bonds which were purchased for the sinking fund after September 1 offset the decrease, but will not show in the figures until the next statement is issued.

Four government branches, treasury, state, interior and labor, spent less money in the first two months of the present year than last. The executive department itself showed an increase of approximately $9,000 in the first two months.

Danger Signals of High Blood Pressure

"Dizzy spells, hot flashes, pains in the head, shortness of breath, sleeplessness, and nervousness usually indicate high blood pressure," warns physician who found treatment to reduce it.

These are symptoms which show an accumulation of poisonous waste matter in the system or that one or more of your organs has weakened and caused the heart to be overtaxed. Check it at once for it is known high blood pressure brings on hardening of the arteries, and other serious conditions.

Norma, a physician's prescription, reduces blood pressure so surely it is regarded as a great medical success. Often one bottle brings prompt relief. Ask for Norma at Dow Drug Company, or any drug store.

YACHT RESCUES 4 IN BALLOON

TOLEDO, O., Sept. 19.—(AP.)—Four prominent Detroit business men in a balloon were saved from drowning last night by the crew of C. O. Mininger's yacht, Helen, when they found the balloon drifting close to the water about 18 miles out in Lake Erie.

The rescued were Dr. C. B. Legalle, vice president of the Detroit Balloon Club, and owner of the balloon in which he and his companions were traveling; George Ingram, president of the Ingram Steel Company; R. K. Lee, of the Chrysler Corporation, and W. J. Habermass, of the Goodrich Tire and Rubber Company.

Capt. L. B. Lockwood was in command of the rescuing ship.

Dr. Legalle, one of Detroit's veteran balloon enthusiasts, and his companions, left the Detroit Balloon Club for a pleasure flight. None of the other three men had ever taken a balloon flight, he said.

Noting the low altitude at which the balloon—then less than 50 feet above the water—was flying, Capt. Lockwood ordered his ship to the rescue.

A cable was dropped from the balloon to the deck of the Helene, and made fast. The Helene then headed for the Toledo Yacht Club, towing the balloon and its occupants.

When the yacht basin was reached the cable was passed to spectators, who had gathered on the shore, and the balloon was drawn safely to earth.

Fulton, Republican; Norman Wood, Democrat; jury commissioner, John Henry, Republican; Charles T. Conklin, Democrat; director of poor, Harvey Hughes, Democrat. The Republicans had no candidate.

Thompson was standing against a tree waiting for a squirrel. Crawford, his vision obscured by bushes, saw a moving object and fired. The shot hit Thompson above the heart. Coroner Arch Bell rendered a verdict of accidental death. Thompson was unmarried.

WOMEN OPEN CONVENTION

The tenth annual convention of the Pittsburgh Council of Catholic Women opened today at St. Paul's Cathedral. Delegates and members of the Pittsburgh council attended solemn high mass, at which the Rev. Mgr. J. Gorzynski acted as celebrant. The Rt. Rev. Hugh C. Boyle, bishop of Pittsburgh, delivered the address of welcome.

The convention luncheon, served in Webster hall, was marked by musical numbers and addresses. Dr. Anne W. Nicholson, of Washington, D. C., made the first address, taking for her subject, "The Task Ahead of the N. C. C. W." Other talks were given by Dr. G. Guirato, Italian consul; William A. Ryan, president, Layman's Retreat League; Sister Laurentine, of St. Francis Hospital; the Rev. James R. Cox, pastor of St. Patrick's; Mrs. Thomas P. Horan, president of the convention; the Rev. James M. Delaney, director of the Holy Name Society; George Clarkson, of the Western Pennsylvania Safety Council; and Miss Millie Kunzler, president of the Queen's Daughters.

The after luncheon program included a short business session, announcements and a report of the nominating committee by Mrs. D. J. Sullivan, chairman.

This evening, an informal reception for delegates, members and friends will be held in the Council House, 5216 Penn avenue.

Tomorrow, the last day of the convention, will be devoted to the reports from various committees and the election of executive officers.

MUSIC UNBOLTS DRY PADLOCK

That the musical career of five children in the family of Sam Marsili, 211 Jasper street, might not suffer, Judge R. M. Gibson in Federal Court today struck the padlock from the door of the Marsili home.

The padlock had been there since last June 5. Today Marsili signed a $500 bond to insure against liquor law violations.

The removal of the padlock was ordered on petition of Mrs. Theresa Marsili.

Game Warden Sees Good Hunting Ahead

FRANKLIN, Pa., Sept. 19.—Hunting will be good in Venango, Forest, Clarion and adjacent counties, in the opinion of Game Warden Herbert Beatty.

"The drought has been pronounced in all this territory, but there is enough food for game until fall comes, and then we will resort to feeding the birds and small game that survive," he said.

Ferris Wheel Marks Party of Debutante

GLEN HEAD, N. Y., Sept. 19.—(AP.)—It is the fashion now for girls to make their debuts at Long Island country estates instead of at town houses in the winter. But Barbara Barnes had another innovation at her party. A Ferris wheel, a shooting gallery and a snake charmer were among the entertainments.

TONIC QUALITIES OF KONJOLA ARE HIGHLY PRAISED

Pittsburgher Says He Eats Better, Sleeps Better, Has Gained 12 Lbs., Since Taking New Medicine.

Still they come—enthusiastic indorsements of the new and different medicine, Konjola, from all sections of Pittsburgh and all surrounding communities. Only a medicine of outstanding merit, a medicine that makes good, would such vast numbers of Pittsburgh men and women voluntarily indorse and enthusiastically praise.

MR. LOUIS LA LONDE

Among recent indorsements of this new medicine is one from Mr. Louis La Londe, who lives at 1236 Sheffield Street, Pittsburgh, who called upon a Konjola Man a short time ago to praise the tonic qualities of Konjola. There are two Konjola Men in Pittsburgh; one at the Dow drug store (formerly McCulloch's), Penn Avenue and Sixth Street; the other at the Dow drug store (formerly McCulloch's), Diamond and Smithfield Streets, this city. Call upon either for full information about this remarkable compound which has become the most talked-of medicine in the nation. Read Mr. La Londe's statement, which provides an excellent example of Konjola in action against the causes of a run-down condition:

"I owe a great deal to Konjola, for it has made life seem worth living again. This wonderful tonic has strengthened and built me up in every way. Before I started taking Konjola I was in a badly weakened condition. For several years my appetite had been poor and my sleep restless. I hardly knew what it was to get a good night's sleep. I was bothered by night sweats that would leave me exhausted, and I became very nervous and irritable. I never ate any breakfast, for I never felt like doing so. I lost weight and seemed to have no ambition for my work. The days seemed very long and I had to force myself to work.

"Recently I was doing some remodeling in one of Dow's drug stores and I got to talking with the manager about my condition. He suggested that I try Konjola and I did so. In less than a month I was sleeping soundly, without night sweats, and eating my meals with relish. It was two months ago that I started to take Konjola, and in that time I have gained back 12 pounds of my lost weight. I feel better in every way. Work seems a pleasure to me and the days seem short. I had tried several other tonics before I started on Konjola, but none of them gave me results as Konjola did. I can sincerely recommend this medicine to all who need something to build up their strength and energy."

In addition to its virtues as a super-tonic, Konjola has built up an amazing record of accomplishment in the relief of disorders of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, and of rheumatism, neuritis and nervousness.

There is a Konjola Man at the Dow drug store (formerly McCulloch's), Penn Avenue and Sixth Street, and another at the Dow drug store (formerly McCulloch's), Diamond and Smithfield Streets, Pittsburgh. There also is a Konjola Man at Dow's drug store, 5939 Penn Avenue, East Liberty. All are daily introducing and explaining the merits of this modern medicine.

America Wins Admiration in Fight on Dope

By SENATOR STEPANO CAVAZZONI.

Member of the Italian Delegation to the League of Nations, Member of the League's Advisory Committee on Drugs and Leader in the Fight Sponsored by Premier Mussolini for Effective International Action Against the Drug Evil.

GENEVA, Sept. 19.—In the matter of combatting the narcotic peril, a fact to be noted is that among the many suggestions and projects presented at the Geneva conference are certain principles worthy of being retained.

This status is due to the American representatives who have pointed them out and insisted vigorously upon their recognition—an act which has brought the United States the respect and admiration of all thinking people the world over.

These principles follow:

1. To determine, after investigation by a hygienic committee, the average quantity of narcotics representing the annual needs for world consumption for medical and scientific purposes—with a sufficient margin for exceptional cases.

2. The necessity for attributing to each of the manufacturing countries its quota of drugs which would be prepared annually, said countries to pledge by accord not to exceed their quota.

3. Foreseeing a country starting to produce narcotics, certain arrangements would be made and certain regulations applied. In other words the principle contingent would be adopted.

Might Solve Case

This principle, I think, is the only one capable of solving radically the problem of over-production. Unhappily, as I have said, the solution which prevailed at last in the course of the conference was very different. The principle of limitation and quota was discarded and of control adopted.

It was feared that the withdrawal of the United States from the conference weakened the international fight against narcotics. But a good seed germinated meanwhile. America's action had the deepest and most sympathetic reaction with Italian public opinion.

In 1926, Italy presented the general problem at the assembly. Insisting on the necessity of pushing through international action against narcotics. A few months later Italy presented to the commission on opium a proposal to limit the manufacture of narcotics on a quota basis.

Her project was refused. The opinion of the commission was that the only appropriate method was that of strict control. In the spirit of reconciliation, Italy accepted this course.

Asked Special Study

Italy asked that a commission of the League of Nations to study the narcotic problem be assembled in extraordinary session. An Italian member of the commission submitted a detailed project for the vigorous control of all phases of the production of and traffic in drugs. If this system had been accepted, it would have had almost the same value as direct limitation.

Was it for this reason it was rejected? I do not know. But rejected it was.

I am convinced now, in confirmation of my previous conviction, that limitation only is the solution, and we have returned to it, as the discussions now show. At any price we must heal in one way or another the dread disease which devitalizes nations, ruins progress and dishonors civilization.

America, always Italy's ally in this fight, again has taken up arms. The project of limitation will come into its own.

Stay in Fight

As I write this dispatch, the Italian delegation is presenting the question of direct limitation once more to the fifth commission of the League of Nations.

It would be a great mistake for anyone to think that constant setbacks have weakened the determination of Italy and the United States. In a subsequent article I will show how we have decided to continue this fight to the very end.

This duel for the triumph of the basic principle of justice and humanitarian kindness already has excited public opinion and provoked adherence to the cause of many countries which, up to the present, had not manifested sufficient interest in this all-important problem.

In this way the nucleus of good and stalwart fighters in a good cause grows larger and more powerful each day.

Va., Sept. 19.—(A.P.)—Action on a proposal to merge the United Presbyterian Church with the Presbyterian Church of the United States was deferred by the Bluestone presbytery at the close of a two-day session here. Theater Reflections Include Announcement of New Amusement Bills

PEOPLE OF THE MIMIC WORLD GET KNOCKS THE PUBLIC DOESN'T KNOW ABOUT

By GEORGE SEIBEL

BARRY LUPINO gets more sympathy than anybody else in the theatrical profession. He is the comedian in "The Red Robe," who falls all over the Nixon stage and bumps his head against all the scenery. "He really hurt himself that time," is the expression one often hears from the audience. But Barry Lupino knows better than to hurt himself. For three centuries the Lupino family has been tumbling and falling without sustaining any serious damage.

George Seibel

But Barry Lupino really feels hurt this week. He has been visiting the second-hand book shops, for he is a collector of books, and several items he was keen about had just been sold. He suspects me.

"You knew I'd be along looking for things on the history of the stage," he told me, "and you must have gone about last week to corral anything I might want."

When Barry Lupino comes to town again I will have to supply the old book men with some rare out-of-print volumes to make him feel he hasn't wasted his time in coming to Pittsburgh.

Lupino is a student and a scholar, as well as a rare comedian. He has a library of many thousand volumes in his English home, to which he is always adding—except when he gets to Pittsburgh. For that he holds me responsible.

Frances Starr Has Real Grief

But that charming lady and gifted actress, Frances Starr, who is playing with George Sharp's company this week in "The Constant Wife," encountered a real grief when she came to Pittsburgh.

One of her oldest friends in this city was Allan Davis. Some years ago, when he had written "The Inner Light," a peace play, Miss Starr seriously considered putting it on. And Allan Davis was always trying to persuade her that she should appear in high comedy. So it pleased her to come here in Somerset Maugham's drama, thinking that Allan Davis would be pleased.

When she did not hear from him, she made inquiries, and learned that Allan Davis had died. And the world behind the curtain is so much a world apart that she did not hear of it until yesterday.

"One of the finest souls I ever knew," she said, "a poet, a scholar, a man of the highest ideals. He was always ready to help with a word of encouragement or an act of kindness. Any labor was light that he could perform for a friend. Pittsburgh suffered a great loss—literature and the stage suffered a great loss—when Allan Davis passed away."

And the moisture in her eyes, the tremor in her voice, were not tricks of the stage.

Pittsburgh Girl Met Gene O'Neill

A letter from Vera Simonton, the Pittsburgh girl who wrote the novel, "Hell's Playground," on which the drama "White Cargo" was based, tells of meeting Eugene O'Neill in Europe. O'Neill has been in very bad health, and also in very bad humor over the undue interest taken in his matrimonial affairs. He intends to live in France hereafter, where he can live in peace. Paris during the winter and the Riviera during the summer, such are his present plans.

Miss Simonton, who is now in Moscow, writes that Eugene O'Neill has the saddest eyes she has ever seen. "As if he had looked too long upon the sorrow of the world."

Perhaps he will get a laugh when he hears that Boston tried to prevent performances of "Strange Interlude" by the Theater Guild.

Film Star

Dolores Costello will be the star in "Hearts In Exile," photoplay opening in the Stanley Friday.

Office Appliance Managers to Meet

The Office Applance Managers' Association of Pittsburgh will hold its first fall dinner tomorrow at 6:30 p. m., in the blue room of the William Penn Hotel. An extensive program has been announced, and George W. Lee, of Rochester, N. Y., director of machine sales for the Todd Company, will speak.

Walter Winchell On Broadway

Novelettes

THE shooting of Danny Ahearn, of New York, in a Cleveland gang tiff the other day reminds God's Gift To The Columning World that Ahearn was John Gilbert's bodyguard when the pashy cinema favorite was Doing Broadway a year ago. Gilbert, it appears, wanted to see how the inside of the Main Stem worked, its underworld characters, its midnight-to-yawning system, and its so-called wicked tricks.

But Gilbert had heard of its treachery, so taking no risks, he arranged to have "One Of The Mob" protect him and his interests. Ahearn was selected because he not only knew the rounds, but had charm, manner, poise and could swap intelligent chatter.

So the team proceeded to this sinden and that one. The various speakeasies and other colorful spots were frequented and the proprietors, learning the identity of their distinguished patron, "put on the works."

A group of desperate novices, however, seeking a reputation for daring, plotted to kidnap the movie star but bungled things by kidnaping the wrong man—Ahearn, who was locked in a flat and robbed of $3,000 in cash.

When the inexperienced badmen finally discovered their boner two days later they dispatched the $3,000 to Ahearn via special messenger and wrote him a letter of apology.

ESCAPE AND SEQUEL

AMONG the post-mortems on the Big Tiff swapped across a restaurant table the other 4 o'clock in the morning was this tale. One of Manhattan's better families, hysterical with fear that their only son would have to go to war and die, had him shipped to South America, where he was safe from the draft.

The lad was kept there until two years after peace had been signed and then his influential father spent over two millions to square things at Washington. The son was then instructed to return to New York, and the tribe went in their Rolls-Royces to welcome him back.

As he stepped from the pier he slipped on a greasy substance and fell, damaging his vertebrae. The spine trouble that followed has kept him in a sick and plaster cast ever since!

THE story is similar to the one about another family who, learning that their only boy had enlisted in the navy at the time, implored him to let the head of the house arrange with his powerful friends to have him transferred to a safe spot, the quartermaster division. The boy reluctantly agreed, but once he went to sea he never wrote home and for the duration of the war they could not locate him.

When he finally returned, the lad explained that he served on a munitions ship for over a year, escaped the torpedoes of submarines and all the other horrors, coming back sans a scratch.

The same week he was felled by a wild pitch on a baseball lot and died from a fractured skull.

BELIEVE IT OR NOT

WHEN the New York Globe went to pieces, Robert L. Ripley, the "Believe It Or Not" expert, also faded from the Metropolitan scene, and any of the boys will tell you that the breaks come swifter when you have "New York representation." So Ripley searched for a job here but the huge army of imitators underbid him so low, but pirating his cartoon style so well, that editors hired them, and told Rip he was too expensive.

A syndicate, however, took him on after two years had passed, and The New York Post bought his immensely entertaining material for a song. But those two years of practically being forgotten!

Recently the Hearst outfit bagged Ripley at a figure that must have made his competitors' heads swim. Ripley's stuff immediately crashed into 140 newspapers.

And the lads whose consciences never bothered them, as they picked his pockets, are without portfolio and have returned to driving nails or trucks.

"HELLO, YOUR NAME PLEASE"

THOSE of us who get our names in the newspapers every day in the year are not as well known as you think we think we are.

Take Heywood Broun, frixample. Mr. Broun is a renowned essayist and columnist for the New York Telegram. Before his present association he served the World and the Herald Tribune and his pieces have been conspicuously featured in the paper for many years. He is quite a rounder, too, making this port and that one along the Broadway sector and the "mob" know him.

After witnessing the delightful "Sweet Adeline" show with Ruth Hale, his wife, the other performance, the Brouns went back stage to felicitate the star, Helen Morgan. Mr. Broun and Miss Morgan, you might say, are pals, having watched the dawn come up like thunder many a night before the night club curfew law, as it is laughingly called, went into effect.

AFTER great bother convincing the stage doorman that he was Heywood Broun, he was admitted back stage and ushered into the star's dressing room, already crowded with admirers.

"Hello, hello, hello!" cried Helen Morgan as she embraced and kissed him passionately, "it's so good to see you again."

"You were marvelous tonight," said Broun. "divine, wonderful, grand! This is my wife, Ruth Hale."

"Oh, you've made me so happy," said Miss Morgan as she stepped out of Mr. Broun's arms, "and I know you'll think me terrible, but what is your name, again?"

MEET MY FRIEND

AMONG other tragedies of love is the sour break that came to a well-known girl whose five-year romance with a money man abruptly came to an end last week. Unlike the average Broadway golddigger, she has no intention of taking her heartaches to court to hold up for coin the man who jilted her.

The long affair ended two Mondays ago. On Sunday the lad married another woman and as she was dining in the Central Park Casino the newlyweds ankled in and were placed at the adjoining table. Leo Reisman's Orchestra, innocently enough, added to her pain by playing five "torch" tunes in a row, such as "Can't We Be Friends," "True Blue Lou," "Moanin' Low," "The Man I Love" and "What Is This Thing Called Love?"

A Broadway reporter listened to the story of jilt, and then in his eagerness for a "line" asked her the fellow's name. "Never mind that," she replied, "I don't want to hurt him or his wife."

"Well then," said The Great Gabbo, "who's the gal he married?"

"A girl friend of mine," she answered, "who was always so lonesome that whenever he took me any place I always insisted she come along."

Missionaries' Slaying Blamed on Pacifists

HANKOW, China, Sept. 19.—(AP.) The Franciscan mission here has been advised from Ichang that Bishop Trudo Jans and two Franciscan fathers, Bruno and Rupertus, killed last week, were the victims of "spirit soldiers," members of a fanatical anti-military organization throughout the province of Hupeh. The three victims were Belgians. Bishop Jans had lived in China 22 years.

The wedding was celebrated at Malmsjoe in the presence of the King, the Crown Prince and Princess and members of the Swedish aristocracy.

STAGE, SCREEN AS PROGRAMS CHANGE

Seats are on sale in the box office of the Nixon for the engagement of Glenn Hunter in Irma Kraft's new play, "Reborn," opening Monday evening, September 23.

"The Last of Mrs. Cheyney," next week's offering of the George Sharp Players in the Pitt, is a comedy with quaint situations which gives an insight into English titled society. The third act situation is said to be a "masterpiece of embarrassment."

William Haines' new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer starring vehicle, "Speedway," is coming to the Penn Monday. Much of it was filmed at the Indianapolis races. Teddy Joyce will head the stage show.

"Hearts in Exile," the latest talking production starring Dolores Costello, comes to the Stanley screen Friday. On the stage Brooke Johns will present "Meet the Girls."

DIGGING GOES ON

"Why Leave Home?" photoplay comes to the Aldine Monday. It features Sue Coral and Nick Stuart.

Vaudeville at the Harris in the new show starting Saturday will include Talbot Kinney and Girls, the Metropolitan Singers, the Three Dales, Marty and Nancy, Eddie Malle with the new master of ceremonies. The screen feature will be Hobart Bosworth in "The Hurricane."

Billie Dove's latest all talking production "Her Private Life," will be the feature in the Olympic Monday.

BILLS IN EAST END

"Fast Company" comes to the Enright Saturday, with Jack Oakie in the leading role, as the talking screen attraction. On the stage Dick Powell will present "Bits O' Broadway."

The show that opens in the Sheridan Square Saturday afternoon will have Victor Graff as master of ceremonies. The Three Vim Boys, the Four Flashes, Davis and Dwan, Morton and Horton and other acts will complete the bill. The screen feature will be "The Hurricane," a talkie with Hobart Bosworth.

The Regent will inaugurate a new policy by presenting its new weekly bill Friday instead of Saturday as previously. The first feature under the new plan will be "The Hottentot," which will open tomorrow.

"On With the Show," color production, opens in the Liberty and Colonial theaters Friday.

Older

Glenn Hunter is no more the "Merton of the Movies." He has a more mature role in "Re-Born," next week's attraction in the Nixon.

FLAG WINNERS VISIT HOLLAND

By FLOYD E. WILLIAMSON

Escort of the American Flag Champions Going Around the World as Guests of the Hearst Newspapers

AMSTERDAM, Sept. 19.—Flowers, airplanes and Rembrandt masterpieces occupied the attention of the four young flag champions today as they motored over the dykes of Holland.

Arriving from Berlin late last night they were met by J. J. Chabot, head of the Holland-American Chamber of Commerce, who acted as official host during their stay.

The four young people saw diamonds cut and polished and visited the queen's palace, later going to the Rex Museum where they enjoyed contrasting the realism of the Dutch school with the imaginative Italian school which captured their fancy a few days ago in the galleries of Italy.

The champions are Robert L. Sullivan, Anna E. Groves, Mary S. McGonigal and Merle W. Clarke. They are winners of the United States Flag Association contest.

They later saw mountains of flowers and watched the auction of blossoms and then saw them placed in airplanes to grace tonight's dinner table in London, Paris and Berlin.

Tomorrow the champions will go by boat across the Zuyder Zee to the quaint isle of Marken and before leaving for Brussels will visit The Hague.

The boys and girls are all anxious to see their folks at home yet express regret that their tour of the world is nearly over. They are looking forward to Brussels, Paris and London and are especially delighted to know that when they reach Paris Sunday night they will be entertained at the beautiful home of Ganna Walska.

Meditations of a Wife

By HELEN ROWLAND

New Lamps For Old

THE only book "heroines" that the modern girl seems to enjoy reading about are the sort of women that she would not speak to on the street.

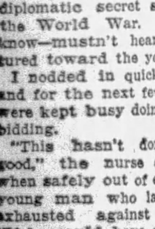
The hardest luck a girl can have, in this life, is to "save all her kisses for the right man"—and then marry the wrong one.

* * *

No matter how much you expect of a husband, alas, you always find something about him that you DIDN'T suspect.



HELEN ROWLAND

A man's winter loves like his winter clothes, may be carried over from year to year; but his summer love, like his bathing suit, is just a one-season affair, and is usually frazzled out before that is half over.

* * *

The worthiest man sometimes looks back upon all the creditable deeds of his career, with a faint feeling of regret, and remembers with a thrill of pride only the one or two little temptations he failed to resist.

* * *

Every man is at heart something of a romanticist; and when a girl becomes too hard-boiled to awaken his imagination, she soon discovers that she can't even arouse his senses, beyond a kiss or two.

* * *

Some men have to have a lively breakfast-table argument to tone them up for the day. But, to an intelligent woman, it seems foolish to waste a lot of brilliant logic on a man who is legally bound to listen to her.

* * *

The most faithful and devoted husbands always seem to have the dowdiest wives. It's the uncertain kind, who inspire a woman to spend her days running around to beauty parlors, and passionately pursuing new diets and complexion treatments.

* * *

It's astonishing, how little hope a man's love can live on—and how quickly a little certainty will kill it.

Love's Awakening

A Continuation of Love's Embers

By ADELE GARRISON

Second Attempt Made on Prince Georges' Life

WITH sympathetic understanding of my desire to know what had happened, Lillian murmured a warning as we brought up the rear of the little procession transferring young Prince Georges from the car to Dicky's room which Katie was putting in readiness for him.

"Presently," she said with the trick of inaudible conversation from the corner of her mouth which she perfected while in the diplomatic secret service during the World War. "He doesn't know—mustn't hear—" she gestured toward the young prince.

I nodded in quick acquiesence, and for the next few minutes we were kept busy doing Katherine's bidding.

"This hasn't done him any good," the nurse said at last, when safely out of earshot of the young man who lay pallid and exhausted against his pillows. "If he could have stayed at the hospital, it would have been a matter of a few days only. But now, although he's in no danger, we may be in for a siege. However—you'll simply have to do the best you can."

"Than which nothing can be better," I added. "You don't need us any more, do you? I see a professional look in your windward eye which tells me that having run your errands, we are now superfluous."

"You are eminently correct," Katherine replied with a malicious little grin. Lillian joined in:

"Just for that, you'll wait a spell to hear the inside dope about this. But you'd better know that your patient's version—removal from the hospital because Dr. Pettit thought he'd be better off at the farmhouse in your care—scarcity of private nurses at the hospital—is the only one he must guess. I'll take Madge downstairs now and dish the dirt. Later, if you're a good little girl, I'll let you in on it."

"Tomorrow or next day will be plenty of time," the little nurse returned nonchalantly, and I knew that she really was as indifferent to Lillian's news as she appeared. All her faculties were focused upon the present problem—of preventing the siege of illness which she feared for her patient.

"Just one thing more," Katherine added, with an apprehensive look toward the closed door leading to the outside balcony. "Luckily Mother Graham didn't hear us come upstairs—she's on the opposite side of the house from the driveway, and Junior's so busy with that building game of his that he wouldn't hear a caterpillar tank. Mary's asleep, Allah be praised, so we've saved quite a bit of emotional excitement. I leave the task of enlightening the family in your capable hands."

She blew us a mischievous kiss and went back swiftly to her patient, while Lillian and I looked at each other blankly.

"Well! who'll take whom?" she asked finally.

"If you'll stay within call of Mary's room, so if she awakes you can go to her," I decided, "I'll tell Mother Graham of Prince Georges' arrival, and give her the ostensible reason—scarcity of nurses—which you have just mentioned. I'll ask her to sit near Mary's door and tell her granddaughter the news of her fiance when she thinks it wise to do so. Then I'll take Junior down to Jim in the chicken yards. That will keep him out of the way all the afternoon."

"All right, general," she retorted with a grin, and I hurried to the balcony where Mother Graham sat reading while Junior, in a corner, was absorbed in his intricate building game. My mother-in-law was far less difficult than I had feared, and promised to look after Mary, and it was but a few minutes before Lillian and I were shut up in the library comfortably conscious that Junior was safe in Jim's care, and that Harry Underwood in his own room was helping Noel Veritzen to regain his composure, sadly shattered by his terror of Mary's safety.

"Now," Lillian said crisply, and I saw with tense nerves that her eyes looked as if the story she was about to tell me had brought horror to her. "Here's the inside dope. That chap with the scar like a comma was keener than we thought. He must have found out that Prince Georges had been taken to the hospital. He must even have known the location of his room, for he planned to throw a bomb through the window of Georges' room this morning."

Something in her phrasing struck me as odd. As she hesitated, I put a quesaion, something I almost never do when Lillian is discussing a problem.

"You say he planned to throw it? Didn't he succeed, or didn't it explode?"

How to Keep Well

By Royal S. Copeland, M. D.

Teach Benefits of Sun and Right Food

WE are beginning to appreciate more than ever that sunshine has the most beneficial effect on the health. All of us should plan to be out in the sun part of each day. Children and young people require perfect health for their future work in the world. If they are to have it they must be taught the value of sunshine.

DR. COPELAND

But there is another way, too, to aid the necessary building-up process to make us strong and fit. That is the diet.

A report made at a meeting in Atlantic City of noted physicians interested in tuberculosis cited the fact that there had been a great increase recently in tuberculosis among young women. These men believe that diet and late hours are the principal causes of this increase.

It is their belief, also, that many other constitutional disturbances are traceable to improper diet. Since the fad of reducing, like that of any other fad, has been carried to extremes, many young women have impaired their health by the rigid requirement of rapid reduction. This is a serious matter.

Young girls at adolescence are often on the border line of anemia. In some cases it has already begun. At no other time is proper food more important than during this growing and developing period.

Anemia is a condition brought about by a lack of red blood corpuscles. Sometimes it is temporary, but often it becomes more or less permanent. This type is known as pernicious anemia. The first thing to do when anemia is suspected is to consult your physician for a thorough examination.

There are many diseases in which proper diet is essential.

Special experiments have been made with foods that will supply the right properties to aid in the building up of the red corpuscles. Liver ranks first for a blood building food. It may be calf's, beef, pig or chicken liver. All have similar properties.

Due to the intensive work that has been done to check these constitutional diseases, new ways of serving food become doubly important. For instance, you couldn't eat liver cooked the same way every day. But you could take it if it were served you in some tempting new dish. I saw a booklet giving endless ideas about cooking and serving liver and this struck me as an excellent little volume.

In these days, the diet of young girls who take part in sports and athletics is carefully supervised. Thus the vigorous exercise in the fresh air, plus the right food taken in the right proportions, builds up the brain and body with the result that they are strong and rugged.

Sunshine, fresh air, exercise in moderation and proper food will go far in maintaining your good health and in restoring it.

FRIENDSHIP AND LOVE

Drawn by DOROTHY FLACK

MOST people think that friendship and love are two entirely different emotions. Well, I'm not so sure of that! Wasn't it the beautiful Byron who said that "Friendship is Love without his wings?"

And how could there be any love in the world if Friendship didn't enter largely into the mutual relationship. The most beautiful words that I ever heard a human being say were those of a dear friend of mine about her husband. She said, "Our marriage is bound to be a success—we're such congenial friends!" There's a lot to think about in those words. We marry for love, but if fine friendship doesn't enter into the contract—what happens?

Two who find themselves congenial, happy in each other's company, having mutual likes and interests — what is more natural than that such a feeling would ripen into Love. And what happiness they then find, for they have everything on which to base true Love. So when you find someone who is a friend never be afraid when the friendly feeling is displaced by Love. For you may be sure that it is the Right One and that there you will find your true happiness.

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

Wedding Niceties

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1—Is it proper for the best man to buy the wedding flowers, or is the groom supposed to buy them?

2—What color shoes should a bridesmaid or maid of honor wear with a green dress? Do you think white slippers would be all right?

3—What is the best way to get acquainted with a young man who is very bashful? He asked one of the girls in our club to introduce me, but she won't do it, and I would like to become acquainted with him.

CECELIA.

1—The groom always sends the bridal bouquet to his bride. I hate to think that there is a groom in the world who would let anyone else send the bridal bouquet to his bride!

Usually the bouquets for the bridal attendants are sent by the bride or her parents. You see, these are planned to harmonize with the costumes of the attendants—especially in these days of emphasis on the ensemble idea—and of course it is easier for the people who planned the ensemble to send the flowers that are to accompany it, than for the groom to. The best man does not send any flowers for the wedding.

2—Green shoes, dyed to match the shade of the dress, are more in harmony with a green costume than are white shoes.

3—Ask this girl again—I am sure that she will make the introduction. If she doesn't, she is a "meanie".

Thank You!

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN.

Your wonderful column has been of great help to me, and now I come to you with some questions which I hope you won't think "queer."

1—When attending a theatre, is it proper to thank the usher for the seat he has offered?

2—When attending with a gentleman, who tells the usher the location of seats?

3—Is it the gentleman's place to thank him? D. I. D.

THANK you—I'm glad that you find the column helpful. And indeed your questions aren't queer—they are ones that come to all of us, and always demand thinking.

1—Yes, this is the polite and gracious thing to do.

2—The gentleman.

3—Yes.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Friday, September 20

ALTHOUGH there are some testimonies of gain and progress to be found among the sidereal operations for this day, yet the general trend of affairs is toward upheaval, turmoil and confusion. There is physical peril among the portents as well as a general state of clamor and agitation, although the purely personal relations may have a tendency toward the reticent and sedate. Diplomacy, tact and fine friendships may assist in bridging over the rough and menacing places.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year of upheaval and confusion, with perils to the physical safety and menace to the general state of affairs through anger, violence and possibly fraud or misrepresentation. Tact, self-control and the aid of friendship may turn the affairs into successful and profitable channels.

A child born on this day, while having some splendid traits of character, may require much training and discipline in order to inculcate calm and well-governed deportment.

POPE RECEIVES ITALIAN ENVOY

ROME, Sept. 19.—(INS.)—The situation arising from recent speeches by Pope Pius XI and Premier Mussolini is believed to have been discussed by the Pontiff and Italian Ambassador DeVecchi at the Vatican today. The Italian envoy accredited to the Holy See was received in audience by the Pope.

In a speech last Saturday the Premier defended the right of the Italian state to educate the young, defended the Fascist government's policies and said the clergy "sentinels were on guard and were watching every movement."

The Pope in a speech the following day replied to Mussolini and declaring Catholic youth would pursue their task of recruiting members to the ranks of Catholic youth "ignoring informers."

U. S. MOVIES WIN FRENCH TRUCE

PARIS, Sept. 19.—(AP.)—A truce in the conflict between French moving picture interest and American producers is being arranged by Harold L. Smith, representing the motion picture organization of the United States, and Francois Poncet, French minister of fine arts.

Some details of the agreement remain to be settled, but in the main, the accord will be based on the suspension of the regulations whereby American producers are required to buy one French picture for every three American films sold in France.

This regulation will not be abrogated at once, but will be allowed to slumber while negotiations continue and American producers meanwhile will come back to the French market.

Five Candidates Tie; Get One Vote Each

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., Sept. 19.—Five candidates for burgess in Eastvale Borough are tied for the Republican nomination with one vote each. No names of candidates were printed on the ballots and electors wrote in the names. Now the candidates will have to draw for the nomination.

Court Allegheny Will Visit Falls

POINCARE MAY QUIT POLITICS

PARIS, Sept. 19.—(INS.)—Former Premier Raymond Poincare's illness is of such a serious nature that he probably will be unable to re-enter public life or take any part in political controversies in the future, it was learned from an authoritative source today.

Poincare recently underwent an operation for prostatic trouble. Later, he contracted a cold and lung congestion followed. Now, it is understood, there are other complications which have increased the gravity of his condition.

The surgeons expected to perform another operation.

Anxiety over the statesman increased when a cancer specialist was summoned into consultation.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Society Folk to Attend Westmoreland Hunt Show Tomorrow

WHEN the Westmoreland Hunt horse show starts tomorrow in Greensburg quite a few familiar faces will be seen in the grandstand, it seems. This show always attracts many Pittsburghers and Sewickleyans, and this year is no exception.

YESTERDAY saw a most attractive wedding in the Shadyside Presbyterian Church. Sara Louise Gwinner, daughter of the Edward William Gwinners, of Fifth avenue, was the bride, and she was married to Frederic Eaton Crispin, son of the Clarence Gearhart Crispins, of New York. The ceremony was performed at 5:30 o'clock by the Rev. Dr. Hugh Thomson Kerr.

Sara was given in marriage by her father, and she wore a gown of cream satin and rose point lace, with a semi-circular flounce falling to the floor to form a short train. Her tulle veil was held in place with a cap of rose point lace and orange blossoms, and she carried a shower of roses and lilies of the valley. The two honor attendants, Mrs. Frederick Gwinner III and Laurie Tenny Klock, of Syracuse, N. Y., appeared in canary chiffon made with deep collars edged with cocoa brown lace, and uneven hem lines edged with the lace. Their hats were of brown velvet.

Frocks in pumpkin orange chiffon and brown velvet hats were worn by the bridesmaids, Mary Barbara Shiras, Mrs. Gordon Fisher, Jr., Mrs. John Hayes Follansbee and Eleanor Gillespie, of Orange, N. J. All the girls carried autumn flowers.

Benjamin Eaton Crispin was his brother's best man and the ushers included Frederick Gwinner III, Edward William Gwinner, Jr., James Oliver Flower and Gordon Fisher, Jr., all of this city; T. Felton Wimberly, of Birmingham, Ala.; William W. Knapp, Jr., of Romulus, N. Y., and Roger Whitman, of Garden City, L. I.

After the service there was a reception and dinner at the house, with covers laid for 32 at the bridal table. Mrs. Gwinner received in a gown of grape chiffon velvet trimmed with lace to match, and a hat of the same shade. Mrs. Crispin wore cypress green velvet with a hat to match.

Mr. and Mrs. Crispin are motoring to Syracuse, where they will be members of the bridal party at the wedding of Miss Klock and Mr. Crispin's brother, Benjamin Crispin. Later, they will be at home in New York.

Mrs. Johnston Fetes Federation Officers

MRS. RALPH W. JOHNSTON, president of the Congress of Clubs, entertained at her first official function last night, a delightfully-appointed dinner in honor of the national and state officers, who were here for the opening of the homemakers' exposition. Included among the guests were Mrs. John F. Sippel, president of the national organization, the General Federation of Women's Clubs; Mrs. John A. Frick, president of the State Federation of Pennsylvania Women, and Mrs. Ambrose Nevin Diehl, vice president of the State Federation. Others present included Mrs. S. C. Grier, former chairman of literature in the State Federation; Mrs. John S. Sloan and Miss Helen Grimes, both past presidents of the Congress; Mrs. Joseph Grandey, president of the Beaver County Federation; Mrs. J. G. Chalfant, Allegheny County Federation; Mrs. D. M. Cummins, Washington County Federation; Mrs. Walter R. Fleming, Chartiers Clubs' Association, and Mrs. Harry Christy, Indiana County Federation. Mrs. Sippel told in her own impressive way of the heavy odds against which she saw the club women of Alaska working when she made a trip up there this summer. Mrs. Frick's talk had to do with the Erie convention of the State Federation, which is to be held next month.

Both Mrs. Sippel and Mrs. Frick spoke yesterday morning in the South Side High School on the program which opened the homemakers' exposition. Present also were Miss Florence Dibert, a former president of the state; Mrs. John E. McKirdy, president of the district; Mrs. John Castle, of Lancaster, president of the State Farm Women's Association, and Mrs. Charles Musser, of Lansdowne, chairman of county work in the State Federation. Mrs. John M. Phillips, general chairman of the exposition and chairman of the home department of the Federation, spoke concerning the purpose of the exposition; the Beaver County Choral sang, and Mrs. Mildred Reinheimer sang Mrs. Charles Morris Johnson's song written for the occasion. The pageant written by Mrs. Chester F. Johnston was an impressive part of the ceremonies. About 3,000 persons attended the exposition yesterday.

Tonight a demonstration of preparing a 45-minute dinner will be given by Miss Karen Fladoes in the high school and Miss Marion Stephenson, of New York, will give a fashion talk, using junior club women as models.

MacVay, dean of girls at Wadleigh High School, New York City, and vice president of the American Classical League, who will be in general charge of all committees for the bimillenium, will address the Pittsburgh meeting. Stevenson, a debate on whether women should be active for political offices, a talk on books, an original Christmas story, the ninth anniversary celebration, an interior decoration talk, an address by the Rev. Dr. Carl Wallace Petty, and others by Dr. L. M. Herrington and Anthony M. Goldberger, a club play, and other events are listed in the new year books of the Woman's Club of Monaca. The club season opened Monday.

THE talkies are going to bring back the theater, Frances Starr, guest star with the George Sharp Players, told the Women's Press Club yesterday. The vast movie audiences who never realized that their heroes and heroines had voices have suddenly been made aware that the shadows speak and soon they will be wanting the substance in place of the shadows, Miss Starr believes. She was the guest of the Press Club at luncheon in the Woman's City Club.

THE Monday Club of Carnegie will begin its season Monday with the annual business meeting. A program has been prepared on South America, some particularly interesting topics having been chosen for the various papers which the women will give during the year. Special events include the president's reception in honor of Mrs. P. W. Heck, which will be held October 21, the annual luncheon in April and the closing meeting in June.

FLOWERED CHIFFON VELVET ONE OF NEWEST PARISIAN FABRICS

Sketched in Paris

Moire Continues To Be Very Popular

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Sept. 18.—Roses for remembrances when summer has passed are to be found on many of the lovely frocks designed for autumn and winter wear. For women are loth to part with floral patterned materials that lend such cool beauty and grace to both afternoon and evening frocks. And so we find that their wishes have been met by some very attractive floral printed chiffon velvets. The houses showing these dresses report an enthusiastic response from many of their clients.

AT the risk of repetition, we must make mention of the continued success of moire. This fabric is being used to fashion clothes for both formal and informal functions, and it certainly does lend itself perfectly to the prevailing silhouette of which sveltness is the keynote. Houses that overlooked moire as a fashion high-light have hastily created frocks of that fabric. As the house of Premet was one of the first to predict the moire mode we are glad to show a sketch of one of their very successful models. It is an afternoon dress in crepe-de-Chine moire in an effective shade of navy blue. As is the case with all the models of this clever designer, the detailed cut of this frock will repay your careful attention. Two curving, slightly circular flounces trim the bodice at front and back, and similar pieces are found on the sleeves. The circular movement in the skirt is concentrated at the right side in a group of godets starting about half way down. Two pendant ends with heavy silk tassels hang at the side of the bodice from just below the right shoulder.

C-2 9-19

C-1 9-19

Weather Conditions.

The high pressure area now covers the entire country from the central plains eastward with its center over the Great Lakes. It caused a decided drop in temperature east of the Mississippi River, and light to killing frost into Eastern Pennsylvania. In this section the frost was light on the hilltops, while in the valleys the deposit was heavy and killing in effect. Temperatures as low as 32 degrees occurred in the valleys in the Pittsburgh district.

Low pressure is developing over the far West. A center over Southern Alberta is causing cloudiness and rising temperature in the Northwest and a Southwest low is causing cloudiness and rain in the central plains.

River Conditions.

The rivers are stationary or falling slowly. Stage at Franklin 1 ft. 8 inches; Lock No. 7, 12.5; Pittsburgh, 10.5; Dam No. 2, 8.7; Dam No. 6, 7.6; Dam No. 9, 8.4, and Dam No. 12, 4.2. The dams are up.

Mr. George T. Ladd after leaving Yale University started his career by working at humble jobs in the shops and drafting rooms of railroads and industrial organizations. Realizing the importance of more intensive training, he left his work and went to Cornell University to specialize in the problems of engineering. After that opportunities came quickly, and Mr. Ladd was well able to take advantage of them. Under his direction the largest water tube boilers ever built have been made for steel and power plants of all kinds and descriptions. Mr. Ladd is now President of the United Engineering and Foundry Company, largest manufacturers in the world of rolls and rolling mill machinery. His success has been founded on those valuable principles of looking ahead and planning, thrift and saving.

CULTIVATE an abhorrence for debt, live within your means, and by continuous and systematic saving financial independence is assured. Don't you think that is right? I know it is. The matter of proportioning both your spending and saving is especially important in this age of competition and diversity of wants. Thrift and saving will help you live in the best way within your means, and will make for your greatest happiness now and later.

In presenting this series of editorials by Pittsburgh's leading business and professional men, the Union Savings Bank hopes to show the value of thrift and saving for winning success in life. And to point it out conclusively by modern example.

Teach the children to save by encouraging them to use the School Savings System. If young school boys and girls learn to deposit money regularly in the School Savings, they will be delighted after a few years with the sum into which their small deposits have grown.

In addition they will have learned the Savings Habit. The School Savings System is sponsored by the Union Savings Bank.

'GAS' STATION MAN ATTACKED

A gas service station proprietor at 7701 Penn avenue, was taken to the Columbia hospital, Wilkinsburg, today, following an altercation with a Negro.

William Dillinger, 38, of Park avenue, East McKeesport, owner of the station, was reported to be suffering from a possible fractured skull; Thomas M. Johnson, 44, Negro, of 7300 Lemington avenue, was lodged in the Squirrel Hill police station.

Employes of the station said Dillinger was hit on the head with a stone after the Negro had been ordered out of the station. Johnson declared he had been ordered out of the station and was going when Dillinger threatened him with a hammer and struck him in the face. He added that he took the hammer from Dillinger and struck him on the head with it. Johnson showed bruises about the face.

JADWIN RETIRED ON BIG PENSION

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—(AP.) Comptroller General McCarl has authorized Lieut. Gen. Edgar Jadwin, retired, to receive the pay of a lieutenant general on the retired list, amounting to $8,250 annually.

Gen. Jadwin retired August 7 as chief of Army engineers, with the rank of major general, but under the act of March 4, 1915, which provided that officers appointed as members of the Isthmian Canal Commission, be advanced one grade upon retirement, he was retired as a lieutenant general, the only one in this country.

The question arose whether he was entitled to the retired pay of that grade, which was abolished by an act of March 2, 1907. Comptroller McCarl ruled that the act did not affect the retired list. The pay of a lieutenant general on the active list was $11,000 a year, and on the retired list three-fourths of that amount.

I. O. O. F. PICKS INDIANAPOLIS

HOUSTON, Tex., Sept. 19.—(AP.)—Indianapolis today was chosen as the site for the 1930 world convention of the Odd Fellows and associate organizations.

A colorful parade last night closed a busy day for delegates to the world conclave.

The Odd Fellows voted after considerable discussion to remove their ban on Sunday picnics and other similar Sunday social gatherings. Only a few votes were said to have been cast against the proposal, which will allow local option in the future on the question of giving picnics and like functions in the name of the order.

A technical ruling from the chair delayed action on the proposal to establish life memberships. The bill was reintroduced and the delegates said that an effort would be made to take action on it before the convention adjourned.

ARAB CLASHES WORRY BRITISH

JERUSALEM, Sept. 19.—(INS.)—The British authorities are becoming increasingly alarmed, it was reported today, over recurring desert rumors that Ibn Saud, Hejd chieftain, is advancing upon his Wahabi rivals with a force of 30,000 warriors.

Ibn Saud's attack is said to be directed against the Wahabi sheik Faisal El Dowish and other tribal chieftains who are reported to have revolted against the former's authority.

The Wahabi forces, according to reports, also number in the neighborhood of 30,000, and a fierce clash is expected daily.

Martin Challenges Victory of Kline

SIDE WALKS of PITTSBURGH

by HAVEY J. BOYLE

A REPORTER somewhat feverishly called the police station of a nearby borough to get a line on the election returns. "What results have you so far?" he asked the guardian of the station. "We elected a burgess and a couple of councilmen," was the reply. "What are their names, and let me have the vote." "I'll be darned if I know their names," said the officer, who apparently has a low boiling point in affairs political.

Mr. Ed Carlin, who worked diligently to get a successful result in the referendum on the police and firemen's pay increase, is so excited over the sweeping victory that he plans to toss a big party to celebrate the event. Mr. Carlin is an executive of the firemen and, what is more, a driver who handled the fiery steeds before the department was motorized. Watching Ed Carlin take those horses down Dinwiddie street on a slippery night was something to stir the cockles of your heart. The fellow who pulled the gong, the man who turned the rear wheels of the truck, presented a glorious spectacle, but there was nothing quite to match the driver, who in shirt sleeves, leaned forward, held a tight rein on the old fire horses, and whooped 'er up as the whole magnificent entourage clattered to the fire.

CARL EQUIST, at 15, left his native Sweden to come to America. Here he learned the trade of tool-making. He has made 28 states in this country and probably knows more about the country than quite a few natives. To hear him speak of America is a lesson in patriotism to natives. On one other subject Mr. Equist is an authority, that being the sport known as soccer. He belongs to that hardy tribe that plays an outdoor game in zero weather with pants that a South Sea Islander, even, would consider scanty.

IT IS the boast of New York Central men that P. E. Crowley, president of the system, knows by name hundreds of foremen, track walkers, clerks. He rose from the ranks himself and he hasn't forgotten the days when he was not supreme on his road. Mr. Crowley, here for a big field meet, got as much fun out of the affair as the participants.

It is told of Mr. Crowley (perhaps it is told of every executive) that a superintendent brought forth a laborer with the introduction: "Mr. Crowley, Pete here has been with the road 50 years. Pete has never missed a day, has never been late for work once."

"And what is your work, Pete?" the laborer was asked. "Why I go out and hit the car wheels with this here hammer." "That's your only work, is it?" "Yes, sir." "And for 50 years you have been doing this?" "Yes, sir." "And every day?" "Yes, sir."

"Why, Pete, is it that you hit the car wheel with your hammer?"

"I'll be darned if I know," replied Pete.

Two men were in serious condition in Mercy Hospital and seven other persons nursing cuts and bruises today as a result of a head-on collision between a truck and a West Park street car in West Carson street, near the Duquesne Heights incline, yesterday afternoon.

Eugene Erhart, 21, of Warrendale, driver of the truck, and Irwin Flobe, 21, his helper, were in the hospital suffering from concussion of the brain and probable internal injuries.

Yost and six passengers on the street car suffered cuts and bruises when showered with shattered glass. They were Edward Hughes, of 240 Plymouth street; Mary A. Mierzwa, of R. F. Air-Marking Projects Flood District

By MAX HENRICI.

A number of new air-marking projects were announced today. From all points of the compass came reports of plans to put up signs to let aviators know their location and the distance and direction to the nearest landing field.

A sign is to be painted on the roof of the plant of John Lachman & Co., at Sixth and Washington streets, Braddock.

The Jersey Cereal Company's plant, about a mile from Irwin, will be air-marked.

EMSWORTH IN LINE

John Allen, secretary of Shooting Star Squadron No. 13, Airplane Model League of America, writes that the name EMSWORTH is being painted on the roof of the H. H. Lloyd Auto Company's garage in that borough.

Frank W. Heinrichs, vice president and general manager of the Regent Auto Service Company, plans to put the name EDGEWOOD on the roof of the company's garage on Braddock avenue at Sanders street in that borough.

Elrama is to be identified to air travelers with a sign in 12-foot letters on the Equitable Gas Company's tank there.

Through the efforts of the Monongahela Chamber of Commerce and other civic organizations, the name of that town is to be painted in 20-foot letters on the new foundry there of the Coshocton Iron Company. There will be in addition, a marker pointing to the north and another indicating the direction to an emergency landing field near the Monongahela and New Eagle municipal lines.

R. E. Stone, president of the R. E. Stone Company, McKeesport, writes:

COMMENDS DRIVE

"For over a year we have had the name McKEESPORT, with a large arrow pointing to Bettis Field, on the roof of our six-story building. The sign measures over 100 feet long and is 20 feet high, with letters 24 inches wide. It is painted a bright yellow and is easily discernible from a great altitude.

"Your request for more signs on buildings throughout the Pittsburgh district, for the guidance of airplane pilots, is to be commended, and should meet with the hearty approval of every up-to-date citizen. Keep up the good work."

The Pittsburgh Aviation Industries Corporation, Oliver Building, is cooperating with the Sun-Telegraph in th air-marking campaign, and will furnish advice to prsons who plan to mark their towns.

The bond was posted with Alderman John J. Verona for a hearing, the date of which will be set later.

COURT FIGHT ON PRIMARY HINTED

Mayor's Right to Nomination Questioned in Statement Citing Court-Voided Lists

Mayor Charles H. Kline's right to the Republican mayoralty nomination may be challenged on the ground it was obtained by illegal votes.

Such was the interpretation placed on an enigmatic statement issued by Alexander P. Lindsay for Judge Richard W. Martin.

Lindsay made a deprecatory gesture when asked if it was proposed to run Martin as an independent.

Yet when asked if Martin's campaign headquarters in William Penn way were to be closed, he said: "I will not answer now. Let's leave that question open."

Without committing himself, Lindsay gave the definite impression that he still hopes to run Martin for mayor as the regular Republic nominee in opposition to Thomas A. Dunn, Democratic candidate.

LINDSAY'S STATEMENT

Lindsay's statement, in part, follows:

"The Martin campaign committee is still in the fight for clean government and the fight has only started.

"The complete returns indicate that more ballots were counted for Mayor Kline than for Judge Martin and Mr. Malone; that the majority of Mayor Kline over Judge Martin was less by 15,000 votes than the number of names assessed and declared void by the Court of Common Pleas of Allegheny County.

"The Martin campaign committee stands ready to turn over to the Bar Association committee or the Allegheny County Elections Association all information in their possession pertaining to elections frauds and will co-operate with these organizations in every way.

"Our committee co-operated with these organizations before the primary. Since the primary, we have tendered to the Bar Association committee a complete set of photostatic copies of the illegal assessment lists, together with a complete typewritten list allocating these 40,000 or more names according to districts for the purpose of purging the registration lists."

SLAP AT ARMSTRONG

The day is not far off when it will no longer be posible for a county commissioner or a chairman of the Republican committee, by a mere letter, to nullify a decree of the Common Pleas Court after a supersedaes of the Supreme Court has been refused.

"With the evidence now on hand, and more that is readily procurable, the greatest opportunity for generations, is before the people of Pittsburgh and Allegheny county to strike a death blow at the crooked system which has been dictating the results of our elections."

M'GOVERN ELIMINATED

County Commissioner Charles C. McGovern, mentioned as a possible independent candidate for the mayoralty, eliminated himself, saying:

"A lot of my well wishers have been discussing my running for mayor, but I haven't even considered such a thing. The idea probably will wear off in a few days."

In the meantime Dunn prepared to open headquarters for his campaign. Maj. E. Lowry Humes is Dunn's manager.

Will Rogers Says

CLAREMORE, Okla., Sept. 19.

Back to the old home state. The governor had just made me colonel on his staff and I come home to put out a mint bed.

The state never looked better and politics never looked worse, which is as it should be. Just missed by one day a reunion of the writers of our state constitution which was celebrating its twenty-second birthday and beautiful tribute was paid there to my father who was the oldest member of that constitution founders.

If Oklahoma does in the next 22 years what we have in the last, why New York will be our parking space, Chicago our arsenal, New Orleans our amusement center and Los Angeles segregated for Elk and Shrine conventions.

Yours, WILL.

COAL OPERATORS ARGUE AGAINST LAKE RATE CHANGE

TEN MINES HIT BY CHANGED BOUNDARY

Federal Examiner Informed P. R. R. and P. & L. E. Plan Is Serious Discrimination

Additional testimony was to be taken today by W. R. Brennan, Interstate Commerce Commission examiner, in the protest of Connellsville region coal operators on the proposal of the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie and Pennsylvania railroads to reallocate the Pittsburgh and Connellsville districts. The plan, coal company representatives say, would increase lake cargo rates to 10 Connellsville region mines in the Pittsburgh rate area.

The present Pittsburgh district rate is $1.46 per net ton, while that of the Connellsville district is $1.54. The carriers propose to define the Connellsville area as east and south of Brownsville Junction.

At the hearing yesterday T. R. Fitzpatrick, general coal freight agent of the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie, protested that the carriers "had to set the limit somewhere," in granting the lower rates to the Pittsburgh field.

Attorneys representing W. J. Rainey, Inc., and the South Fayette Coal Company, protestants, countered that the proposed boundary was not justifiable and the basis of its formulation "mere playing with arithmetic."

Others testifying were Ralph J. Baker and W. W. Collier, Jr., attorneys for the two operators, who declared that for 20 years the Pittsburgh and Connellsvill district lines had not coincided.

THEFT OF FURS FOILED, POLICE HUNT TRIO

Warehouse Engineer Routs Robbers Who Leave Loot Ready to Load on Car

Three men, one a Negro, were sought by detectives today following their attempt last night to steal furs valued at thousands of dollars from the Union Storage Company, at First avenue and West street, within the shadow of the Central Police Station.

The theft was frustrated by Frank Trost, of 3008 Vernon street, Brentwood, an engineer at the plant. Trost told Detectives John Crouse and William O'Bryan that the trio fled from the building when he yelled after observing them on the first floor.

An investigation revealed that the men went to the seventh floor of the building and, after breaking off a heavy lock on the door of a storage room, packed scores of fur coats and neckpieces onto two pushtrucks.

The would-be robbers then pushed the trucks into an elevator and descended to the first floor, detectives said. They fled without loot when Trost appeared. It was believed that the trio had an automobile or a truck waiting near the place.

This is the largest single order for the construction of power boats since the development of river transportation service by independent carriers.

Work on the boats will be started in the near future. They are to be 200 feet long, 40 feet wide and equipped with modern machinery. When completed they are expected to be the fastest of their kind on the Mississippi and its tributaries.

1904 STYLES ON EXHIBIT

With the return of feminine curves, after the boyish figure fad, women of today may be thankful that Dame Fashion has not chosen to exagerate the natural curves as she did in the bicycle age of 1904.

How women and children, and men too, looked in 1904 will be depicted in the windows of McCreery's, beginning tonight at 7:45 o'clock. The exhibit is a part of the silver anniversary of the store.

Many of the gowns to be shown are from the wardrobes of Mrs. Ogden Goelet, Mrs. Vanderbilt and other acknowledged fashion leaders of their day.

Included in the exhibit will be original French models, corsets, men's dickies and ascots, women's striped hosiery, and gold furniture.

A tandem bicycle, popular in 1904, will be shown, and a side-cranking, one-cylinder touring car. To complete the atmosphere of 1904, bands in the lobbies will play the popular airs of the early twentieth century.

SLEUTHS SEEK $25,000 FIRE SUSPECTS

Threatening Letter Writers Are Believed Responsible for Big Blaze in Russelton

County detectives today are investigating the fire which yesterday caused $25,000 loss to several residents of Russelton, near Tarentum, working on the theory that the fire was started by parties who recently sent a threatening letter to an occupant of one of the destroyed structures. Detectives John Carmichael and Harry Barker were assigned to the case.

Detectives say that a letter was received recently by Stanley Czablicki, a butcher whose shop was destroyed. The letter threatened the man with harm unless he left town. In addition to destroying Czablicki's shop, the fire destroyed an adjoining building containing a store and second floor apartment and damaged two other frame structures. Four families, including 11 children, were forced out by the fire.

SCREEN-GRID

YOU are listening to all the discussions about radio. The technical claims for one set or another mean very little to you.

But three facts have probably stayed in your mind.

One is that the Atwater Kent Screen-Grid, combining not only the big improvements but the countless small refinements, was the first perfected Screen-Grid set and is now the largest-selling radio in the world. It's Atwater Kent's method of using the new Screen-Grid tubes and other latest improvements that gets such amazing results.

Another is—with 27 years' experience, including 7 years of radio, Atwater Kent naturally has an advantage over manufacturers who are just trying their wings in radio for the first time. You believe in buying from experienced people, don't you?

And finally, the demand for Atwater Kent Radio (more than 2,500,000 sets sold) has built up not only the largest but the finest radio factory. Our own engineers have developed machinery which shares with thousands of human hands the work of producing radio sets that are as fine as can be made, yet are moderately priced.

Isn't this exactly the kind of modern radio you hoped to own?

Well, while the technical talk runs on, you can just as well be roaming the air with the radio that argues nothing but proves everything. A good time to see an Atwater Kent dealer (he'll show you a variety of distinctive cabinets) is RIGHT NOW.

LITTLE CAESAR By W. R. Burnett

WHAT HA'S GONE BEFORE

In the hold-up of the Casa Alvarado, Chicago night club, Detective Capt. Jim Courtney is shot and killed by Rico, Sam Vettori's gangster lieutenant. Sam is furious, fearing the consequences, but Rico, unafraid, calls Sam a coward and assumes his leadership. The gang gives Rico a banquet to celebrate his rise to power. When Tony Passa losing his nerve, attempts to squeal about the hold-up, he is shot dead by Rico. The latter, broadening his field, forces "Little Arnie" to give up a share of his gambling house profits. He also takes his woman, Blondy Belle. She tells him Arnie is cheating on the split. Rico, pleased with his power, resents the absence of one of his gangsters, Joe Massara, the dude. He finds him performing at a high-class night club with his girl, Olga Stassoff. Joe, fearing Tony's fate, is forced to fall in with Rico's underworld plans. Flaherty, a detective, arrives to interrupt the conference. Rico meets Blondy and hears more of Little Arnie's duplicity. She warns him to kill Arnie or get it himself. Alone, on the street, he is fired on from a car. He drops and receives only a flesh wound. His gang gathers and an underworld doctor arrives. With his gang, Rico, seeking revenge, forces his way into Little Arnie's place, trapping him and his hired gunmen. Little Arnie and his followers are run out of town by Rico, whose power now makes him famous in Little Italy. Rico is still more impressed with his own importance in the gang world, when he is visited by Pete Montana, powerful Chicago gang leader, who is feared in the whole city. Otero, Rico's loyal bodyguard, keeps an eye on the visitors.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XXIV.

"GET a couple of chairs, Otero," said Rico.

Otero dragged up the only two chairs in the room and Montana and Colonna sat down. Otero squatted on his heels with his back to the wall and Rico sat on the bed.

Montana took out a monogrammed cigar case and passed it around, then he selected one of the cigars himself and cut off the end with a little gold cutter on his watch chain.

"Mopping up, ain't you, Rico?" asked Montana, who kept his eyes lowered.

"Well," said Rico, "Arnie was double-crossing me."

"He wasn't no good,' said Colonna; "I was just aching to bump that bird off.

Montana motioned for him to be quiet.

"They slung some lead, didn't they, Rico?"

"Yeah, and I stopped some of it. Nothing to shout about."

"If he'd've got you, his number was up,' said Montana, "you know I been watching you ever since you muscled in on Sam Vettori."

"Yeah?'

"Sure thing. We been taking an interest in you, ain't we, Ritz?"

Ritz grinned.

"That's the word," he said.

"Sure," said Montana, "you're on the up and up with us."

"Well," said Rico, "that's O. K. with me."

Montana looked up at Rico suddenly.

"Any guy that can muscle in on Sam Vettori and Little Arnie is on the up and up with me. The Big Boy's with me there."

Rico smoked and said nothing. But he wondered what the game was. Was Pete Montana getting soft like Sam Vettori? Could it be possible that the great Pete Montana was turning sap? All this palaver and softie talk. Rico's head began to buzz.

"Look," said Montana, "I used to work Arnie's territory, myself, but it slowed down, you know what I mean. It wasn't worth nothing when Kips Berger had it, and after Arnie got it, I didn't pay no attention. I got all I can handle, ain't I, Ritz?"

"That's the word," said Ritz.

"Yeah," said Montana, "by rights that territory's mine, get the idea? I could get all the protection I wanted, but I don't muscle in on no right guy, see? Hicktown's yours, Rico."

"Much obliged," said Rico; "I ain't looking for no trouble with you, Pete."

"That's the talk," said Montana; then he turned to Ritz: "see, Ritz, you had the wrong steer."

"Yeah, I had the wrong steer," said Ritz.

Montana turned back to Rico.

"Yeah," he said, "some wise guys was giving Ritz a lot of bull. Ritz said you was trying to muscle in on my territory."

Rico thought he was dreaming. So this was the great Montana. A guy that couldn't turn over in bed without getting plastered all over the front page. All that softie stuff was a front. Pete Montana was scared.

"No" said Rico "them guys don't know what they're talking about."

Montana smiled blandly.

"Maybe we can team up on a job or two Rico. I like your work. The Big Boy's no fool and he thinks you're the goods. Yeah, maybe we can team up, but I ain't making no promises. Only this. I ain't looking for no split on Arnie's layout. She's yours."

"Don't forget the hide-out, chief," said Ritz.

"By God, I sure enough did forget it. Yeah, Rico, some of Ritz's boys has got a hide-out a half block from Arnie's joint. That's O. K., ain't it?"

Rico's face changed. He lost his affability and his face became serious.

"Well" he said "as long as there ain't no cutting in. I won't stand for no cutting in."

Montana looked at Ritz. Ritz said:

"Hell there won't be no cutting in."

"What do you say, Pete?" asked Rico.

Montana meditated, pulling at one of his thick lips. Otero sat watching Rico. Caramba! Here was little Rico telling the big Pete Montana where to get off. Otero never took his eyes off Rico's face.

"Well," said Montana, "they're my men and I'm behind them. If there's any cutting in, why, I'll settle with you, Rico. No use for us to fight over a little thing like that. Anyway, if we get along, I'll put you in on the alcohol racket."

"All right," said Rico, "you and me can do business, Pete."

Montana got up and offered Rico his hand. They pumped arms briefly. Then Pete said:

"Well, I guess we'll saunter. But let me give you a tip, Rico. You're getting too much notice, get the idea? You got the bulls watching you. I know a new guy has always got to expect that, but take it easy for a while. They'll go to sleep; they always do."

Rico admired Montana's shiftiness, but he wasn't fooled. Pete was trying to tie him up, make him leery.

"Much obliged," said Rico; "a new guy has got a lot to learn."

Montana smiled blandly, certain he had scored.

"Well," said Montana, "so long. Maybe I'll drop down to your new joint and give it the once over some night."

"All right," said Rico, "just let me know."

Otero unbarred the door. Montana started out; Ritz offered his hand to Rico, then followed his chief. Otero barred the door.

Rico stood in the middle of the room, staring into space. Otero said:

"He ain't so much."

Rico laughed out loud.

"Otero," he cried, "you said a mouthful."

CHAPTER XXX.

THERE were five people on the dimly-lighted landing. Three girls and two men.

They all seemed to come crowding through the narrow doorway at once, and in a second the room was filled with the babble of their voices.

They all talked at once, too!

"Where you been keeping yourself, lately?"

"What's the big idea? Playing dead? Nobody's seen hide nor hair of you! . . ."

"Your phone's out of order, Neal. We tried to get you!"

One of the three girls separated herself from the group. She came across the wide room to Ann Marie, her big gray-green eyes round as marbles.

"Well, forevermore! Ann Marie Macy! Who'd-a ever expected to find you here! When did you blow in from the little rotten old home town, for the love of Mike?"

"Hello, Leota," answered Ann Marie, with her hands behind her back so that she wouldn't have to touch Leota's hand in greeting.

"How long you been here?" Leota asked.

"Not very long."

Ann Marie longed to tell her exactly how long she had been in town. She would have loved to say: "Oh, I've been here ever since that afternoon when Neal asked you to go. That was why he wanted you to go—because I'd come!"

But, being Ann Marie, she smiled politely and then moved slowly away from her.

She crossed the room to Jim Goodwin.

And, standing there beside him, she shook hands with the four people who had come in with Leota.

The two men were brothers, Tom and George Terrill. Ann Marie said "How do you do" to them in a nice little voice and smiled pleasantly, when Neal introduced them.

But they might have been a pair of lampposts, so far as she really looked at them.

She did look the two girls over, carefully, however. All pretty girls were enemies of hers, these days, she felt. For Neal might notice them or fall in love with them or make love to them. . .That fear had been with her since the first night she had met him, and it still was.

Both of these girls were pretty. Maude Baniter, the taller of the two, was a silvery ash-blonde with dreamy long-lashed gray eyes and a slow, silly smile.

The other one was little and black-eyed and black-haired. She was beautifully dressed in scarlet silk, and her lips had been painted to match her dress. Her name was Matilda Chapman.

Ann Marie never heard anyone call her anything but Tillie.

"They're both models—not for artists, though. They model clothes for some big dress factory," said Leota, coming up to Ann Marie, with a lighted cigaret in her fingers.

Ann Marie nodded as she looked at her. And some of her disilke and jealousy of Leota must have been in her eyes. For Leota gave a sharp little laugh.

"You don't have to be afraid of me," she said sarcastically. "I'm not going to ask you to pay me the rest of that money you owe me, Ann Marie."

Ann Marie knew that Jim Goodwin couldn't help hearing what she said, and she felt herself growing hot and uncomfortable.

She glanced up at him and saw that he was looking down at her in his friendly, half-smiling way.

"Aren't you going to show me those pictures of yours?" he asked quietly.

"Oh, not now!" Ann Marie shook her head. . . . She didn't want these strangers to see her pictures of little girls in Kate Greenaway cloaks and bonnets, with their arms full of holly, and all the rest of the work she had done.

"We could look at them in my flat next door," she said, "or out in the hall . . . I don't want these other people to see them."

The other five had their hats and coats off now, and were trying to get some music out of Neal's radio in one corner of the room. They made a lot of noise, doing it.

Neal came over to Ann Marie and Jim Goodwin, and linked his arm through Ann Marie's, drawing her aside.

"Look here," he said in an undertone. "This crew expects something to drink. I've got a little something, but I need some ice and some orange juice or grape juice to mix with it. . .Run out and get some, will you, sweetheart."

Ann Marie nodded, giving him her wide and brilliant smile. . .What fun it was to be helping him entertain his friends like this, almost as if they were a married couple! Even if his friends weren't quite the kind of friends that she, herself, would have picked.

"All right, Neal. I think orange juice would be nice, don't you?"

Orange juice was what Howdy had always mixed with his drinks when he and his buddies "made whoopee" in the old brown house back home.

"This reminds me of the parties my sisters and my brother used to have," she said to Jim Goodwin, when she came back to him. "I'm going out for a few minutes, I'll show you those pictures of mine as soon as I come back. Neal wants some oranges, and some ice. I suppose the drug store people will let me buy some ice from them, don't you?"

"I don't know."

He followed her out of the room into the dim little hallway that seemed very quiet after the noise they had just left.

"But we can find out," he added. "Put your coat on."

He was waiting for her at the top of the steps when she came out of her own flat, ready for the street.

They went down the stairs, side by side.

On the way down the street they talked once more about a job for Ann Marie.

"I'll tell you what we'll do," said Jim, when they were nearing the place where the delicatessen threw a broad band of light on to the sidewalk, "we'll have lunch together tomorrow, if you like, and you can bring some of your best things along with you. Then we'll go downtown to see this friend of mine who runs an advertising agency. She does all the ads for a lot of dressmaking firms. She's sure to have some kind of work for you."

The sound of his deep voice, running along, comforted her wonderfully. He sounded so sure of what he was saying, and Ann Marie felt as safe as if she had the job already.

They went into the little shop with its bright glass jars filled with pickles and sauerkraut and spiced fish; its crates of oranges and lemons, tin boxes of crackers and big, round, yellow cheeses that looked like yellow moons.

"A dozen oranges," said Ann Marie, thinking of her fast-emptying pocketbook. She knew that she should have asked for two dozen.

"I think we'd better have two dozen, don't you?" Jim asked her.

"Two dozen, please," he said to the fat little woman who was waiting on them. "And I'm going to buy some ice from you, too."

He had a bill in his hand.

"Please, let me pay for those things," Ann Marie said to him quietly but earnestly.

He shook his head.

"Certainly not," he answered in his firm, low voice.

He was looking down on the floor at his feet where there were a half dozen little baskets of growing pansies.

"Nice little things, aren't they? I've always liked them," he said, and picked up two of the little baskets.

"We'll take these, too," he said to the woman, "these pansies."

He carried the basket under one arm, and from his right hand swung the basket that held the ice and the oranges.

"Let me help you with those things, for goodness' sake," begged Ann Marie when they were out in the dark street once more. "You can't manage all that stuff. Please give something to me to carry."

"Certainly not," he said.

Above their heads, between the housetops the sky looked like a river of stars.

"I love roofs, don't you?" Ann Marie asked as they went along, "and the sky. Some day I'm going to do a really good picture of housetops and sky—in the moonlight, I think, or maybe in the rain."

They had come to the door of the Susquehanna Hall. Jim set down his basket and opened it for her.

But Ann Marie had stopped on the doorstep for one last look at the sky.

"Aren't the stars gorgeous tonight! I never saw so many of them," she cried. "Just look at them, will you?"

"I will," he said.

But when she looked down again his steady gaze was not on the stars, but on her.

"The pansies are for you," he said when they reached the top floor. "Unlock your door and I'll take them inside for you."

It was very quiet in Ann Marie's flat, but from the other side of the hall came the sound of revelry in Neal's studio. Wild laughter, loud talk, and then a smothered shriek.

A door opened and closed.

Then someone banged on Ann Marie's door.

She opened it. Neal stood just outside. He had taken off his coat and his tie had been pulled to one side. His hair was rumpled and someone had left a bright scarlet smear of lipstick on his cheek near his mouth.

"I thought I heard you two sneaking in here!" he said thickly, and Ann Marie knew that he had not waited for the orange juice to start making his drinks.

He swung his head around toward Jim. "What do you think you're trying to do?—Take my girl away from me?"

He sounded as cross and sulky as a spoiled child.

"Come here!" he said to Ann Marie.

How a Family Doctor made Millions of Friends

FIFTEEN years after his graduation, Dr. Caldwell became one of the best-known members of his profession. A single prescription made him famous. And for forty years it has continued to make friends.

As fast as people could tell others about the marvelous way this prescription corrects constipation and relieves other troubles caused by sluggish bowels, demand for it spread until Dr. Caldwell was forced to have it filled in quantities; bottled and distributed through drug stores.

Today, Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, as it is called, is the world's most popular laxative. Millions of people would never think of using anything else when they're headachy, bilious, feverish, or weak; when breath is bad, tongue is coated or they are suffering from nausea, from gas, or lack of appetite, etc.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin as you buy it from your drug store is made in accordance with the original formula from only herbs and other pure ingredients. It is pleasant tasting; its action is thorough in the most obstinate cases; gently effective for women and children. Above all, it represents a doctor's choice of what is safe for the bowels.

TORTURE LAID TO HOME HEAD

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Sept. 19.—(AP.)—Charges that inmates of the Settlement Industrial Home, an institution for Negroes, were placed on red hot stoves and subjected to other tortures as punishment were laid before W. Tyler McLain, county attorney general, by Miss Georgia Tann, secretary of the Tennessee Children's Home. An assistant attorney general immediately began questioning inmates.

Miss Tann charged that Negro children were forced to stand on a hot stove and in hot ashes as punishment and that Bessie Simon, superintendent of the institution, was responsible for the tortures.

One small Negro, Miss Tann said, bore scars on his face where it was seared with a red hot poker as punishment. The social welfare worker also charged the superintendent with collecting money for orphans and running a "boarding school" at the same time.

Police Seek Man In Double Killing

ERIE, Pa., Sept. 19.—(AP.)—While state and local police were continuing their search for Ralph Faraceno, wanted in connection with the shooting of Anthony Cuzzola and Ralph Botch, whose decomposed bodies were found in the woods near Tidioute Monday, plans for the funerals of the two men, who had been missing since June 13, were set for Friday.

Anthony, brother of Ralph Faraceno, arrested Monday, was still being held by police here for questioning as to his brother's whereabouts. A coroner's inquest, from photographs of the bodies, was expected to be held Friday or Saturday.

Radio Stars to Take Part In Squirrel Hill Show

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Sun-Telegraph Radio Editor.

A SQUIRREL HILL Radio Show, with Louis L. Kaufman, Virginia Harmon, Cousin Lora, Virginia Kendrick, Frederick G. Rodgers, Don Bestor, the Red Arrow Quartet and other high-class entertainers as the attraction, was announced here yesterday. The show will be held next week at 5818 Forward avenue.

The show will not conflict with the regular Pittsburgh Radio Show, to be held in Duquesne Garden from September 30 to October 5. Rather it will be a community exhibition of the leading 1930 models with a cream of local talent for entertainment.

Favorites of Westinghouse officials and employes will be given over KDKA at 7 o'clock in a unique program arranged by Rodgers. It will be called "The Family Program."

Two notable figures in the literary world, Christopher Morley and Joan Lowell, whose contributions have created a greater flurry during the past year than almost any other incidents in the field of literature, will appear before the NBC microphone during the Fleischmann Sunshine Hour broadcast through WCAE at 8 p. m.

We Now Present

The radio show fever has hit Pittsburgh and from now until October 6, little will be said or done that does not in some way concern Jim Simpson's big event out at Duquesne Garden.

BIOGRAPHY: Norman Brokenshire, a prominent citizen of the CBS studios, will announce the LaPalina Ensemble when it appears on the stage Thursday night, October, 3.

Born in Marcheson, Ontario, in 1898, the son of a Scotch Presbyterian missionary, Norman obtained his first job as janitor of the little school house (red) at Port Britton, where his father was teacher.

Walking three miles from home every day, Brokenshire did his chores of keeping the one room clean and warm, cutting wood for the old pot-bellied base burner stove and occasional carpentering. He tells friends, "The stove needed more wood than any I have ever seen. For my duties as janitor I received $25 a year."

When the war came along, Brokenshire was secretary of a Y. M. C. A. After being thoroughly trained and tamed (we doubt that,) the war blew up in his face and he returned to join the "Y." A blind ad in a newspaper led him to his present position of announcer. He was successful among 400 applicants.

Speaking of applications, local stations find it necessary to go about this business very secretly when they want a new voice. Those who have a mania for this profession are far in excess of the Republicans in Pittsburgh. Ask G. Dare Fleck, Frances Doherr, Howard Clark or "Bud" Cooper.

Our best wishes to Robert Saudek, son of Victor Saudek, who returns to Harvard tonight. "Bob," one of nthe finest young fellows we have met, has made an indelible impression on KDKA listeners. Kaufman rated him A-1.

BEDTIME STORY: Once there was a radio announcer who had no dinner dates and no place to go. No girls writing him letters. No red ties. No black and white shoes. BOO!

"THEY SPEAK FOR THEMSELVES," says FANNIE BRICE

Star of Musical Comedy and the "Talkies"

FANNIE BRICE, famous Musical Comedy and Ziegfeld Follies comedienne, whose first talking film entitled "My Man" is one of this year's biggest hits

"YOU will never need to make a 'Talkie' about Nestlé's Milk Chocolate Bars—they speak for themselves. Everywhere—they are a good part of a good show. Often, at rehearsals, when there is no time for meals, I can keep working for hours on the nourishment contained in a single Nestlé's Milk Chocolate Bar."

Millions of the smooth chocolate bars are eaten every week at the theatre, the "movies", and sporting events of every kind. The delicious, satisfying flavor of Nestlé's Milk Chocolate Bars comes from sweet, whole milk with all the cream left in — blended with the smoothest, finest chocolate.

FADA presents.. VIBRA-CONTROL
..the secret of tone-realism

VIBRA-CONTROL is the culmination of F. A. D. Andrea's lifelong ambition to build a radio with an absolutely natural full-powered tone.

Vibra-Control . . . the complete control of all vibrations . . . is the long-sought answer to radio's most baffling problem. It has at last made possible the reproduction of tone quality exactly as broadcast, free from distortion, interference, and annoying hums and roars.

2—This is how it appears—when vibrations are completely controlled.

What Vibra-Control Means

Vibra-Control could only be attained when engineers had succeeded in so co-ordinating the receiver, the speaker and the console that the finest shadings of tone were caught and reproduced without loss of quality or interference

Place a finger-tip on the rim and you control the tone.

How Fada Did It

To make such an attainment possible Fada first perfected a low-loss radio frequency circuit sensitive enough to catch and magnify the weakest signals. Fada radios were instantly recognized as the "sensitive sets."

Then Fada invented the constant wave band pre-selector for hairline selectivity and to eliminate "phantom" stations. Now experts acclaimed Fada both sensitive and super-selective.

Increased power was made possible through specially designed circuit using 245 power tubes in push-pull amplification. The Fada dynamic speaker was perfected to deliver, undistorted, the full-power of the Fada circuit.

Fada Tone Long Famous

Quality was paramount in importance: (Fada transformers for instance cost four times as much as ordinary units.) Overnight Fada tone became famous; and still Fada engineers weren't satisfied.

The dynamic speaker brought new tone quality but it also brought a new problem.

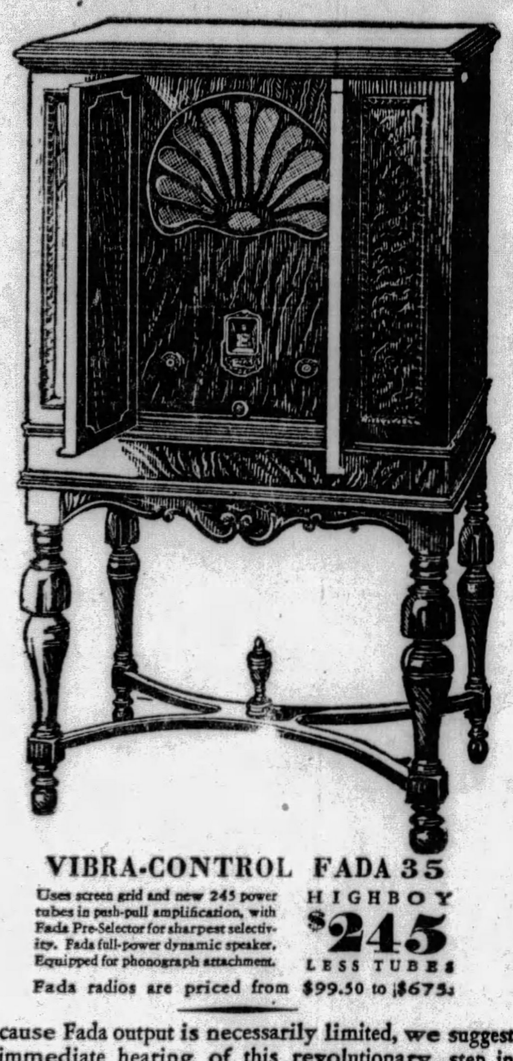
New Tone Realism

But today Vibra-Control is an accomplished fact; and with it Fada has actually enhanced those extraordinary qualities that have already made Fada radios the "choice of the experts."

Every gradation of tone, each delicate shading is brought to your ears unhampered by mechanical or electrical disturbances . . . so natural that you can close your eyes and sit beside the performers themselves.



VIBRA-CONTROL FADA 35
HIGHBOY
Uses screen grid and new 245 power tubes in push-pull amplification, with Fada Pre-Selector for sharpest selectivity. Fada full-power dynamic speaker. Equipped for phonograph attachment.
$245 LESS TUBES
Fada radios are priced from $99.50 to $675.

"Because Fada output is necessarily limited, we suggest an immediate hearing of this revolutionary step in musical reproduction at your nearest Fada dealer."

J. P. HALL SAILS FOR EUROPE

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—J. P. Hall, of Pittsburgh, left yesterday in the S. S. Berengaria for an early fall vacation in Europe. The sailing marked the return to daylight departures of the Cunard flagship. Before embarking, Mr. Hall said he intends to tour Europe for more than a month before returning to the states.

The Cunarder also took out William B. Leeds, who recently flew around the world in the Graf Zeppelin, and "Big Bill" Tilden, national tennis champion, who will appear in a play in London.

Postal Official Loses Talk to Publishers

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—(AP.)—Assistant Postmaster General Tilton, who was placed in charge of the fiscal policy of the Postoffice Department by President Hoover and told to hunt down the deficit, had expected to be back in Washington today, but was still at Shawnee-on-Delaware, Pa.

He went there yesterday to tell the National Publishers' Association about his job. When he arrived he couldn't find his manuscript. So his appearance was postponed, his office was notified, and a copy was mailed to reach him today.

HIGHLAND BOLT HITS GOFF

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Sept. 19.—Throwing a bombshell into state Republican circles, the Clarksburg Telegram, dominated by Virgil L. Highland, former Republican national committeeman, published an editorial yesterday attacking the candidacy of United States Senator Guy D. Goff for re-nomination, and advising state Republicans to "get rid of him and win" or "keep him and lose."

Stress was laid upon the senator's attacks against the Hoover candidacy in the last campaign and his alleged desertion of party workers and former friends and supporters.

GIANTS AND BRUINS TOP ALL RIVALS

WHEN the defeat of the Pirates by the Braves in the first game of yesterday's double-header killed Pittsburgh's last remaining mathematical chance for the National League pennant and clinched the flag for the Cubs, the Chicago club equaled the record for the greatest number of championships ever won in the history of major league competition.

Joe McCarthy

For the pennant that has been sewed up by the Bruins is the twelfth captured by the National League representatives of the Windy City. No club has ever won more than that number, and only one other has ever won as many in any big league. Until yesterday the New York Giants held the record as the only team ever to win the gonfalon a dozen times.

Chicago's first pennant was won under the management of A. G. Spalding in 1876, the first year of the National League. Five more victories followed under the leadership of Cap Anson in 1880, 1881, 1882, 1885 and 1886. In 1906, 1907, 1908 and 1910 Frank Chance led the Cubs to victory, Fred Mitchell's forces landed on top in 1918, and now the twelfth triumph goes to the credit of Joe McCarthy.

THE Giants won their first pennants in 1888 and 1889, with Jim Mutrie at the helm. The 10 others were bagged with John McGraw in the driver's seat in 1904, 1905, 1911, 1912, 1913, 1917, 1921, 1922, 1923 and 1924. In the American League the Athletics have broken the circuit record by winning this year, as it is their seventh pennant, whereas no other club has ever won more than six.

The Yankees and Red Sox shared in the American League record honors until now, each having nailed six flags. The White Sox rank next with five to their credit. In the matter of individual managerial achievements, John McGraw heads the all-time major league list with his 10 pennant triumphs as leader of the Giants. Connie Mack ranks second to him with seven.

YOU won't find many ball players in the National League who are wild to hit against Dazzy Vance, George Grantham, of the Pirates, has always been able to solve the delivery of the Robin star, but going against Dazzy's blinding speed and fast-breaking curve doesn't carry much appeal for the average batsman.

One of the exceptions is Curt Walker, of the Reds. Vance's stuff holds no terrors for that able hitter. On the contrary, it appears to have been made to order for him, and no other flailsman in the senior circuit has been as successful as Curt in swinging against Dazzy's pitches.

Curt Walker

FREQUENTLY Walker has made two, three or even four hits off Vance in a game, and the contests in which the Dazzler held him without a safe blow have been few and far between. "I don't know why, but Walker has given me far more trouble than any other hitter since I entered the National League," says the Dodgers' $25,000 beauty. "I've thrown him the fastest curves I ever delivered. He turned them into base hits. I've tried to stop him wth fast balls, but failed. He has made hits off me on my change-of-pace delivery, and it's just too bad for me when I attempt to fool him with a knuckle ball. I guess I'm just his cousin."

THE world series that is to get under way two weeks from next Thursday will have one unusual feature in the fact that the Cubs and Athletics will go into action without having had a chance to work out in each other's park and thus familiarize themselves with the lay of the land, as Brick Owens, American League umpire, calls it.

In previous years the schedule always permitted a day or two of practice before the series. This season, however, the A's are booked to play their final engagement of the regular campaign in New York on Sunday, October 6, so that they cannot reach Chicago until late on Monday, the day before the series opening. And the Cubs will not be in Philadelphia until late on the day preceding the third game of the string.

BESIDES Glengesia, a horse imported by Richard K. Mellon after it had shown much class in finishing third in the Liverpool Handicap on the Grand National program and over the Aintree course, the Westmoreland Hunt Club horse show tomorrow and Saturday will offer a number of other hunters recently imported from England and Ireland.

Richard K. Mellon

Included among them are Dungannon, owned by David I. McCahill; Bysette and Kilmagar, the property of H. C. Patton, and Shamrock and Sportsman, owned by J. W. Lawrence.

BOLD TESTATOR, which was in the ribbons at Rochester and Toronto, and is owned by Simon Patterson and A. Rex Flinn's Saint Di, a promising English import of which much is expected in local competition, are also on the list. Hunting horses cost about five times as much as they did five yeas ago. Pittsburgh, always known as the home of some fine racing horses, is taking a front rank in the hunting and show horse field as the 500 entries for the Westmoreland Hunt events attest.

MANY of the country's leading boxing men are picking Tommy Loughran to defeat Jack Sharkey on points in the heavyweight battle scheduled for one week from tonight in New York, figuring that Tommy is too clever and smart for the sailor, but they're all outdone by Philadelphia Jack O'Brien.

That veteran of the fight game goes so far as to express the opinion that not only will Loughran be the victor, but that he will win by a knockout. Can you imagine that? Loughran has not knocked any one out for four years, or since he put Jack Burke away in six rounds in 1925, and he never stopped a really good man, but in spite of that evidence that he lacks a punch, O'Brien thinks he will defeat Sharkey inside the limit.

"ONE of the reasons why Loughran never shaped up as a hitter while performing as a light-heavy is that he always was under a mental and physical strain in making weight and was far from being at his best when he entered the ring," O'Brien says.

"Any one who has never been up against the strain of weight-making cannot appreciate what a drag it is. That old weight bugaboo sticks to you day and night.

"THE added poundage will be a big help to Loughran. Another reason why I expect Loughran to stop Sharkey is that he will have Jack falling all over himself. Sharkey is going to tire, no matter how well he is trained. His judgment of distance is bound to be bad. I expect him to tire rapidly after he misses a few dozen punches. Loughran has an edge because he has kept himself busy, whereas Sharkey has been idle since February. A fellow must fight regularly to be on a fighting edge. That is where Sharkey has made a big mistake. He will pay for it next Thursday night."

RED AND BLACK SET FOR GRID CLIMB

(This is the seventh of an annual series of special articles, written by Jess Carver, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph football writer, dealing with prospects of tri-state district college elevens. The article on Penn State, with photos of the Lions in training, will appear in Saturday's issue.)

By JESS CARVER.

WASHINGTON, Pa., Sept. 19.—With several "ifs" offset by the splendid spirit of the squad and the capable and energetic direction of two young coaches, Ray Ride and Bill Amos, Washington and Jefferson's football stock appears to be in for a rise, one of sufficient strength to wipe out the sting of 1928's bleak campaign.

The season of '28 was one of the poorest ever experienced by the Red and Black. Not a major game was won, only two were tied and in one of the battles into which the Presidents went as favorites, a defeat was received. The team, crippled by injuries, and with one or two very unsatisfactory arrangements as to personnel, was never disgraced, but seldom did anything over which its followers were able to cheer.

In ordinary circumstances, the changing of coaches warrants the safe and sane pre-season declaration of "weakness because of a change in coaching policy." In Wash-Jeff's case, however, it will not stand, for Ride and Amos gleaned most of their football knowledge, which is not inconsiderable, from Andy Kerr, whose place they are taking. The young coaches have inspired such a do-or-die spirit in the hearts and minds of the squad that it is not out of place to predict that the Presidents will be one of the most formidable elevens in the section.

NEW MEN PROMISING

Amos and Ride are fortunate in having a fine collection of sophomores with which to work. The squad is not large, but includes some promising figures, much being expected from some of the backs. As a nucleus, Bill and Ray have Copt. Foreste (Jap) Douds, all-American tackle, Don Malcolm, Secrist, Levine, Lewis, Schumaker, Newby, Cochrane, Hensle, Beahm and Pollock.

It is over Capt. Douds that the biggest "if" of the team hangs. Jap, a great player in 1928, played under sereve handicaps (when he played at all) last year. He was injured in the summer of 1927 when struck in the face with a skyrocket, and then suffered injuries to his legs in early games. If these legs of Jap's hold up . . . Bill and Ray will emit great sighs of relief. If they do not, the Wash-Jeff problem will be greatly complicated, for the Presidents, while they are going to be fairly strong when it comes to backfield material, cannot point to any great strength on the line, especially as to reserves.

LOSSES STAGGERING

The losses from the 1928 squad were staggering. Buss Edwards, Gilchrist, Robinson and Jones are gone from the backfield. Carl Aschman, a great center, graduated, as did Paulie, McMunn, Thomas and Schuchardt from other positions on the line.

Lacking the necessary, and oh, so important experience, the incoming sophomore material cannot be said to have offset the inroads made by graduation and ineligibility, but nevertheless, it is nothing over which to moan. Chaps of the ability of Morry Rush, Stewie Wilson, Butler, Harris, oJe Umberger, and Kaiser, backs, and Kelly, Symons, O'Reilly, McNell, Rigney, Trapuzzano and Demas are not picked up every day.

THE BACKFIELD

Only one veteran appears to be slated for a starting backfield job under present plans. Stewie Wilson, powerfully-built fullback of last year's freshman team, is being groomed for that position on the varsity. Butler or Harris, sophomores, will be at quarter and Morry Rush, a speed boy, will be at one of the halves. Lewis, a veteran, looms as Rush's likely running mate.

Wilson, a left-handed kicker, has been doing most of the punting in training. Rush, a fine ball carrier, fast as they come, also is an accurate passer, and is being groomed to be on the heaving end of the aerial game. Lewis, a good blocking back, and no mean ball toter, will prove, it is hoped, to be the balance wheel of the combination.

Either Butler or Harris will be at quarter. Butler has been in the spot a bit oftener than Harris, his 195 pounds winning for him the call over the lighter New Brighton lad.

Umberger, Smith, Schumaker and Kaiser are backs who can be depended upon for reserve duty, and possibly may break into the regular lineup.

THE ENDS

Bill and Ray are counting heavily on Secrist, a senior, to come through in dazzling fashion at one of the

Now that they are officially and mathematically out of the flag chase, the Pirates today were concentrating on the second berth of the National League. They still have a lead of four and one-half games over the Giants, and with only 11 games left on their schedule the Freebooters should be able to hold to their position, but they are taking nothing for granted.

The three remaining afternoons of this week will find the Buccos battling the Braves. Johnny Evers has his Boston charges playing headsup baseball so that the home players have their work cut out for them if they are to get the "rubber" game of the five battles in the set.

The Braves copped the first game of yesterday's doubleheader, thereby clinching the pennant for the Cubs. The Oaklanders crowded the visitors a bit more in the nightcap and were able to get an even break for the day. The scorers were five to four and five to two.

SEASON NEAR END

The third game of the series will bring Jess Petty to the mound for the Pirates. The Braves will play behind the pitching of Ben Cantwell or Harry Seibold. Both of these righthanders have been showing well, but the Pirates should be in a forceful move in view of the stake.

The season at Forbes Field is fast drawing to a close. When the Braves finish up here Saturday, the card for the Oakland Orchard will show only two more games, these to be staged with the Cardinals after the Buccos return from St. Louis. The Pirates will go on a barn storming tour of New York State on the first three days of next week. These dates are open on the championship draft. The Bucs will be in St. Louis next Thursday for a five-game series.

The Braves came from behind in the first game of yesterday to bring about a Pittsburgh setback. Piling up three tallies in the eighth, the New Englanders had just enough runs to gain the verdict.

BUCS' SUPPORT POOR

Remy Kremer and Eddie Brandt fought it out in the opener. The Pittsburgh righthander was accorded poor support, Catcher Rolly Hemsley cutting loose with three bad throws.

Bridegroom Lloyd Waner's double in the seventh gave the Pirates a one-run advantage as Dick Bartell scored, but the home team could not hold to the edge.

Heinie Meine held the Braves to six hits as the Pirates rode to victory in the closing fight. Heinie had stiff opposition from Percy Lee Jones, yet the Oaklanders were able to inject some timely blows into this scrap.

Fight Results

EBBETS STOPS GROVE

THREE BOXING BILLS SLATED TONIGHT

By HARRRY KECK,
Sports Editor.

With boxing shows scheduled at McKeesport, New Brighton and Washington, Pa., tonight and at the Moose Temple tomorrow night, and the card arranged for the final show of the season in the Meyers Bowl, North Braddock, next Monday night, things are humming in a fistic way throughout the Pittsburgh district.

Howard Mayberry.

Howard Mayberry, veteran bantamweight, of Donora, and Bud Dempsey, of Ambridge, meet in the 10-round windup at McKeesport, with Mickey Solmen, of New Castle, taking the place of Mickey Fedor, of Canton, O., against Lee Sala, of Donora, in the eight-round semi-final, and Young Corsie boxing Andy Andrucci and Tom Malco meeting Howard Williams in the two six-rounders.

At Little Washington, Promoter Goodridge offers Johnny Kusic, of Youngstown, and Tony Sanders, of Cleveland, in the 10-round windup; Batuling Gizzy, of Donora, and Joe Thomas, of Cleveland, in the eight-round semi-final, and Steve Pollock against Walter Ketchel and Young Joe Walcott against Carl Montebano in the six-round prelims.

SCARNEY VS. DEMPSEY

Harold Scarney, of Youngstown, and Young Jack Dempsey, of Conneaut, O., heavyweights, furnish the main fireworks at Junction Park, New Brighton, tonight. Pat Perenic meets Nick Martin and Freddie Edwards faces Tom Chaplow in the six-round prelims and Willis Boggs takes on Bob Concrete and Eddie Loos mingles with Young Sapienza in the two four-rounders.

Pete Zivic, veteran bantamweight of Lawrenceville, makes his first appearance under the management of Ray Alvis, of Chicago, against Al Cisneros at Greenwood, Miss., tonight.

With the exception of lining up an opponent for Jimmy Belmont of Braddock, in the second bout, Matchmaker Jules Beck, of the Meyers Bowl, North Braddock, has completed his card for his final show next Monday night. After trying in vain to sign several other foes, he finally succeeded in landing Phil McGraw, Detroit Greek, to oppose Tommy Crawley, the South Sider, in the main bout. George Panka, the Homestead heavyweight, who panicked the fans in this first bout in the Bowl, last week, will be back in the semi-final, against Bob Davis, Negro, of Toledo. Tommy Ward, of the South Side, and Tom Maico, of Soho, will box the first bout

MOOSE CARD COMPLETE

Promoter Francis Flynn, of the Moose Club, looks for a good-sized crowd for his opening show in the Moose Temple tomorrow night. Jackie Murray, of the Hill, who meets Young Rudy, of Charleroi, in the main bout, has developed a large following since the acquisition of a knockout punch, while Rudy has been a favorite with the fans for several years. A good preliminary card is listed.

JACK HENDRICKS DENIES REPORT

CINCINNATI, Sept. 19.—(AP.)—Jack Hendricks, manager of the Cincinnati Reds, questioned about reports that he had resigned, said he would attend the annual draft meeting in Chicago the night before the opening of the world series at the expense of the Cincinnati club, which was taken as a definite indication that he would still be manager at that time.

"If I have to leave Cincinnati, I will naturally go with regrets, but with the consciousness that I have done my best at all times," he said. "When one knows that, his mind is at peace."

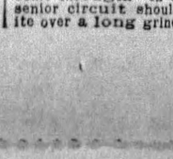
Clarence Rowland, manager of the Nashville club, of the Southern Association, mentioned as Hendricks' successor next year, said his contract called for another year with the Nashville team and that he had not been approached by any official on the matter.

The Enquirer published a story stating the club directors had definitely decided not to rehire Hendricks next season.

1930 CONTRACT GIVEN PITLER AT ELMIRA

Jake Pitler, popular Pittsburgh boy who managed the Elmira club of the New York-Pennsylvania League this year, was back in Pittsburgh yesterday after a successful season.

The Elmira folks like the aggressive Pittsburgher so well they have tendered him a contract for 1930.



Jake Pitler.

Pitler played more than 100 games in the infield and expects to play again next season. He makes his home in Oil City, where he is in business.

From the standpoint of championship quality, the coming World Series will bring together two fair ball clubs. Neither the Cubs nor the Athletics deserve to be classed with certain flag-winners of previous campaigns.

CUBS HOLD EDGE

The Cubs would seem to have the paper edge on their rivals owing to a fine pitching staff and five or six powerful hitters. The A's also have some fine hurlers, but two of their aces, Grove and Walberg, may find the Bears very hard to get past, as the two mentioned are lefthanders.

The Cubs of the present vintage are not as smart as the Frank Chance teams of 20-odd years ago. Apparently they are managed by one of the greatest leaders of the sport, but Joe McCarthy's team, man for man, does not measure up to the oldtimers.

National Leaguers obviously are not qualified to talk at length on the Athletics of the present season, yet writers of the City of Brotherly Love do not hold the new champs as high as Mack's team of 15 or 16 years ago. The gap between the infield of the 1914 club and the present foursome is so vast that one can hardly estimate it.

BREAKS HELP

The breaks of the sport generally have a dominating part in a short series of games. If the series should continue for six or seven fights, the National League should come through. In other words, the senior circuit should be the favorite over a long grind.

BRUINS CLINCH NATIONAL LEAGUE PENNANT

RAJAH PASSES RECORD SET BY CUYLER

Associated Press.

By defeating the Robins at Wrigley Field last Sunday, the Cubs reached a point where one more victory would give them the National League pennant beyond the last mathematical doubt. The energetic Bruins are still snooping here and there in search of the victory, but they nevertheless have become champions, almost without knowing it. The coronet was clamped upon the brow of Joseph V. McCarthy just before game-time in Chicago yesterday when the Braves tossed the Pirates by 5 to 4 at Forbes Field in the first half of a doubleheader.

The new champions of the elder major circuit were allowed to enter their game against the Giants without the knowledge that the Braves had ended the struggle for them. Otherwise they might have done better against the Giants, who opened the series with a 7-to-3 triumph behind Carl Hubbell's fine pitching.

RAJAH LIFTS TOTAL

The Clan McGraw pounded Sheriff Fred Blake and Art Nehf with the same vigor that has marked many recent assaults upon the peaceable young men who earn their money service them up for Joe McCarthy. If these unprovoked outrages continue, experts and inexperts alike will have to place some credence in Mr. McCarthy's plea that his pitching defense consists of so many paper hoops.

Presuming that the Cubs' twelfth pennant long had been taken for granted the most interesting development at Wrigley Field yesterday was Rogers Hornsby's feat in scoring all three of the Bruin runs and so lifting his total to 146, two beyond the modern National League record set by Kiki Cuyler in Pittsburgh in 1925.

Jim Frey, Nashville recruit, gave the Phillies 13 hits in his Cincinnati debut, but won his game by 9 to 5.

Under the pounding of Yankee home run bats, the Indians just escaped from New York with their lives yesterday, all visions of second money vanished from their minds. Led appropriately enough by the home run train, Ruth and Gehrig, who got two apiece, the Yanks bombarded the Indians out of two games by 9 to 7 and 12 to 2.

RUTH CLOUTS 46th

Ruth ran his total to 46, by far the highest in either circuit, and Gehrig mounted to 34, second best in the American League.

The Browns batted Bob Grove from the box to win the opener from the Athletics by 6 to 2, but George Earnshaw pitched a steady game in the nightcap to triumph by 4 to 3, his twenty-second victory.

Washington dislodged Detroit from fifth place by a margin of one and one-half games through a double victory over the Bengals by scores of 2 to 0 and 1 to 0.

PLAY NO. 16.

Glassgow of the University of Iowa kicks off to Purdue and the ball strikes Woerner on the foot and rolls out of bounds at Purdue's 20-yard line.

What is the correct ruling?

Glassgow kicks off to Caraway, who fumbles the ball and it rolls out of bounds.

What is the correct ruling?

ANSWERS.

In the first case the referee orders the ball kicked off again and in the second case he rules that the kick-off is completed and the ball is to be put into play by Purdue, at point where it was last touched in the field of play.

TARTANS FEAR BISONS

With only six days left before the opening encounter with Bethany College at Wheeling, the Carnegie Tech coaches are driving their men hard in an attempt to round them into proper shape for a strenuous game. Despite the fact that Bethany is not rated with the Class A football teams the Tartan mentors are a bit worried about the coming game. They point out that Bethany looks formidable under the careful coaching of Nuss and Morrow, who know plenty of football, and that Carnegie Tech in other years has often been forced to the limit to win opening contests, due possibly to the fact that their opponents were further along in their training.

A special train carrying rooters will leave here at 11:45 a. m. for Wheeling the day of the game. Unusual interest is being shown here in this game, as Tartan followers are desirous of looking over the 1929 edition of Carnegie Tech and comparing them with the powerful aggregation of last year, considered the best ever turned out at the school. It is expected that the team this year will stack up fully as powerful.

Jimmy Johnston Welcomed Home By 20,000

ST. PAUL, Sept. 19.—(AP.)—Blizzards of confetti and blaring bands and marching citizens welcomed Harrison R. (Jimmy) Johnston, national amateur golf champion, home to St. Paul yesterday.

Twenty thousand persons lined the streets for his triumphal parade from the Union Depot to Rice Park, following his arrival from California, where he won the title on Sept. 7.

Gov. Theodore Christianson came to the station and rode in the parade to honor the golfer.

And just to make it good, one of the leading professionals of the world and the country's flashiest golf sensation of the year, dropped in to join in the welcome. They were Walter Hagen, winner of both American and British open golf championships, and Horton Smith, the young professional from Joplin, Mo.

They arrived unexpectedly, announcing that they had come west to play in exhibition matches at Duluth, Friday and in Minneapolis Saturday, and that they had stopped at St. Paul because they wanted to join in the celebration for Jimmy Johnston. Jimmy was honored at a banquet last night.

Pickett, Fairmont, for the other semi-finalist position. Weber advanced by defeating Herbert Levis, Buffalo, 6-3, 6-2.

Miss Margaret Carspecken, Morgantown, reached the final of the women's singles with a 6-0, 6-1 victory over Mrs. R. M. McCutcheon, Morgantown. In the lower half, Miss Frances Ebeling, Wheeling, sprang an upset by defeating Miss Elizabeth Shiebler, Fairmont, 5-7, 6-1 and 6-4.

Premier Ducks As Grappler Tosses Foe

SYDNEY, Australia, Sept. 19.—(AP.)—William Hughes, war premier, had a narrow escape at a wrestling match here when John Pesek, Nebraska husky, got rough with his opponent, Joe Zikmond, of Poland, and chucked him out of the ring. As Zikmund disappeared through the ropes, spectators rushed to the spot and found that Hughes, who was witnessing a wrestling bout for the first time and was sitting immediately under where the wrestler fell, had disappeared. After the fans had lifted all of Zikmund's 218 pounds, they found Hughes crouched under his seat, which he had vacated just in time.

The contest then proceeded with the American winning in the seventh round when the police stopped the bout after Zikmund had been tossed out of the ring three more times.

Winnipeg Smashes Record at Cincinnati

CINCINNATI, Sept. 19.—(AP.)—Winnipeg, champion pacing gelding, set up a new record for the Coney Island track at the grand circuit races yesterday when he won the second heat of the 2:05 pace in 2:01¼. The Palin Stable star also winning the other two heats in slower time, maintaining an unbeaten record for the season.

In winning the second heat of the stake for 2:12 pacers, Labrador, from the same stable, equaled the track record, but lost the race, the Kansas City gelding, Kinney Direct, winning the first and third heats.

Laycock Out to Win Fame on Gridiron

SHARON, Pa., Sept. 19.—Blaine (Bud) Laycock, rated as one of the best guards in Pennsylvania scholastic basketball last winter and who was one of the captains of the great Sharon High cage squad, state runners up, is out to earn fame in football. Laycock, a senior, is an end candidate for the Orange and Black and prospects are very bright for him.

DUKE GRIDDERS SET TO OPEN SEASON

The boys who are numbered on the starting team for the Duquesne University-Edinboro State College game here Saturday will have won the double distinction of not only starting the game, but of inaugurating the Pittsburgh and district football season. For it is now but a day or so, almost to be counted in hours, until the first game of the 1929 season is played. Duquesne will appear on the Bluff, since Forbes Field will not be ready for the Dukes.

In the scrimmage sessions that have been held under the direction of Head Coach Elmer Layden, the 1929 Dukes have shown themselves capable of playing a winning brand of football. This will be Duquesne's opportunity to win recognition in the Class A ranks and the Dukes are going to take advantage of it. They have a harder schedule than last year, but likewise they have a better team. West Virginia is probably the biggest obstacle in the path of the Red and Blue.

When Elmer Layden's men trot out of the gymnasium in their snappy new outfits, which bear the numerals in red, both front and back, on blue jerseys, they will be set to start a season of wins.

N. B. A. WANTS PENNSYLVANIA AS MEMBER

BOXING BOARD ALSO SEEKS CALIFORNIA

CHICAGO, Sept. 19.—(AP.)—The National Boxing Association, which controls boxing in 31 states and one province in Canada, wants California and Pennsylvania on its roster.

Stanley M. Isaacs, of Cincinnati, who yesterday was elected president of the N. B. A., at the closing meeting of its annual convention, will appoint representatives to confer with members of the boxing bodies in the two states, concerning active membership. Both California and Pennsylvania, among the leading boxing states of the country, work in harmony with the N. B. A., but have hesitated to become members of the organization.

SUCCEEDS PREHN

Isaacs, a leader in Ohio boxing and American Legion affairs, was named to succeed Paul Prehn, former chairman of the Illinois State Athletic Commission. James M. Brown, of Ypsilanti, Mich., chairman of the Michigan Athletic Board of Control, was elected first vice president; Edward C. Foster, of Providence, R. I., was reappointed chairman of the championship committee, and also elected as second vice president. The delegates selected Brig. Gen. John V. Clinnin, chairman of the Illinois body, as third vice president.

The convention voted to hold the 1930 meeting at Quebec, Canada, yielding to the pleas of commissioners representing Quebec and Montreal.

DEMPSEY LAUDED

Jack Dempsey appeared before the N. B. A. delegates, complimenting them in their efforts to improve the sport. Prehn, the retiring president, commended the former world heavyweight champion on his spirit in assisting in the development of the game since his retirement.

The association paid tribute to Prehn and his administration in the form of a resolution, which was unanimously adopted.

The association gave recognition to Gene Roman, of Paterson, N. J., ranking licensed referee of that state and authorized him to officiate in any state affiliated with the N. B. A.

'Twas a Good Story While It Lasted

It's the one about Mt. Lebanon High School having been set down for a year by the decisions committee of the W. P. I. A. L., at its meeting last Saturday for having violated a rule of the league prohibiting teams from entering training for football more than a week before the opening of the school term. The yarn was that Mt. Lebanon was admitted to the league only last spring and thus, by the ruling, was suspended before it even had a chance to play a game.

Now it develops that the committee didn't act, but merely discussed the case.

The curtain goes down on the fact that Mt. Lebanon's application for membership, made last May, does not become effective until next February and that Mt. Lebanon is not a member of the league, hence is not subject to suspension. Its squad indulged in light training at a summer camp at Chautauqua Lake.

IMPORTANT GRID TILTS SUNDAY

By TOM BIRKS.

With the champions of the independent gridiron and two leading contenders sporting their 1929 lineups for the first time on Sunday, much interest is being evinced locally regarding th makeup of the West View, East Pittsburgh and McChesneytown teams.

During the week, a staunch supporter of West View wanted to bargain that Manager Paul Muzzio, of West View, would have more former college stars in his lineup than Iverson flashed in the Olympics lineup at Rainbow Gardens last Sunday.

However, there was no betting. The West View man usually knows his stuff, and may have the inside dope on the lineup that Muzzio is going to use against Jeanette.

There was a rumor floating around that Stan Berkman would divide his time between the West View and Sharpsville Merchants team, but the last few days brought out the dope that the former Thiel star is going to sink or swim with the champions from the Park. Advance dope from Greensburg indicates that both the Olympics and the East Pittsburgh Firemen are going to have tough battles this week. The Olympics meet the Hill Top A. C., a team composed of former Greensburg outfits, and the boys who play thereon, who watched the Black and White-clad Olympics last Sunday, stated that the worst they will get is a tie game.

Tommy Connelly certainly is taking a wild chance in throwing the Firemen into competition of this kind. McChesneytown will open on Saturday with the Hyde Park Gridders providing the opposition. Bill Johnson will start at fullback, Charley Johnson at half, with Lowdy Adams, Gordon and Jimmy McGinnis ready to fill the other positions. Bucci or Albright will start at center, and another Bucci, who was with State College last season, will be available. Brown, last year's captain, will play end again.

DETROIT COPS N. Y. C. LINES MEET

Detroit captured its fifth straight team victory in the sixth annual track and field meet of the New York Central Lines Athletic Association, held at the Stadium, yesterday afternoon. The victors accumulated 39 points to capture the President's trophy.

In winning the runner-up honors, Cleveland forced the local contenders, P. & L. E., into third place, the Pittsburgh team having ranked second last year. Cleveland totaled 31 points and Pittsburgh 20.

COP TWO FIRST PLACES

District athletes made themselves felt among the hundred of visiting athletes from all parts of the country, who came here to participate in the finals. Joe Choiko, better known as an independent baseball player, thrilled the 10,000 fans in attendance with a splendid 10-second performance in the century dash. The W. O. W. player defeated W. S. Sandquist, of Toledo, in a close finish.

The half-mile local star, Al Carr, was the only other local man to win an event, he winning the 800 in 2:06 1-5, with a good lead.

Second honors in the 12-pound shotput went to another local diamond star, Dewey McGinley, while Virginia Reese was second in the 50-yard dash for women.

Sarah Rock and Mina Kunsman were second in the horseshoe pitching, and C. W. Thomas was third in the mile run.

ELKHART FOURTH

The Detroit aggregation scored four first places, six seconds and a third to garner the honor. Shepard, Spence, Yochomonitz and Kempert came through in the mile relay for a glorious triumph.

C., 5; Cincinnati Big Four, 4; Mattoon Big Four, 5; Jersey Shore, 4½; Cleveland Big Four, 4; Columbus N. Y. C., 3; Toledo N. Y. C., 3; Gibson I. H. B., 1; Toledo Ohio Central, 1, and Watertown, 1.

The semi-final events were run off in the forenoon, with the finals in all classes in the afternoon. Bands and entertaining sidelights marked a parade prior to the events. Officials of the N. Y. C. lines viewed the meet from the grandstands

Greensburg High Lifts Lid Saturday

GREENSBURG, Pa., Sept. 19.—Greesburg High School's 1929 football team will open its season here Saturday, meeting the crack Hurst High School, of Mt. Pleasant township, on Offutt Field.

Hurst enters the game with a team made up largely of inexperienced players, although it will have considerably the advantage in weight and by the fact that it already has played one game, defeating Trafford last Saturday, 18-6.

The meeting is the first between Greensburg in Hurst in three years, but the local teams holds the edge in victories, having defeated the Red eleven in the only two contests played between the schools.

MEMBERS of our Style Staff personally spend months every year shopping in London, and buy the most popular Styles designed by the custom bootmakers who hold Royal Warrants of Appointment to the King and Prince of Wales.

And we do something more—something that nobody else has ever done. We actually show you one of the Original Bespoke English Models in every Regal window and put the Regal Reproduction right beside it. We tell you where we bought it, what we paid for it and give you the name and address of the maker—and reproduce his letter acknowledging receipt of our order.

This decorative Model is known in England as a Half-Brogue. It has a punched and notched toe-cap, and this same decorative treatment runs around the vamp-line, outside counter and top.

The Regal Reproduction is an exact copy of the Original Hand Made English Model. The two shoes are identical in appearance—from the invisible eyelets to the steel slugged heels.

The upper leather in Bartley's original is an Imported Calfskin tanned in Oisterwyk, Holland, and in the Regal Reproduction we use the same identical tannage.

But there is a difference. Bartley & Sons' shoe is made and sewn by hand. Our shoes are sewn by the same machine as practically all high-priced American shoes. In Bartley's shop only 4 men handle the shoe from the time it is cut until it is finished. In our factory, about 150 different persons perform some operation on a Regal shoe.

E. J. Reiss
President, Regal Shoe Co.

Mexican Commission Vacates Heavy Title

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 19.—(AP.)—The National Boxing Commission of Mexico yesterday cancelled the boxing license of the Spanish Fighter, Andres Castano, and declared the heavyweight championship of Mexico, which Castano held, vacant, as the result of the Spaniard's actions in his bout with Harry Wills last Sunday.

Castano refused to continue the fight with Wills when the American, apparently not hearing the bell, struck him after the first round had ended. The bout was awarded to Castano on a foul.

BOATS IN RIVER RACE

BATON ROUGE, La., Sept. 19.—(AP.)—The two Baton Rogue entries in the outboard motor boat race up the Mississippi River from New Orleans to St. Louis were leading the field neck-and-neck north of Vidalia, La., this morning, according to word received here. The Vivian G touched that point at 7:05 a. m., and left at 7:50, after refueling. The Hombru stopped at Vidalia at 7:09, and left at 7:48.

DAVIES INVITED TO TOURNEY

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—In an effort to untangle the flyweight situation, Matchmaker Tom McArdle of Madison Square Garden yesterday announced he is planning a championship elimination series to establish the status of all title claimants and bringing forth an undisputed ruler.

The first round of the tourney will be staged in the Garden early in November. Invitations have been extended to Corporal Izzy Schwartz, who is rated the world champion in New York state; Willie La Morte, the official world champion in New Jersey; Frankey Genaro, who is the titleholder in so far as the National Boxing Association is concerned; Willie Davies of Charleroi, Pa., who all but knocked out Schwartz in a recent fight; Eugene Huat, European champion who is here seeking action; Black Bill of Cuba, Steve Rocco and Frenchy Belanger, both of Canada.

DAVIES NOT INTERESTED

Jim Buchanan, of Charleroi, manager of Willie Davies, today declared he had not yet received an invitation to enter Davies in the proposed lightweight tournament in New York and that he was not especially interested, anyway.

"There are several fellows in the list of those expected to compete who have no right to be in such an elimination," Buchanan said. "So far as Willie is concerned, he is interested mainly in getting a creack at Frankie Genaro and Corp. Izzy Schwartz at the class weight. He already has beaten both decisively in non-title matches. Why should he have to compete against a lot of second-raters for the right to box these so-called leaders again?"

Buchanan said Davies would rest up about a month to give his cut left eye a good chance to heal fully. He has offers for a match at Toronto, Canada, and for a bout with Speedy Dado at Los Angeles.

Benny Bass Fouled; Jadick, Wallace Win

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 19.—Benny Bass, former featherweight champion, won on a foul over Armando Santiago, the Filipino, in the second round of a scheduled 10-round bout at the Phillies' baseball park here last night. Santiago rushed from his corner at the start of the round and sank two rights to the body, one of them foul. Enraged fans in the crowd of 15,000 threatened trouble, but were quieted.

Johnny Jadick gained a 10-round decision over Lope Tonerio. Billy Wallace, former Cleveland fighter, won the second bout when he outclassed Bruce Flowers, the dusky gladiator from New Rochelle, in 10 rounds.

Night Grid Game At New Castle Tomorrow

NEW CASTLE, Pa., Sept. 19.—Coach Phil Bridenbaugh's Red and Black will clash with Joe Hartman's Grove City High at Ben Franklin Stadium tomorrow night at 8:30. It will be the first high school football tilt staged during the night in the East. Fourteen big floodlights will make the grid as plain as daylight. Bridenbaugh's team will be a green outfit. Only Cicone, center, remains from last year's varsity. McAuley, who got in some games, will play quarterback. Grove City has 10 letter men in the game. Last year New Castle won, 51 to 7.

WESSELL LEADS

KAUFFMANN TIES FOR FOURTH

By VERN SWARTSFAGER

It was a little guy, Dick Wessell, member of this year's national public links team which played in St. Louis, who set the pace in the 36-hole qualifying round of the golf championship of the city, which started over the Schenley Park municipal links yesterday. Dick registered a 73 and followed it up with a brilliant 69, three over par, for a 142 total, to win the honor on the first day's play.

Bob Graham, an outstanding favorite to dethrone the reigning titlist, was runner-up with 70-73—143, and Mike Galido was third with 70-74—144. Both Graham and Galido also were on the national open.

Carl F. Kauffmann, National public links champion for the last three years, rather stumbled for a while in endeavoring to qualify again yesterday, but managed to squeeze up among the leaders, deadlocking with Mike Evans and Joe Curto, who won the first Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph William Randolph Hearst junior amateur championship two years ago, at 146. Kauffmann had a 75 and 71, Evans shot a 72 and 74 and Curto needed a pair of 73s.

Other qualifiers and their scores were Joe Natalie, 147; S. Walter Phillips, 148; R. G. Barr, 150; Joe Platt, 150; Francis Lally, 151; Jim Ryan, 151; Marty Boschert, 153 and John Cohen, 154. Four were tied at 155, Dick Brown, H. G. Olsen, Tom Dunn and T. Polito, for two places and played off this morning before the first round of match play started.

Ryan is playing Curto; Natalie drew a bye; Evans and Phillips are matched; Barr is fighting Lally; Graham is battling Boschert; Kauffmann is meeting Platt; Wessell is taking on Galido, and Cohen drew a bye in today's match play. The field, numbering 100, is the largest ever to play in the championship since its inception eight years ago.

OAKMONT LEADS

The Women's Golf Association of Western Pennsylvania staged another team match yesterday, Section 1 clubs clashing at the Allegheny Country Club. Another has been slated for Monday at Fox Chapel.

Stanton Heights trimmed Fox Chapel, 17 to 0; Edgewood defeated the Pittsburgh Field Club, 10 to 6, and Oakmont walloped Allegheny, 10 to 5. As a result Oakmont takes the lead in the section by a scant margin, having 41 points to Edgewood's 40. The Field Club has 25, Fox Chapel 23, and Allegheny 21.

Answered By

AL ESPINOSA

Florida West Coast Champion. Tied for LaJolla Open; Mid-American Open, P. G. A. Qualifying Medal, 1928.

The proper method of playing a downhill putt is to play the ball off the right foot, hitting the ball on the heel of the club. This will give the ball a sort of back spin effect, instead of the overspin, which one gets when the hit is in the center of the blade. This play, hitting it off the heel, gives much better control.

FITZGERALD WINS

OAKLAND, Cal., Sept. 19.—(AP.)—Freddie Fitzgerald, rugged 145 pounder of Columbus, O., scored a technical knockout over Young Harry Wills, hard punching San Diego Negro, in the eighth round of their scheduled 10-round bout here last night.

PANTHER SQUAD POLISHES UP TODAY

CAMP HAMILTON, WINDBER, Pa., Sept. 19.—Pitt's 'varsity football candidates will apply the finishing touches to their preliminary training work here today and tomorrow. Following a rather unsatisfactory scrimmage on Tuesday, Coach Jock Sutherland, yesterday elected to drill his players on the fundamentals and devoted the afternoon to perfecting blocking, charging and tackling technique and to tackle and end play.

Yesterday's light workout should have the Panther squad in condition for a long scrimmage today, in which the 'Varsity will attempt to prove that the superior play of the reserves in their game day before yesterday was all a mistake.

Edwards, Baker, Rooney, Parkinson, and Uansa, Pitt's quintet of better than average punters, did their stuff yesterday while the linemen were absorbing rudimentary instruction.

The camp freshmen are rather uneasy today, as the traditional initiation ceremony, inappropriately known as the "boat race," is reported to be on the program of entertainment tonight.

Charley Bowser, first assistant to Coach Jock Sutherland, was removed to the Windber City Hospital yesterday. Bowser, suffering from a badly infected arm, was reported in an improved condition today.

FLANAGANS GOOD

Unless signs fail, Buckhannon, West Virginia, will be put on the football map again this fall when the Flanagan twins, Thayer and Latham, strut their stuff for the battling Scotchmen of Carnegie Tech Both are possessed with loads of natural ability, which is expected to be brought out during the coming campaign. They are brothers of Hoot Flanagan, who starred for the University of Pittsburgh eleven a few years back.

Right now Thayer or Slats has the inside track for the halfback position. He has looked impressive in the workouts and Coaches Wally Steffen and Bob Waddell have expressed satisfaction with his work. He would have won a regular berth last year had it not been for the excellent play of Cyril Letzelter, who has been lost by graduation.

FIGHTING SPIRIT AT WASH-JEFF

ends. Secrist, game and strong, has been on the very verge of stardom for two years. This may be his season. He has the fight and the spirit, a lot of class. All he needs is a break or two.

Irwin, who played some last fall, is getting the call at the other terminal, with McNeil and Updegraff pressing him hard for starting honors.

THE TACKLES

Capt. Douds, of course, if his legs hold up, will be at his old tackle position as much an all-American as ever, Douds' ability is known . . . if his pins behave, he'll do on any man's club. Jap is down to his best weight, tipping the beam at 192 pounds.

Levine, a dependable lineman last year, is expected to show to even better advantage this fall, and will be paired off with the captain. Levine, too, goes 190 pounds, which gives Wash-Jeff enough weight to care for any lack of heft which may develop at the ends.

Newby and Don Malcom, veterans, will put the tackle reserve situation on a strong basis, and this pair will be greatly aided by Symons, Kelly and O'Reilly from the freshman team.

THE GUARDS

Cochran and Hensle and Beahm and Pollock, the holdover guards from previous seasons, are having a hard battle for the guard jobs. Hensle, lacking weight and size, is as aggressive a man as there is on the squad, and despite his lack of bulk, is a prime favorite for one of the starting positions. Beahm and Pollock, big chaps, but lacking the fire and dash, may get in there, but they must stave off the defiant challenges of Demas and Trapuzzano, sophomore aspirants for varsity berths.

Cochran, light but fast, cannot be counted out, and will see action a'plenty.

THE CENTER

The center situation is very doubtful. Saul Lipman, 180, and Rigney, a 175-pounder, are fighting it out for the position, with Lipman getting first call at present. If these men develope, the two of 'em may fill the bill, but should they fail to come through (though there is nothing to indicate that they will not) Bill and Ray will have a very difficult problem on their hands.

Washington and Jefferson's schedule, after the first two games, looms as being extremely rocky. The season will open September 29, Ohio Northern invading College Field here in unknown strength. Following this game another Ohio eleven, Ashland, trampled by Tech a year ago, will meet the Presidents. After that—the deluge.

SIX HARD GAMES

Bucknell at Lewisburg; Tech at Pittsburgh; Lafayette at home; Temple at Philadelphia and Pitt at Pittsburgh . . . there you have the mid-season card of the Red and Black. For all its spirit and potential class, and for all the smooth and brainy directing by Bill and Ray, if the team comes through these five games with, say, three triumphs, it should be hailed with the greatest of glee by the followers of the Prexy banner.

Following the Pitt game, Pittenberg will be played at home and the season will be closed with the annual struggle with West Virginia at Morgantown on Thanksgiving Day.

The Prexys have discarded their red and black tiger-striped jerseys in favor of new ones, bright red with white block numerals in back and black rosin pads on the sides. The socks, and Ride and Amos have issued orders that they be worn, are plain red. Helmets will be black.

Ride and Amos are in direct control with the famous Fats Henry, former all-American tackle star, in charge of the freshmen.

WHITAKERS LOSE

The Whitaker Club met defeat at the hands of Mine Safety, 5-0, in an elimination series game last evening. Gettings was stellar on the mound.

BRITISH STOCK MARKET IN DOLDRUMS

London Professionals Turn To U. S. and Canadian Shares for Activity

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER

(Copyright, 1929, Universal Service, Inc.)

LONDON, Sept. 18.—With the local money market starved for credit, there is little incentive here to speculate in domestic securities, which have been in the doldrums. Professionals and their more venturesome customers, who abhor inactivity, have been concentrating their financial energy on American and Canadian stocks.

The motive for saying, "Go West, young man," to their capital funds has been primarily economic, for the Britons recognize that the "big play" has been in the equities of the New World.

However, some of the sagest financiers here assert that political considerations have also operated to expedite the interest in American and Canadian stocks.

Asked what the city (the London financial district) thought about the Labor government, headed by Ramsay MacDonald, a member of the stock exchange replied to me:

"The Labor party is doing rather too well to suit us. It has enormously strengthened its prestige with the people, particularly since Philip Snowden's dramatic victory at The Hague. Five years ago, when the Labor party was in, the attitude of the city was 'let them make a fool of themselves, and the country will soon be sick of them.' But this time, the Labor party is doing so well that, if on the first break in Parliament it should go back to the electorate, it would be returned as a majority government. Then, in my opinion, it would be far more dangerous to conservative business than at present as a minority government. For the party still advocates a capital levy, and mere discussion of it, if Labor were a majority party, might result in a loss of business confidence and in a sizable flight of capital."

BUY AS INVESTMENT

The deadlock in domestic stocks here is ascribable mainly to high interest rates. Since the Briton buys stocks chiefly for dividend return, rather than future prospects, there is no incentive to pay from 1 to 3 per cent more to borrow funds than the acquired stocks would return. On this basis, stocks held on borrowed funds would not pay their board.

In the United States, stocks are bought mainly with an eye on earning power, present and prospective. Over here, 90 per cent of the purchasers buy on the basis of dividends paid. This is partly ascribable to the fact that there is a large class of rentiers here—persons who live on the income of their investments, whereas in the United States there is a vast speculative public which is motivated by the idea of gradually building up an estate for the future. The British, partly influenced by the American example, are giving more attention to corporate earning power than before the war. Institutions and especially well qualified individuals of course seek to ascertain earning power, but the lay investor here is only interested in that portion of earnings which is regularly meted out in the form of dividends. The stocks of numerous prime companies here are now available on a 5 to 6 per cent yield basis before taxes of 20 per cent, whereas numerous highly exploited American stocks are giving a current return of 3 per cent or less.

Of course, the American security market is unique. The stock exchanges in London, Paris and Berlin have comparatively thin markets, with a relatively small floating supply. The foreign markets are chiefly clearing houses for outright buyers, some of whom, of course, are not adverse to turning an honest penny by trading from one issue to another. But there is nothing like the widespread popular interest in speculative buying of securities, as there is in the United States. "Instead," one banker remarked to me, "the English people play the horse races and bet on football."

DISTRIBUTION CHEAPER

London security vendors distribute new issues much more economically than the American houses because they are really only order takers. Under the rules of the stock exchange, member houses here may sell only with those to whom they have been personally introduced. Accordingly there is no attempt to dragnet the country through advertising and security salesmen. A few American houses here tried to introduce home methods of selling, but the conservative English investors resented the innovation. Their viewpoint is that, if they want securities, they will go to their bank and broker to get them, not wishing salesmen to come to them on their own initiative.

The British are paying a heavy price for their lack of progressive spirit. Even the broad experience of English bankers is partly a handicap, for vastly new conditions prevail in the world money markets. One leading British economist told me that British industry was suffering from the continuance of mummies in office at the top. He felt that death and adversity would tend to awaken the British to the need of scientific reorganization of industry in accordance with modern labor-saving machinery and the new technology. Already the trades unions, which used to oppose such innovations, are slowly coming to recognize that to keep its place in the sun Britain will have to modernize its industrial technique. There is already a significant gradual trend in that direction.

Stock Exchange Topics

High-Priced Securities Lead Fresh Upturn In Market.

It was a fine day for the bulls, who found little in the way of opposition developing to their efforts for higher levels. Speculation for the rise switched rapidly from one group of favorites to another until the general run of industrial and specialty favorites had been whirled up for gains of 2 to around 8 points. American Telephone and Telegraph, again held the bulk of interest in early dealings as it soared to new peak levels, steel later aspiring to the position of leadership, a place which was hotly contested for by other old line industrial pivots such as American Can, General Electric, Air Reduction and others.

Some of the one-time popular mediums of speculation were conspicuous for the reason that bullish effort was not productive of the same progress as marked the day in most directions. The Motors, for example, did not respond very eagerly to constructive effort, and the Oils similarly were unable to get very far, both these groups appearing to meet persistent pressure of offerings. Backwardness of the Motors could be ascribed readily enough to the report of trade journals that dealers' stocks are increasing, while yesterday's oil statistics offered ample explanation for the disappointing action of those issues.

WALL street guessed right again on the Bank of England rate this week and found further reason for satisfaction in the improvement revealed in the institution's weekly condition statement. Though the bank's figures revealed a further moderate loss of gold, the effect of this depletion was offset by reductions in circulation, holdings of discounted bills and shrinkage in deposits. The net result was an improvement in the reserve ratio to 29.7 per cent from 27.7 per cent a week ago, and the low of 22.0 per cent reached about a month ago. The French bank statement again showed its gold holdings substantially increased on the week.

Consolidated Gas came to the fore as the center of heavy buying in the utility group. Revived rumors of a deal by that company for the acquisition of Brooklyn Union were denied by both sides yesterday, and there was nothing in the way of fresh news to account for the strength in the stock. Interest was aroused, however, by the heavy buying of the "rights," which developed prior to the advance in the stock. Several large blocks of the rights, one involving 50,000, changed hands.

REPORTS that a private block of stock of Jones & Laughlin Steel will be offered to the public has revived reports that the company will merge with some other big steel unit. It is a pure guess. Rumors that Jones & Laughlin would consolidate with some other company have been current from time to time ever since the U. S. Steel Corporation was organized. True, certain interests have negotiated for the purchase of Jones & Laughlin, but such negotiations came to naught. The last report was that Bethlehem Steel was endeavoring to bring about a merger, but the rumor, like others, was flatly denied.

Reports are again afloat that Congoleum will be merged with Johns Manville and General Asphalt. It will be recalled that from time to time official denials of pending combinations along these lines have been issued. However, rumors now are to the effect that they are nearer consummation than ever. Aside from this, it is said that improving trend of earnings of Congoleum justify higher prices for the stock. In the initial six months of this year the company earned approximately 55 cents a common share, but indications are the second half results might equal well above $1.50 a share.

Lead Shipments Gain in August

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—Domestic shipments of lead in August totaled 68,386 short tons against 62,802 tons in July and 57,715 in June, according to the American Bureau of Metal Statistics.

Structural Steel Business Expands

Structural steel awards totaled 50,000 tons last week against 44,000 tons the preceding week. Inquiries amounted to about 57,000 tons, against only 26,000 tons the preceding week.

Weirton Steel Merger Nears Completion

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

DEFINITE assurance that an agreement for the consolidation of the Weirton Steel Company with the Great Lakes Steel Corporation and some of the subsidiaries of the M. A. Hanna Company will be completed within the next 10 days was given in semi-official sources last night following the publication of reports that negotiations are under way. While an agreement has not actually been signed, the successful conclusion of negotiations is practically certain.

All of the properties of the M. A. Hanna Company will not be included in the merger, it was made known yesterday. The Weirton Steel Company has very extensive coal holdings which were increased recently by a purchase from the J. H. Hillman interests. For this reason none of the coal properties of the Hanna organization are to be taken over by the new company.

The subsidiary organizations of the Hanna Company which are slated to go into the merger own seven blast furnaces as well as ore mines and lake transportation facilities.

To Form Holding Company

NO CHANGE will take place in the capital structure of any of the individual companies. A holding company will be formed which will exchange its stock for stock of the various units. The new company will have no bonded indebtedness, no preferred stock and no debts but the subsidiary obligations. There will be no new financing. Offices will be maintained in Cleveland, Detroit and Pittsburgh.

The control probably will be vested in executives of the three merging organizations. It is understood that E. T. Weir, president of the Weirton Steel Company, will be chairman of the board; George M. Humphrey, president of the M. A. Hanna Company, chairman of the executive committee, and George R. Fink, president of Great Lakes, will be president of the holding company.

Basis for Expansion

THE consolidated organization will be the sixth largest steel producer in the United States. The organization will have ore, coal and pig iron production far in excess of the steel-making capacity of the Weirton Steel Company and the Great Lakes Steel Corporation.

While officials would not comment on this fact, it is quite evident that the merger creates an organization in a position to undertake a very extensive expansion program if such a step should be found desirable. The extremely simple capital structure would make financing of new plants a very easy matter.

Eaton Not Considered

IT WAS admitted yesterday that attempts have been made by the Eaton interests at various times to interest those in control of Weirton to make their company a part of the proposed Republic-Youngstown-Inland steel merger. These propositions have never been considered sufficiently interesting, however, for negotiations to reach more than a preliminary stage.

Apparently Weirton is laying a foundation for a company which can compete on a very satisfactory basis with any of the organizations now existing in the steel industry or with any that may be formed as a result of mergers now being brewed.

Raw Materials

THE reserves of materials of the new company are particularly impressive. The holdings of ore will be exceeded only by those of the United States Steel Corporation and the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, and will be larger than any but the Steel Corporation's in annual production. Weirton's coal holdings amount to 7,000 acres in West Virginia and Pennsylvania, an estimated reserve for 40 to 50 years.

The total ingot capacity will approximate 1,800,000 tons, of which Weirton will supply 1,200,000 tons and Great Lakes 600,000 tons. This will place the holding corporation slightly under the Republic Iron and Steel Company, which now rates as the fifth largest producer in the United States.

Water transportation will play an important part in the operations of the organization. The Hanna furnaces in Buffalo can receive ore by boat and coal by rail, or rail and water, and can ship to the Eastern seaboard by the Erie Canal. Weirton, situated on the Ohio River, receives its coal by water and can ship by barge to Cincinnati, St. Louis and other Ohio and Mississippi River cities and can enter the South and Southwest with a saving of $2 to $3 a ton over all-rail transportation costs.

Bank of England Rate Unchanged

LONDON, Sept. 19.—The minimum rate of discount of the Bank of England remains at 5½ per cent.

STEEL ORDERS IMPROVED

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Sept. 19.—Valley steel makers advise that new business for fourth quarter delivery is coming forward in improved volume. Prices are being well sustained on contracts and no indications of resistance to the market has developed. Steel company backlogs are improving, and it is expected will be substantially higher at the end of this month than for some time.

Current production situation is satisfactory. Makers see an active fall, especially in some lines which are now showing irregularity.

Sheets and steel pipe are still leaders in the current market, tinplate is suffering from a seasonal decline, while strip buying is sustained by Ford Motor requirements. Producers in this area see nothing ahead which might disturb business, and anticipate a satisfactory final quarter.

Singer Profits for Year Are Lower

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—(AP.)—The net profits of the Singer Manufacturing Company for the year ending December 31, 1928, amounted to $23,963,688, compared with $25,599,480 for the previous year. The 1928 profits were equal to $26.62 a share on the 900,000 $100 par shares against $28.44 on the same basis in 1927.

STOCKS BOUND UP AS MONEY GOES DOWN

Rate Reduced to 8 Per Cent—Solvents Leaps 106 Points, Then Slips

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—(AP.) — Lowering of call money rates and favorable trade news provided the background for another advance in prices in today's stock market.

A sprinkling of high priced specialties were whirled upward in spectacular fashion, while the general list moved up 1 to 8 points under the leadership of the public utilities.

Call money renewed at 10 per cent but the supply became so plentiful that the rate was dropped to 9, to 8 and then to 7, indicating the passing of the mid-month credit stringency. Retention of the Bank of England 5½ per cent discount rate, removing fears of a further drain on credit here, had a bullish effect on speculative sentiment, as did the announcement of another huge bank merger involving the National City and Corn Exchange banks.

SOLVENTS SOARS

Commercial Solvents was the spectacular feature, soaring 106 points to 700, as contrasted with the year's low of 225¼, but it quickly fell back to 660 on profit-taking. Otis Elevator soared 20¾ points to 445¾. Air Reduction 11½ to 217⅞ and Anchor Cap preferred 9 to 148, all new high records.

While the spectacular advances in these and other issues stimulated speculative activity on the part of small traders, several of the large commission houses continued to urge caution in the making of new commitments, pointing out that the rapidity of the recent advance in many stocks had weakened their technical position. Attention also was called to the possibility of a renewal of agitation to restrict the volume of speculative credit when Congress reconvenes next week.

Atlas Powder, American Telephone, National Biscuit, Gillette Safety Razor, Fidelity-Phenix Insurance, American International, Columbian Carbon, Consolidated Gas, Montgomery Ward and General Electric all sold 5 to 9 points higher.

Westinghouse Electric, Continental Insurance, American and Foreign Power, Owens-Illinois Glass, Peoples Gas, Brooklyn Union Gas, United States Steel, New York Central, Bangor and Aroostook and Eastman Kodak all sold 3 to 4¾ points above yesterday's final quotations.

MAIL ORDERS STRONG

Strength of the mail order and farm implement stocks was attributed in part to the expected increased purchasing power of the American farmers.

There were several soft spots scattered throughout the list. Auburn Auto, which rallied 29 points yesterday, broke 14. Vanadium Steel dropped 3½, Simmons Company 3 and Baltimore and Ohio, Allis Chalmers, International Business Machines and Texas and Pacific sold down 2 points or more.

Northeast Electric Sale Authorized

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Sept. 19.—(AP.)—Sale of the Northeast Electric Company of this city to General Motors Corporation for approximately $13,000,000 was authorized at a meeting of stock holders of the local concern today. The basis of exchange is five shares of Northeast preferred stock for four shares of General Motors preferred and three shares of Northeast common for two shares of General Motors common stock. The Northeast Electric Company manufactures automotive electrical equipment on a large scale.

August Business Record Reported

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—(AP.) —Business activity in August was reported in the monthly survey of the Department of Commerce today to have been higher than in any other similar period on record.

"Commercial transactions, as indicated by the volume of checks passing through the banks for payment," the survey said, "were higher than were reported for any previous August on record."

FINANCIAL NEWS AND VIEWS

Chase Dividends.

A yearly dividend disbursement of $21,000,000 by the Chase Bank organization is called for by the new rate on stock of the Chase National Bank and Chase Securities Corporation established through the recent declaration of quarterly dividends aggregating $1 per share, payable October 1, next. There are 5,250,000 shares of $20 par value stock of the Chase National Bank outstanding and an equal number of shares of the no par value stock of Chase Securities Corporation. Each shareholder of the Chase National Bank is also the holder of a like number of shares of Chase Securities Corporation, the shares being inseparable. The new dividend rate represents a return of $4 per share per year for each unit of Bank and Securities Corporation stock held.

Procter and Gamble.

Interest in Procter and Gamble is attributed to the probability that this company will eventually be found within the circle of standard brands. The purchase of a large block of the stock by the house of Morgan this summer is believed reason enough to assume that the company will be consolidated with the other so-called Morgan food interests. Procter and Gamble have a successful group of well-known products which undoubtedly would profit from contact with the Fleischmann distributive system.

Life Insurance Sales.

New life insurance business for August, as reported by the Association of Life Insurance Presidents, amounted to $1,017,113,000, a gain of 16 per cent of the $876,885,000 worth of new business written in August, 1928. A large increase in new group insurance also was reported, the figure for last month being $99,772,000, compared with $56,926,000 for the corresponding month last year.

August Rubber Consumption.

Consumption of crude rubber of all classes by manufacturers in the United States during August is estimated by the Rubber Manufacturers' Association at 38,274 long tons, compared with an estimated consumption of 41,526 tons in July. Imports totaled 38,292 long tons, compared with 44,252 in July and 29,805 in August, 1928.

General Tire Prospering.

The General Company closed the third quarter with sales at the highest point of the year. While August was the company's peak month for sales in 1928, sales in August this year have been 20 per cent over the same period last year. Sales for the first three quarters have shown an increase of a little less than 10 per cent over the same period in 1928.

Lima Locomotive.

Business of Lima Locomotive Works has been running well ahead of last year and indications are the company will have a fairly satisfactory year. The company is currently operating on a profitable basis, earnings for the first eight months of this year alone being sufficient to indicate a balance will be shown for the capital stock this year.

RUSTLESS IRON CONTINUES ADVANCE

Shares in Urgent Demand In Early Trading Here; Blaw Knox Scores Again

A further upturn in International Rustless Iron and continued strength in Blaw Knox were noted in the early trading on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange today.

Rustless Iron came into the market strong with a fairly large block changing hands at 7¾ as against last night's close at 7¼. Demand for the issue was rather urgent and subsequent trading took the price up to 8½ in the first hour. Buying of the stock was said to be for account of traders anticipating a performance by this stock similar to the sensational activities in Copperweld Steel a few weeks ago. Copperweld people are interested in Rustless Iron and there are reports that negotiations are under way for purchase of a large plant in this district at which the rustless iron will be produced on a much larger scale than is possible with present facilities.

Announcement that Goldman-Sachs Trading had taken a large block of Blaw Knox stimulated that issue, but there was no spectacular activity in the shares.

Wholesale Prices Lower in August

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—(AP.)—Wholesale prices of leading commodities last month were one-third of 1 per cent below the figure for July and were more than 1 per cent lower than in August, 1928.

Using prices in 1926 as 100, the Bureau of Labor Statistics announced that its weighted index number for August was 97.7, with 98 for July and 98.9 for August, 1928.

Based on these figures, the purchasing power of the dollar in August was 102.4, compared with 100 in 1926.

Electric P. and L. Earnings Increase

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—(AP.)—The Electric Power and Light Corporation, a member of the Electric Bond and Share group of companies, reports net income for the year ending June 30, 1929, amounted to $9,242,693. Compared with $7,763,804, for the preceding year. The earnings were equal after preferred dividends, to about $2.78 a share on 1,792,666 common shares, as against approximately $2.06 on 1,776,726 common shares in the previous year.

CHICAGO BOARD

CHICAGO, Sept. 19.—Helped by improved export demand for shipments from North America, wheat prices averaged higher today, though sagging at the finish. About 1,000,000 bushels of wheat was estimated to have been taken today from Canada and the United States to be forwarded overseas both from the Atlantic and Pacific coasts. Toward the end of the day, however, a forecast of fresh rainfalls in Argentina tended to ease the market here.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—The cotton market opened steady today at a decline of 1 to 6 points with December contracts selling off to 18.73c or into new low ground for the present movement under further liquidation and southern selling, which was evidently influenced by relatively easy Liverpool cables and a more favorable view of the weather news.

The decline to the 18¾c level for December appeared to bring in an increased trade demand, however, and the market steadied up on covering. Early losses were just about recovered by the end of the first half hour, with the active months selling a point or two above yesterday's closing quotations.

Liverpool cables said there had been calling supplied by some hedging and Bombay selling in the Liverpool market, but reported a maintained demand for cotton cloths from India and further buying for South America.

Reports that trade buying had been largely responsible for absorption of the early offerings and the failure of better weather reports to bring in a greater volume of selling, appeared to stimulate covering and some commission house buying later in the morning.

Trading was not active, but the market held very steady with prices showing net advances of about 5 to 7 points at midday when December was selling at 18 [illegible].

EVENING SUN-TELEGRAPH MARKETS

Forbes

Big Things Brewing in Oil Trade

—By B. C. FORBES—

GOOD oil shares are regarded in investment circles as being on a sounder investment basis than the shares in any other division of the stock market, but as they have been "dead" for so long, they appeal so little to speculators who want quick action. For my part, I feel safer in buying substantial oil stocks for long-hold investment than in buying industrial or utility or even railway issues, which have enjoyed sensational advances.

SOONER or later the oil industry will come into its own. Gross over production will not be tolerated forever. President Hoover is too sensible a businessman to sit idly by throughout his term of office and see so vital a national resource wasted on a shocking scale. Considerations of national defense alone will by and by compel action should the industry itself and state bodies fail to check the unconscionable evil.

APART from this, however, is the fundamental consideration that no industry whose product is in constantly expanding demand can permanently remain in the doldrums. Few commodities exceed oil in consumption growth. And this growth is certain to continue as the world harnesses more and more machinery, stationary and transportation, to do its work and supply its pleasure.

MORE, all indications are that the oil industry is entering a consolidation era. It is entirely possible that we shall shortly witness the creation of oil combinations even greater than any industrial or utility consolidation yet effected.

J. P. Morgan & Company, whose activities in utility and other fields have assumed colossal proportions, have turned to oil, and the financial world looks for far-reaching developments.

Col. Robert W. Stewart, ousted by the Rockefellers from the command of Standard Oil of Indiana, is a man of tremendous force, and it may well be that there is foundation for current reports that he is preparing to organize a huge combination of "independents" to combat Standard Oil.

ALONG with oil shares I would class those of natural gas companies. I happen to know that certain projects of unmatched magnitude are about to be launched by very powerful oil-and-gas interests. Already fortunes have been made from natural gas, but much bigger developments are planned.

The investor who looks ahead should not ignore the shares of companies owning extensive natural gas properties.

ONE elementary rule for making money in the stock market is: buy common shares of the best companies in an industry which is suffering from temporary depression

This rule has no appeal for those who want simply to gamble, to buy stocks one week in the hope of selling them at profit the next week. Admittedly, a vast amount of money has been made easily and quickly by this method during the long-sustained dull market in many stocks. But it is becoming more difficult to get rich quickly by such gambling.

If and when the general market slumps, seasoned oil stocks which have been neglected for several years will suffer less than myriads of stocks which have been boomed aggressively.

DURING the current year advances in oils have not exceeded declines to the same extent as in other groups. The following tables bring out how representative oil stocks stand today as compared with their year-end level:

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—(AP.)—Trading facilities of the curb exchange were overwhelmed today by a wild outburst of bullish enthusiasm centering in selected utilities and industrials and some of the investment trusts. Operations for the advance were stimulated by the rapid rally of leading issues on the "Big Board" yesterday, retention of the 5½ per cent discount rate by the Bank of England, and easier call money. By early afternoon, the curb ticker was approximately 40 minutes behind the transactions.

Following is the list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange, giving all stocks and bonds traded (00 omitted in sales column of stock list; 000 omitted in sales column of bond list):

MAY STORES IN GOOD TRADE POSITION

Enjoying More Normal Business With Construction Program About Completed

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—May Department Stores has been enjoying more normal business in 1929 following a year of expansion in which sales were hampered by construction work and expenses increased.

While it is difficult to estimate profit of department stores without an indication of the earnings from all-important Christmas trade, profits of the May chain this year should be close to their former level of around $6,800,000 and may run even more if the winter months are as successful as hoped.

On this basis the showing for this year should be between $5.50 and $6 a share on the 1,160,645 shares outstanding, against $5,785,062, or $4.96 a share earned in the fiscal year ended January 1, 1929.

WORK INTERFERED

During 1928 the normal momentum of the business was retarded by extensive changes being made in two of the company's most important units, while the recently acquired Baltimore store had not had time to reach a profitable operating basis. New construction at the St. Louis store which adds substantially to sales space, interfered with the business of this unit while the sales volume and profits of the large Akron store were disrupted by the expenses of moving into a new and much larger building.

GAIN IN EARNINGS

In view of the narrow margin of profit earned by all department stores which ranges from an average of around 4 per cent or 5 per cent of sales to 8 per cent or 9 per cent in exceptionally successful stores, it is obvious that any additional expense or interruption to business will make a substantial reduction in the profits for the year. Now that May's unusual expenses are out of the way, normal earning power should be regained and ultimately increased considerably.

The following table of sales and earnings shows the steady progress that the company has made in recent years and indicates what can be expected in the way of a gain in earnings this year:

Year End. Jan. 31	Sales	Net	A share
1929	$106,671,527	$5,785,062	$ 4.96
1928	102,756,197	6,498,927	5.56
1927	100,522,928	6,952,101	6.36
1926	97,177,891	6,800,311	12.39
1925	85,833,575	5,909,608	10.64
1924	90,997,655	6,680,543	12.10
1923	61,685,253	5,504,233	25.48
1922	58,891,659	4,052,893	18.14
1921	52,254,715	3,506,230	15.70
1920	57,962,444	5,506,346	33.64

Earnings per share are figured on 1,160,645 shares in 1929; 1,152,182 shares in 1928; 1,040,000 shares in 1927; 520,000 shares from 1926 to 1924 inclusive; 260,000 shares from 1923 to 1921 inclusive, and on 150,000 shares in 1920.

WEATHER FAVORABLE

In the three years previous to the 1929 fiscal year May has an average annual earning power of around $6,700,000 on a sales volume of about $100,000,000. Last year was a poor year for department stores all over the country due to unseasonable weather in both of the main fashion selling seasons, the spring and fall. In addition to this, May's business was hampered seriously by changes to store buildings. New selling space means new equipment and the scrapping of old fittings, which necessitates unusual write-offs.

While May probably will still have unusual charge-offs to be taken care of in the current year, the combination of seasonable weather, good business conditions in all of the cities where the stores of the chain are located and the advantages of new selling space should bring about a marked gain in profits in the current year.

PROFITS CONSISTENT

May's record of profits has been so consistent that there is no reason to think that the decline in profits last year was anything but temporary. A number of large department store chains which have shown declining earnings over the last few years probably have felt the results of increasing competition but with May, it seems probable that the upward trend in profits again should be re-established this year.

BUGS BAER Says

PROFESSOR GETS AN EARFUL.

ONE way to improve college education would be to have the professors dodge classes with the students.

"Bugs" Baer

One eminent brewer of thought and a scientific bender of twigs seems to have spent June, July and August pondering on the growing use of profanity by flappers, debutantes and women.

What's that got to do with algebra?

The professor says that exhaustive studies indicate that women are cussing more than ever.

As for ladies using cuss words, Professor, that's something we know nothing about.

The prof. must have gleaned his information in a higher stratum of society than that to which we cling by virtue of hard labor and everblooming instalments

We do not know the name of the lady who educated the professor in modern and ancient Billingsgate.

We do not know what she said.

We do not even know what the professor did.

If he was trying to do a cartwheel in a canoe, if he bounced his heavy brogans off her little tootsies in a barn dance, if he forgot to drive with one arm, then the lady was very correct in her choice of spoiled syntax.

If she chose to blister him with corrosive rhetoric, that's her business.

But, just because the professor is a punkola at a party, is no reason why he can make a national issue of it.

If the prof. wants to learn some bad language why doesn't he compile a thresaurus of the flippo epigrams stenciled on those yellow slickers worn by sophomores?

Then, the prof. would realize that insults are co-eduction.

Profanity is almost a share of the curriculum at many of our high-geared universities. The boys and girls matriculate in advanced English and graduate in hog Latin.

If the prof. has been stung at a spelling bee, it is an indication that this is no longer a masculine universe.

It is a man's world only up until the second the gin is served.

At present most police departments have enough clues on hand to last for years.

Nothing is so much bother to a police department as an embarrassing clue.

"The clairvoyant", says Sir Arthur, "can look at a weapon and get an impression of the appearance of the man who used it—for instance a blood-stained knife suggests a person with a black moustache wearing a brown suit."

WHY PITTSBURGH IS GREAT
Pittsburgh Public School Standards are the Highest

Group of Artists Here Has Aim of Civic Opera

An activity now progressing modestly, and not largely in the public eye, is that which is intended to give Pittsburgh its own opera company. It sang one opera last season and received so much encouraging comment that it has arranged for a complete season, which will open Monday evening, October 14, in Syria Mosque, with the presentation of "Riggoletto," one of Verdi's most tuneful works. Altogether, a series of 10 operas is the ambitious program of this organization, the Pittsburgh Grand Opera Company.

Persons prominent in the organization, including Frank Vittor, Pittsburgh sculptor, are promoting it as a purely civic organization, something that will add to the cultural and entertaining assets of Pittsburgh. Its artist personnel has as its structure Pittsburgh singers who will be augmented with the presentation of each opera by prominent singers of both sexes who have sung with the Metropolitan and Chicago Grand Operas.

The performances are to be on a pretentious scale with huge choruses and ballets, requiring, including principals, upwards of 200 performers. Capable persons have been put into the position of impressario, conductor of orchestra, conductor of chorus and director of ballet.

With such a groundwork, it would seem that all that is needed is the encouragement of the public to assure permanency of the opera as a Pittsburgh institution. It was under similar conditions that our orchestra began its career, an orchestra which showed merit in its first season, and great improvement in its second, according to our music critics.

We can have an opera in Pittsburgh if we support it. It should not be any more difficult for us than it is for Cincinnati, a city of less population, which maintains its own opera.

Nice Pickings

Who Will Get the Columbia River Power?

Under a plan called "The Hoover Plan" 190,031,722 acres now belonging to the national government will be given to the various states.

Nevada alone would get 53,410,938 acres. The President, of course, has a plan well thought out, based on expert knowledge and advice, in allowing the states to dispose of these gigantic properties.

BUT it is harder for the people generally to watch 48 state governments and 48 sets of state politicians than it would be to watch ONE United States government.

Who, for instance, will get the marvelous power sites on the Columbia River which now belong to Uncle Sam?

Power equivalent to several Niagaras is there, millions upon millions of horsepower, waiting for the corporation that knows how to offer the right inducements to receptive politicians.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

ARE you willing to let your youngster lead his own life?

OR DO YOU WANT HIM TO LIVE YOUR LIFE OVER AGAIN FOR YOU?

Are you willing to let him buy his own experience, build his own patterns? Or do you want him to remedy all YOUR mistakes, achieve all your thwarted ambitions, fulfill all YOUR dreams?

If you DON'T you're one parent in a million—according to Marjory. Marjory is an orphan of 25. She can't remember her parents, but she isn't grieving much over the fact. For Marjory works in an office with many other young people of her own age, and from their remarks she gathers that parents, even the kindest of parents, aren't the treat they might be.

"The majority of my friends," she writes, "are young folk from good, solid American homes. At noon we often discuss parents. I am rather curious about them, as I don't remember mine. But from all the things I hear and see, I'm counting myself lucky that I AM alone!

"MOST PARENTS, TO MY OPINION, REGARD A CHILD AS A MEDIUM THROUGH WHICH THEY CAN LIVE THEIR LIVES OVER AGAIN. They deliberately ignore the child's right to express ITSELF. All that in their lives they consider mistakes are to be corrected in the life of their offspring. THEY ENTIRELY OVERLOOK THE FACT THAT WHAT WAS WRONG FOR THEM MAY BE RIGHT FOR THE CHILD.

"For instance—a mother, when young, marries a poor man. She is not happy afterward. Her heart aches for the things money can buy. She cares nothing for love; her life is bitter. She wishes her daughter to marry for money. She cannot understand that to the daughter, love may be worth more than anything else. Then the daughter marries a poor man and is blissfully happy. Is the mother contented? Not on your life! SHE'S BITTER BECAUSE HER DAUGHTER DIDN'T CORRECT THE MISTAKE SHE MADE!

"Here's another example. A father had chosen law for his profession, but was not sucessful. He had a brother who was a tradesman and who made big money. The unsuccessful lawyer wishes that he, too, had gone in for business. He says to himself—'My boy shall be a tradesman. He shan't make the mistake I did. I'll advise him—I'll keep him from it.'

"The boy grows up and becomes interested in law. He tells his father that he intends to be a lawyer. "Heavens, no!" cries the father. "You can't do that. You'll never make the grade. Don't I know? I've tried it. No, no, son—you be a tradesman—that's the business."

"IT NEVER OCCURS TO DAD THAT SON CAN BE SUCCESSFUL WHERE HE FAILED. He imposes his will on the boy and the boy has no life of his own. He becomes Dad's puppet. Dad's living again in that fine young body. He is actually feeding his own secret ambition on that young life.

"You foolish parents—don't insist on living your life over again in your child's body. You may call that doing your duty, but you are really living on your children—LIKE CANNIBALS! Let them live their own lives. Let them make their mistakes—they need the fall so they can learn to walk. Remember, above all, they are THEMSELVES. CHILDREN ARE NOT THE REINCARNATION OF YOURSELF OR YOUR SECOND WHACK AT LIFE.

"MARJORY."

Well, you've heard Marjory. I've let her say her piece without help because she has done a much better job than I could possibly have done. And, in the vernacular of her day, she "certainly has said a mouthful." Do YOU agree with it? I'd like to know.

Bible Passages

Moses Is Born

(Exodus 2: 1-10)

AND there went a man of the house of Levi, and took to wife a daughter of Levi.

And the woman conceived, and bare a son: and when she saw him that he was a goodly child, she hid him three months.

And when she could not longer hide him, she took for him an ark of bulrushes, and daubed it with slime and with pitch, and put the child therein; and she laid it in the flags by the river's brink.

And the daughter of Pharaoh came down to wash herself at the river; and her maidens walked along by the river's side; and when she saw the ark among the flags, she sent her maid to fetch it.

And when she had opened it, she saw the child: and behold, the babe wept. And she had compassion on him, and said, This is one of the Hebrews' children.

Then said his sister to Pharaoh's daughter, Shall I go and call to thee a nurse of the Hebrew women, that she may nurse the child for thee?

And Pharaoh's daughter said to her, Go. And the maid went and called the child's mother.

And Pharaoh's daughter said unto her, Take this child away and nurse it for me, and I will give thee thy wages. And the woman took the child and nursed it.

And the child grew, and she brought him unto Pharaoh's daughter, and he became her son. And she called his name Moses: and she said, Because I drew him out of the water.

So she turned to her husband and started giving him reasons for buying that parrot, and calling him down for being a tightwad and everything. After an hour she turned on the proprietor. The poor guy was so nervous when she said, "Say, you ain't kidding us about this here parrot, are you? He ain't uttered a word since we been here, and I think he's deaf and dumb."

"No, lady, he ain't deaf and dumb, but he's awful polite. He won't interrupt a lady."

THE MAGIC OF SCIENCE

By Archibald Henderson

UNTIL recent years it was a sort of truism that the small and the great, the atom and the star, were the easiest things to understand. I hold in my hand a little pebble, a crystal, a fragment of matter. What is there to understand about this, so difficult or so insuperable? In five minutes we can tell all that we know about it. But we can't even tell when it was born, what cataclysmal forces may have formed it by incredibly great compressive force, what it has been doing all its life, how it came to be here in my hand, or what is going on inside of it.

We look at the moon through a telescope and behold merely a dead world, unchanging, presenting always the same appearance—mountains, valleys, craters, as instrumentality for reflecting the light of the sun and illuminating the world at night with a soft and beautiful light. In five minutes, again, we have told all that we know about the moon.

What is it that makes science so wonderful? The magic of science is to plumb the mysteries that lie back of the pebble and the planet. Many great treatises have been written about the moon; and many more will be written. Many scores of books and thousands of articles have been written, especially in recent years, about the atom. Science is wonderful because it represents an endless and detailed effort to discover the cosmic complexity within the elementally simple.

Edison is a famous inventor, who is especially noted for the multiplicity of his experiments. He would make literally thousands of experiments in order to discover the exact and complete truth about some one thing, and often a small thing. Edison has discovered as many things, probably, as anyone now living in this great scientific age. But what is his own view of the matter? Have we discovered almost all that we need to know? Hear what Edison says:

We do not know one-millionth of one per cent about anything. Why, we don't even know what water is. We don't know what light is. We don't know what gravitation is. We don't know what enables us to keep on our feet, to stand up. We don't know what electricity is. We don't know what heat is. We don't know anything about magnetism. We have a lot of hypotheses, but that's all. We are just emerging from the chimpanzee state mentally.

The poet in his own realm feels the immensity of the small, the mystery of the plain, the complexity of the simple. He seeks to solve the riddle of the universe by learning the whole truth about one tiny fragment of it. Tennyson's apostrophe to a blossom is eloquent of this attitude of mind:

Flower in the crannied wall
I pluck you from the crannies;
Hold you here root and all
In my hand,
Little flower, but if I could understand
What you are, root and all, and
All in all,
I should know what God and man is.

On one occasion Einstein was asked, "Supposing it were possible to discover all the properties of a grain of sand, would we then have gained a complete knowledge of the whole universe?"

Einstein's answer was an unconditional affirmative.

"For if we had completely and in a scientific sense learned the processes in the grain of sand, this would have been possible only on the basis of an exact knowledge of the laws of mechanical events in time and space. Tsese laws, differential equations, would be the most general laws of the universe, from which the quintessence of all other events would have to be deducible."

The magic of science is the search for the truth about the universe in a grain of sand.

"A Slave Is Not a Man"

So Said the Roman Empress, in Her Bath.

A CHINESE "FOOT-BEAUTY" EXPERT.

Beauty may be "only skin deep," but in these days there are considerable areas of surface to be made beautiful.

This lady of fashion has a Caucasian expert working to make her hair wavy, while an expert of the Mongolian race, a Chinese, looks after her feet, takes care of the toenails, cuts them nicely, polishes them.

What lovely woman does not display in these days is hardly worth mentioning, and it isn't much.

You may ask, "Why a Chinese expert on foot-beauty?"

We can only offer a guess.

It is rather a delicate thing for a lady, even a "modern" woman, to allow a man to handle her feet. But the KIND of man may make a difference.

An ancient Roman Empress, taking her bath, had male slaves walking about the bathroom. Rebuked, she replied, "A SLAVE is not a MAN."

She was mistaken, but that didn't change anything. Possibly this lady in the picture finds a difference between the Mongolian expert and a man of her own kind.

When this lady trots down the sand to the ocean in her bare feet or sits sipping her cocktail, with one bare leg crossed over the other bare leg, it comforts her considerably to know that the finest ruby from Burmah shines no more brightly than her polished toenails.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—The new glitter of the famous old Casino in Central Park has stirred up a political hornet nest and threatens to be a tormenting issue in Mayor Walker's campaign. When the inn opened several months ago it thumbed a figurative nose at the peasantry and invoked the thunder of tabloids.

The Casino has been drifting along with but fair success for years. It had the geographical and al fresco advantages of a Pre Catelan or Armenonville cafe in the Paris Bois but failed to click. Several years ago it was taken over by C. F. Zittel, known better as "Zit," a vaudeville commentator.

The building is owned by the city and operated by leasehold. Zit was reported to be making some progress when Mayor Walker's park commission suddenly gave the cafe privileges to a swanky set headed by A. J. Drexel Biddle, social scion of the family inspiring the visiting Englishman's query: "What is a Biddle?"

Zit filed a suit or so but the aristocrats won. And they called in Joseph Urban, wizard of decorators, handed him $500,000 and Mr. Urban shot the works. Few cafes touch it for scenic magnificence. Two orchestras are on tap and boys with round hair cuts are parked behind palms.

Presiding over its roped portals is Rene Black, who as Rene is a carpet kissing favorite in the upper circles in New York, California and Florida. According to the promoters the new Casino is to be a spot "around which the cultured life of the city can rotate." For a consideration, of course.

Those who are pouting at the eloquently sartorial mayor are for no exciting reasons, referring to it as his modern Versailles, where he will withdraw from the rigors of City Hall to hold court in state from time to time. It is but fair to chronicle there is no record of the mayor dining there so far.

Yet tales of class distinction on city-owned property has stirred the humble burghers. They see no reason why it should provide a background for the noble feasts of millionaires while the proletariat picnics among the gnats on the surrounding lawn.

Another picturesque municipally owned cafe is The Claremont, historically celebrated as the birthplace of Alexander Burr's daughter, Theodosia, who vanished at sea. It is a white frame building with glass enclosed porches and occupies a rise along the upper stretch of Riverside Drive. It is famous for Sunday morning breakfasts and afternoon teas. There are sweeps of surrounding greensward and an entrancing view of the rippling Hudson against the purplish cowl of the Jersey palisades. Another city owned cafe building is Hunter Island Inn, near Pelham in Westchester.

Montague Glass used to regale dinner parties with the tale of the amiable stew who wound up at the Lambs shortly after midnight. Everybody had gone to bed save a couple of gravely silent and deadpanned acrobats in checked clothes and gray derbies. He insisted they accompany him to his home at Great Neck for a little snack which his wife would be glad to prepare. He stressed her good humor over being aroused at all hours. When the three arrived, a scowling face appeared at the head of the stairs. Then the lady let go in vases, one catching the stay-out flush on the head and spinning him for two somersaults. As he sat up, he chirped to the acrobats: "Jolly little woman, always clowning!"

Is it because you feel that if there is punishment in the hereafter, you will warrant much of it?

Or is it the thought of leaving this world of material things for a world of which you have little real knowledge, and you have not enough belief in the Bible to give you confidence in the future?

Perhaps you do not want to miss the pleasures of this world.

And sometimes it is because of your love of members of your family that you dread to leave.

Are you so in love with mankind in general that you cannot contemplate leaving the human family without flinching?

Haven't you the wrong idea about death?

If you have lived a clean life, and blameless according to your lights, should you fear death?

Regret you will have, to be sure, if you love and are beloved.

But you are unfortunate if you have lived such a life that you cannot consider death without a feeling of fear.
